Truman Veto On Gas Bill

Senators of Missouri Were Opposed to the Kerr Measure

WASHINGTON, April 15 —(AP) — President Truman today vetoed the controversial Kerr natural gas bill, which had been strongly endorsed by some of his friends in Congress and hotly condemned by others.

The bill, which also split the Republicans, would exempt most gas producers from federal regulation.

"After careful analysis and full consideration," the president told Congress, "I believe that such an action would not be in the national interest."

There appeared to be virtually no prospect that the lawmakers might try to pass the bill over Mr. Truman's veto. On its first trip through Congress, the bill mustered only a bare majority in both houses. Two-thirds approval by both the Senate and House would be needed to override.

The bill would have exempted from federal price regulation so-called independent producers not affiliated with pipelines. As a matter of fact, they are not regulated now, but backers of the bill expressed belief the Federal Power Commission would move to set up such regulation. President Truman, in his message today, said the authority to regulate is "necessary in the public interest."

Foes Called it "Grab"

Foes of the bill objected vehemently that it was a "gigantic grab" which would cost consumers up to $500,000,000 a year. Backers of the measure denied this. They replied that the regulation would be a blow at free enterprise which would so descourage gas production that the consumer would be harmed.

In sending the bill back to Congress—with the observation that there is too little competition in the natural gas industry to exempt the producers from federal controls—Mr. Truman rebuffed some of his closest legislative lieutenants.

Speaker Rayburn, who comes from oil-producing Texas, had supported the Kerr bill with one of his rare floor speeches. Senator Connally (D-Tex.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee(had been numbered among its backers on the other side of the capitol.

The veto was greeted jubilantly by the bill's opponents.

Deemed It "Unfair"

Senator Donnell (R-Mo.), another opponent of the measure, said: "I think the president acted properly." Senator Kem (R-Mo.), who also fought the bill as "unfair to the people," said he did not believe there was any chance Congress would over-ride the veto.

Connally expressed "great disappointment." Senator Kerr (D-Okla.), the bill's author, said Mr. Truman had "made a mistake," adding:

"Time will prove that the consuming areas which want and need abundant supplies of natural gas will receive less gas and at higher prices than would have been the situation if the bill had been approved.:"

Kerr, a wealthy oilman, delivered the keynote address at the 1944 Democratic convention which nominated Mr. Truman as running mate for the late President Roosevelt.

Kerr's statement summed up the main argument of those who had urged Congressional passage and presidential approval of the measure.

Since House members are in the midst of a long Easter recess, there was little comment on his action from that side of the capitol. But there was plenty from the Senate, which originally had passed the gas bill by a 44 to 38 vote.

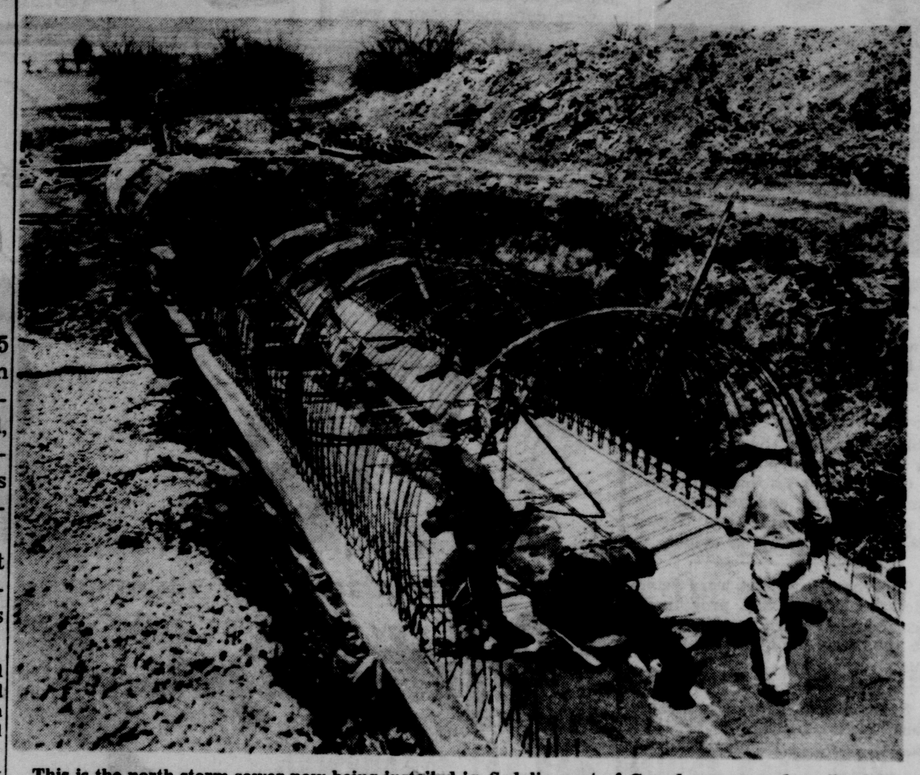
Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.), one of its sponsors, said that "if the president's objections could be met I'd favor revising the bill and trying to pass it this session."

Most other supporters of the measure indicated little prospect of such action.

Rep. Harris (D-Ark.), House sponsor of the bill, said in New Orleans that he was "sorely disappointed" at the president's action which he termed "the greatest blow" to the gas and oil industry in a long time.

Harris said that uncertainty over federal regulation will tend to stifle the industry's initiative in hunting new sources of natural gas and developing them as future reserves.

Progress On North Storm Sewer



This is the north storm sewer now being installed in Sedalia, east of Grand avenue and north of the Missouri Pacific railroad, which will handle both storm and sanitary sewage. Shown in the picture above is form work and re-enforcing steel being erected preparatory to pouring a concrete arch on the concete base invert, which has previously been poured and appears below the steel in this photo. This work, which is a part of the sewer improvement bond issue, is being done by Hastings and Stiers, contractors of St. Louis. The concrete for this project is purchased locally. Closer Accord Is Sought on Foreign Policy

Connally Plan Advanced for Better Harmony

By Don Whitehead

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Senator connally (D-Tex.) today disclosed a plan designed to bring the Senate and the State Department into a close working arrangement on foreign policy.

The Texan will recommend that the Senate Foreign Relations committee be divided into eight subcommittees to consult with the State Department on specific problems around the world. Connally is committee chairman.

"This plan," he told reporters, "is the first serious effort to set up a procedure in the foreign relations committee to get the most efficient and careful study of international problems."

The Connally plan is one of recent administration moves to rebuild bipartisan foreign policy and obtain close cooperation between Congress and the State Department.

Among Republicans there have been proposals that they be invited to sit in on policy making, and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), has urged an "unpartisan" study of a cold war pattern to follow the Marshall Plan which ends in 1952.

Senate Republicans may speak out officially next week with a statement of their foreign policy views.

Go To Committee

Connally said he would place his reorganization plan before the full Senate Foreign Relations committee probably Tuesday. He said there was a "good reaction" from Senators who have seen the plan.

It would divide the committee into eight sub-groups to handle: United Nations affairs, European affairs, Far Eastern affairs, American republics affairs, Near Eastern and African affairs, economic and social policy affairs, public affairs, and State Department organization.

The committee's membership includes Democratic Senators Connally, Thomas of Utah, George of Georgia; Green of Rhode Island; Tydings of Maryland; McMahon of Connecticut; Pepper of Florida and Fulbright of Arkansas. On the Republican side are Senators Vandenberg of Michigan; Wiley of Wisconsin, Lodge of Massachusetts; Smith of New Jersey and Hickenlooper of Iowa.

Tentative subcommittee assignments are: United Nations affairs --Connally, Thomas, Vandenberg and Wiley.

Far Eastern affairs—Thomas, George, Smith.

American republics affairs — Green, Fulbright, Hickenlooper.

Fire At Brockman Home

The fire companies at 4:05 o'clock, Saturday morning, were called to the residence of A. E. Brockman, 1822 South Ingram avenue, where burners on a coal oil stove were smoking. Considerable smoke damage resulted to the house.

Another Report on Mysterious Animal

Norman Peters, living on the Charles Van Dyne farm on route 4, reported to the Democrat-Capital Saturday morning he heard the mysterious animal that is in the vicinity and described its howl or bark in the same manner as did the other farmers in the area.

Peters said he missed four little month-old pigs about a week ago, but thought little about it. After seeing the report in Friday's Democrat he then decided that the mystery animal was responsible.

He said that he noticed the cattle running across the pasture as if pursued or frightened by something.

Clean Slate to Police Board

Statement from Governor after Secret Session

KANSAS CITY, April 15—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith gave a clean slate today to his Kansas City police board, harrassed since two under-world slayings April 5.

The governor's declaration came out of a secret meeting here. After his return to Jefferson City, he said he turned down the offers of three of the five commissioners to resign voluntarily. Mayor William E. Kemp, an ex-officio member of the board did not attend.

"I told them," Smith said, "I thought they were doing a good job."

However, Mayor Kemp said he "cannot believe that the governor intends for this to be the ultimate conclusion in the matter of police administration in Kansas City. To feel otherwise would be a matter of the greatest disappointment."

Kemp said he was not invited to the conferences here.

"There is nothing in the governor's statement that touches upon the vital question of an impaired morale among at least some of the personnel of the police department as a result of widespread rumors that certain underworld personages have influential connections with the police department," Kemp added.

The governor also said he did not plan to set up a bi-partisan state crime commission to "clean up Missouri" suggested by a Republican legislator.

Meanwhile the federal government refused to free on bond Moonfaced Chas. Carrollo, onetime underworld chieftain here, and three other men nabbed in a raid yesterday on an illicit liquor operation.

Police reported "no progress" in their investigation of the slayings

Given Sentence Of Five Years

Young U. S. Airman Guilty Trying to Divulge Secrets

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, April 15—(AP)—A U. S. Air Force court martial convicted Cpl. Gustav Mueller, 19, today of attempting to give American military secrets to Soviet Russia and sentenced him to five years in prison. He had denied the charge in tearful testimony.

Described in a report by army doctors as "immature and emotionally unstable," the young airman from St. Paul, Minn., insisted he was only trying to trap some Russian spies with the melodramatic activities that led to his arrest last fall. In a clipped, British-type accent, he said:

"I never meant to betray the United States. I am not a Communist. I hate Communism. I am loyal to the United States and always shall be. x x x I know I did wrong and I am sorry. I tried twice to kill myself in jail at hard labor while awaiting trial. I would never do such a thing again."

He repudiated stories he told U. S. army agents who posed as Russian operatives and obtained documents from him after he sent a telegram to the Soviet consulate in Bern, Switzerland, last September asking for contact. They testified he told them he believed in Communism and wished to help out the party cause.

Mueller was the only defense witness in the two-day trial. His attorney, Elmo Gower of Cumberland, Md., used a light touch in questioning and chose not to deliver a closing argument.

Capt. Carl Felth of Biloxi, Miss., the trial judge advocate (prosecutor), ridiculed as "incredible" Mueller's declaration that he was only trying to trap Russian spies and attacked the defense efforts to make light of the case.

"This is no joking matter," he said.

The court of seven officers deliberated 90 minutes.

In addition to the prison sentence, it ordered that Mueller be dishonorably discharged from the Air Force, in which he enlisted in 1948 for a three-year term. The findings of such tribunals are subject to review by higher authorities.

The prisoner took the verdict quietly.

Mueller is a native of Burma, the son of a Swiss father and an English mother. A slim, dark youth, he said yesterday that he did not know his nationality, "I must be Swiss, if anything." Today he said he probably was an American citizen.

His mother, Mrs. Edward A. James, said in St. Paul he obtained American citizenship automatically as a minor son when she was granted citizenship in January, 1948. Widowed by the death of her first husband in Rangoon in 1941, she married James, an American, in Calcutta.

Mueller is the first U. S. serviceman ever reported to have tried to betray American military information to Russia.

Couple Collects on Boy and Girl Babies

ASHTON, IDAHO, April 15—(AP)—Memorial hospital in Ashton offered prizes to the parents of the first boy and girl babies born at the new institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Kirkham collected both. Twins, a boy and a girl, were the hospital's first arrivals.

Master Park Plan Stressed By Park Board

Report Made for Year 1949-50; Lights This Summer

Members of the Sedalia Park board, Joseph W. Reid, chairman, Cline Cain, Leo Bopp, Lindsey Hayden and H. F. Rapp, have made the following report at the close of the present administration:

"Sedalia Missouri
"April 12, 1950

"The Honorable Julian H. Bagby, "Members of the City Council, Sedalia, Mo.

"Gentlemen:

"At the start of a new park season your Park board wishes to submit its report on the Sedalia parks for the year 1949-50.

"We are aware that in some areas of the parks there is still much repair work to be done, but the board has laid its stress this year on areas of the parks that are not to be changed under the "Master Park Plan" submitted to the board last year by the landscaping and city planning engineering firm of Harlan Bartholamew and associates and trust that this repair policy meets your approval.

Added Work

"With the increased number of parks, and the greatly increased attendance at all five parks, your board has endeavored to increase the attractiveness of the park and add to the park system the facilities most frequently requested by those atending the parks.

"The Sedalia Park System today consists of nearly 100 acres of parks and park-maintained parkways and to keep them in presentable condition is in itself a major undertaking, worthy of this last years park budget which is approximately four times what the budget was a few short years ago.

"One of the boards major expenditures this year was for a power type gang lawnmower such as is used in most city parks. A major saving in time and labor has been effected by this mower, and better looking lawns have been possible. The removal of the unsightly tangle of trees and underbrush at Hubbard Park was an allied project. And a presentable turf will be possible in that

Four Flying Reserves Killed

SPOKANE, Wash, April 15—(AP)—A Navy torpedo bomber coming in for a landing crashed in some trees a half mile from the field today, killing all four Naval Reserve crew members.

The four-place single engine Avenger was practicing carrier landings when it suddenly plunged to the earth from an altitude of about 3040 feet. The plane was completely destroyed.

A turret back of the cockpit was ripped from the fuselage and thrown 75 feet from the rest of the wreckage. The gunner's body was found hanging from the turret.

The four flyers, who had jobs in town came out to practice their flying as reserves only twice a month, were all from Spokane.

The dead were identified as:

Four Killed in Dynamite Blast

ANCHORAGE, Alaska April 15—(AP)—A premature dynamite explosion took the lives of four construction workers on the Alaska railroad today.

The blast ripped out telephone poles and loosed a tremendous amount of debris onto the tracks, cutting rail transportation and communications between here and Seward.

The dead were identified as John Skoglund, powder foreman, Silverdale, Wash., and Ben Wilson, powderman helper, "Big Ed" Bumgardner, powderman helper, and Daniel Stabenan of Anchorage.

Reports on the cause of the accident are still fragmentary.

Woman Electrocuted While in Bathtub

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., April 15—(AP)—Dr. M. M. Russell, coroner, said Mrs. May Calbreath was electrocuted in her bathtub here today by a health machine.

The elderly woman was found dead in the tub by her husband, Earl Calbreath.

The coroner said she apparently touched an electrode of the machine and was killed instantly.

Two Councils Meet Monday

The City Council will meet in regular session at 7:30 o'clock Monay night in the City Hall. Mayor Julian H. Bagby will preside over the first part of the meeting, all unfinished business will be transacted, then that Council will adjourn sine die, which means to adjourn without planning to meet again.

The incoming mayor, Herb E. Studer will take over, and the new Council will be organized. Harry Moore alderman, will take the place of Virgil Corson, in the first ward; Elmer Sumners succeeds himself in the second; Earl Lashley succeeds himself in the third and Jim Reed take the place of Herb Studer in the fourth.

The new Council will then take up its business.

Mayor-elect Studer is a Republican, all Councilmen Democrats.

One Hundredth Birthday Is Celebrated

LaMonte Woman Has Letter From President Truman

The little old lady who today is celebrating her one hundredth birthday anniversary reminds one of lavender and old lace as she sits quietly in her chair by the big front window in her home about nine miles northwest of La Monte. Her snow white hair is thick and she wears it in a big coil on top of her head. She can no longer see the yellow jonquils growing in her yard from her big window nor read the books that had been so much a part of her life, for age has dimmed her eyes.

"So you are going to have a birthday Sunday?" we said to Mrs. Sarah Isabelle (Belle) Bobbitt.

The face which has surprisingly few wrinkles for one of a hundred years, lighted up and she smiled sweetly: "Yes, and how old do you think I'll be Sunday?" she asked.

"You will be one hundred" we answered.

Hopes For Another Hundred

"That's right, I'll be a hundred years old and I hope I live to be another hundred," she said and then she asked the question that we are certain now women never get too old to want to know, "Do you think I look that old?"

She smiled coyly when we said we didn't think she looked that old and we meant it.

"I have gotten so many cards," she said and then added proudly: "And do you know, I got a letter from the president of the United States."

But old age has made her forgetful, too, and the precious letter from President Harry S. Truman, as well as many cards that had arrived, could not be found. She had put them away and forgotten where. But she will find them and will pass many lonely hours for

Rail Unions Consider Strike

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Two big unions of railroad engineers and firemen today considered a nationwide strike to force the hiring of a third man on diesel locomotives.

The track is all cleared for a walkout at any hour they might wish to designate.

Leaders of the firemen-enginmen met in Chicago today to make plans. They recessed without taking action, but a spokesman said a definite announcement may come tomorrow after additional chairmen and grand lodge officers are heard from.

Boy Scout Statue

The replica of the Statue of Liberty is shown above, which will be erected on the north side of the court house as part of the 40th Anniversary crusade of the Boy Scouts of America. The replica is eight-and-one-half feet to the tip of the torch and will be placed on a star-shaped base of marble, which will raise the statue to fifteen feet in height. The base has been designed by William C. Wallace, architect, who has donated his services, as well as will other workmen who have anything to do with the erection. On the bronze plaque, to be embedded in the base of the replica, is the following: "With the faith and courage of their forefathers who made possible the freedom of these United States, The Boy Scouts of America, dedicate this replica of the statue of Liberty as a pledge of eevrlasting fidelity and loyalty. 40th anniversary crusade to strengthen the arm of Liberty, 1950."

May Lose Sight In One Eye

Boys playing at Whittier school, Friday, tossing clay, dirt and rocks from the excavation of a new addition to the school, may result in one child losing his eye sight. The injured boy is Billy Joe Griffith, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren V. Griffith, 609 East Sixteenth street.

The boys were playing near where workmen were at work, when one boy picked up a piece of clay which had rocks mixed in it and threw the missile, it striking the Griffith boy in the left eye. According to the boy's mother the eye was badly damaged and he may lose the sight.

Billy Joe is in the fifth grade at Whittier.

Parents of children attending schools where construction is underway are asked to cooperate with the teachers in compelling their children not to go near this work and especially near machinery. The children should be told not to throw any kind of rocks, dirt or clay at another child as it may result in injury to another child as it has to the Griffith boy.

Ten-Year-Old Girl Falls Out Of Swing, Sees Flying Saucer

If a 10-year old girl hadn't fallen out of a swing at the opportune time, there probably wouldn't be any story to tell, but since she did fall, she and her other 10 classmates and teacher, Miss Dora Benz, of Walnut Grove school, have a mystifying story to tell, that of seeing a flying saucer, one day recently while most of the pupils were eating their lunches on the school grounds.

Gayle Paige, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paige, Sedalia, route 3, the first girl to see the flying disc, said she had just finished eating lunch at school, and was swinging, and all of a sudden she fell out of the swing.

Saw Silver Object

After falling, she looked up over the school house roof into a western direction, and there it was, a silver circular object spinning through the air, with two streaks of white puffs extending from it.

She excitedly told her classmates and pointed skyward to her strange discovery, and they in turn stood glaring skyward for five or 10 minutes, until the object vanished into thin air.

She said Marvin Shull was the first to "pin" the name on the object, that of a flying saucer, and later she said, including the teacher, all agreed, it was a flying saucer.

Up High

The girl said the object was way, way up there in the sky, and to her it seemed the size of a ball, and seemed not to have been traveling very fast.

Robert Harvey, in the seventh grade, was contacted when walking home from school, and he gave a similar account of the phenomenon. He said it was a disc shape, and silver in color, traveling westward, that it didn't look very big, and something was shooting out from the object.

This is believed to be the first report in Pettis county of anybody having spotted a flying saucer. Take it for what it is worth, but you'll have a hard time convincing those "kids", it was anything else but a flying saucer.

Eye Cast On Crops Situation

Developments are Being Watched Closely by the Politic Leaders

WASHINGTON, April 15 —(AP)—Political leaders are watching crop developments this spring as sharply as a farmer with a note due at the bank.

They realize that a poor crop year—now seen as a distinct possibility—could take the government's multi-billion-dollar farm price program off a hot spot and push it aside as a major issue in this year's battle for control of Congress.

Forewarnings of possible poor farm production are showing up in the form of drought-like conditions in some areas, unusually severe dust storms in the great plains, and critical insect infestations. Already these factors have taken a big slice off the prospective winter wheat crop.

There is evidence that the cotton crop may have a bad time with the boll weevil, and the corn borer poses a major threat to corn, the principal livestock feed grain. An unseasonally cold spring is delaying preparations for crop planting.

These developments do not mean, however, that a poor production year is bound to follow. There is plenty of time for the situation to change and for farmers to grow crops which would add to the already top-heavy surpluses.

Nevertheless, political leaders—realizing that according to the law of averages a bad crop year is overdue—are watching the weather reports.

Might Force Shift

A marked downturn in farm production prospects undoubtedly would require some quick shifts in campaign strategy.

The Truman administration has been counting heavily on the farm problem as a campaign issue to help it win election of lawmakers committed to the Brannan farm plan of relatively high farm price supports and production payments as a means of giving consumers cheaper food prices.

It has counted also upon widespread public criticism of the present price support program to pull votes for those who campaign as advocates of Brannan proposals. The current program has been criticized widely—even by President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan—on the ground that it piles up surpluses while holding consumer prices at excessively high levels.

But a poor crop season could easily change public attitude toward the $4,000,000,000 stock of surpluses under government control. The public under such circumstances easily could develop the attitude that the nation is lucky to have the extra supplies, as protection against shortages and skyrocketing prices.

Except for reserve of 425,000,000 bushels from previous crops recent developments in the winter wheat crop probably would have pushed prices of the grain a dollar a bushel or more above present quotations, farm officials said.

Big Supply of Feed

The stock of surpluses contains a record supply of livestock feed grain. Their availability should prevent a repetition of the meat shortage of 1947, which resulted from a short corn crop the previous year when there were no surpluses.

A poor growing season might even bring a temporary cure of the potato price support headache.

And—by no means least in the politicians' calculations — a bad crop year also could be expected to halt the downswing in farm prices which started in 1948.

On the whole it appears that relegation of the farm problem to the background would be more beneficial to the Republicans than to the Democrats. The Republicans have fared least well in those election years in which the farm issue has been of major importance.

With the farm problem out of the way, the Republicans would have more time during the campaign to devote to other issues, such as government spending and taxing, the administration's welfare policies and the question of loyalty among the government officeholders.

Democratic Women To Meet Tuesday

The Pettis County Women's Democratic Club will hold its regular meeting Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock at the Maccabee hall on East Fifth street, with the president, Mrs. J. C. Saunders, presiding over the business session.

Mrs. George Chambers and her committee will have charge of the social session.

Airlines' New Bid for Increase In Travel Utilizes Fastest Equipment and Low Fares

DAY COACH WITH WINGS: A choice of 34 flights on six lines.

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — The airlines are lines are beginning to use their fastest and best equipment in a bold new bid to build up air travel with coach-style service featuring low fares and no frills.

American Airlines is blazing the trail, hoping to revolutionize the industry and create a great mass market for air transportation. United Air Lines plans to follow suit in May on a more limited scale.

The air coach idea isn't brand new. It's been getting a try-out for about a year and a half and has spread to most major airlines. But up to now such service has been chiefly restricted to overnight trips when travel is normally slack. And the lines have relied on 230-mile-an-hour DC-4s for the most part.

Now American has started flying the 300-mile an-hour DC-6s on a one stop coast to coast trip that clips nearly four hours off the fastest previous transcontinental coach service.

To fit out DC-6's for this run, American stripped them of luxury features and upped seating capacity from 52 to 70. The bigger load will go far toward offsetting the lower fares charged, American believes. By eliminating a second fuel stop, which a DC-4 must make the line saves around $250 a day in costs.

On this flight you take off from LaGuardia Airport in New York at 10:25 in the morning. Three and a half hours later you're in Chicago, with ample time for lunch at the field. No meals are served aloft — they're part of the fancy trimmings that have been eliminated.

At 1:40 p.m. CST you board the plane again, span the coastal mountains and land at Los Angeles airport at 7:10 p.m. ,just 11 hours and 45 minutes after the take-off at New York.

If you returned the same way, you'd leave the coast at 9:45 a.m., reach Chicago at 6:10 p.m. and New York at 10:50 p.m. Eastbound, with usually favoring tail winds, the trip takes only 10 hours and five minutes.

The one-way fare all the way is $110, plus tax. Round trip costs exactly double, or $253 with tax. That's $92 cheaper than the regular non-coach service.

American thinks this kind of air travel can be self-supporting, can in fact earn as much revenue as the higher-fare standard service using the same planes. If it turns out to be right, American won't worry too much about what happens to its luxury trade.

Some of the other lines aren't so confident. They fear the industry's regular rate structure may be ruined by coach competition if the idea is applied too widely. They'd like to see it limited to older, slower equipment and to the unattractive hours of the day.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Air Lines, is in this camp. He feels, moreover, that low-fare coach service actually is discriminatory. People boarding planes at cities not on coach routes must pay higher fares.

Capital Airlines, however, is one of the big rooters for air coach. Though its shorter routes from the South and Midwest to Washington and New York make DC-6's uneconomical to use, Capital has been highly successful with DC-4's in that service. The pioneer with air coach, this line now has 10 flights daily at reduced fares. Yet it claims its first class travel hasn't suffered.

Right now you can take your pick from among 34 different air coach flights on six major lines When United gets going with DC-6's between Los Angeles and San Francisco next month, this total will climb to 40.

To the Civil Aeronautics Board this entire venture still is tentative. The big question, of course is: Can the lines tap a big new market without seriously impairing the revenues they get from their more expensive service? And most experts will be watching DC-6 flights like American's transcontinental trip for their answer

Employers Ask Questions on Revised Laws

Explanation Given By Manager Social Security Office

Attention of employers is called to the fact that under provisions of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act the rate of Social Security Tax on wages paid on and after January 1, 1950, is 1½% on employees and 1½% on employers.

Scott Webber, manager of the Sedalia Social Security office, reports that numerous daily calls and letters from employers seek more information about the revised Social Security tax and reporting procedures.

The Social Security office now has available a new Employer's Tax Handbook, which will be mailed free of charge to any employer upon request.

Principal Changes

Principal changes, all effective with respect to wages paid on or after January 1, 1950, are:

1. A new combined form, 941, will be used for the quarterly report of income tax withheld from wages and Social Security Taxes.

2. A revised monthly depositing system has been installed for both taxes.

April 30 is the deadline for filing returns for the first quarter of 1950.

Handbook Convenient

The Employers' Tax Handbook brings together in one convenient publication all the essential information needed by employers for the purpose of the Federal payroll taxes, including wage tables showing amounts to be withheld in each wage bracket, and a calendar of employers' duties under the law for the complete year.

On hiring new employes, Webber urges all employers to secure both name and social security number from the social security account number card. If the employee has never had a social security number, or has lost his card, have him make application immediately. Application blanks are available at the Social Security Office, or at each local postoffice.

Compliance with this will insure correct returns, and wil lresult in a saving of valuable time as well as a portion of the tax dollar.

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—National Doughnut Week begins today.

And naturally, millions of thoughtful Americans are going around saying to one another:

"Good old National Doughnut Week has rolled around again. My, isn't it good to have it back?"

But only a handful of these grateful citizens are aware of the deep historical significance behind National Doughnut Week—or just how it came about.

Well, it was born 13 years ago in the agile brain of Bert Nevins, a balding, cruller-shaped publicity man.

"It was the first of the food weeks," Bert recalled modestly. "Before that there were just things like Mother's Day, Arbor Day, the Fourth of July and National Baby Week."

All Sorts of Weeks

Now, of course, there are weeks for all sorts of goodies—such as National Hot Tea Week and National Cold Tea Week, National Kraut and Frankfurter Week, National Pickle Week, National Honey Week and also National Honey for Breakfast Week.

The pioneering idea of setting a week apart for the nation to pause and ponder the blessings of the doughnut grew out of a stern reality in the industry—sales hit a peak at Halloween, slumped in the spring.

"Picking the right time was very important," said Nevins. "You don't want to have a food week during a period when there are holidays, as people have other things on their mind.

Settled for April

"We couldn't take the week before Easter because bakers are pushing hot cross buns then. So we settled for a week in April after Easter."

And in the baker's dozen years since the doughnut muscled itself a place in the calendar sales have quadrupled. The $200,000,000 a year industry expects to sell 12,000,000,000 doughnuts in 1950.

"We don't think that National Doughnut Week alone is responsible for this increase," said Nevins, who has built himself a $100,000 annual business glamorizing doughnuts, diapers, pretzels and cranberries. "But we do know that spring sales, which used to be small, now are almost equal to fall sales."

Some groups make a week for their product, say "National Frozen Dogfood Week" and let it go at that. Nevins uses every possible device to thrust doughnuts into the public mind.

This week, for example, his gimmicks include a new doughnut-shaped hair-do, doughnut straw hats for the ladies, pajamas decorated with doughnuts, and a recording of "The Doughnut Song," by folk singer Burl Ives. He even persuaded Emily Post to endorse the custom of dunking "provided the doughnut is first broken in half."

Feels He's Been Copied

Like all frontiersmen of the intellect, Nevins feels he has been copied.

"Now there are too many weeks of all kinds overlapping each other," he objected. "This whole idea of special weeks may kill itself if we get many more. It is getting promiscuous."

He is mulling over a plan to call all interested parties together and get them to divide up the year on a sensible basis.

"After all there are only 52 weeks," he said regretfully.

So, a happy doughnut week to you! It is also National Coin Week, National Want Ad Week and National Noise Abatement Week.

Red Wedding Provides Propaganda

HONG KONG—(AP)—The Chinese Reds are turning event the ancient wedding ceremony into a sounding board for their theories. The leftist newspaper "Ta Kung Pao" carries an account of a recent Shanghai wedding which it said was "rich in educational meaning."

Instead of sending gifts, guests paid the equivalent of 5c each at the door for tea and cakes. The lavish wedding feast—for which a groom ordinarily will go into debt for years if necessary—was cut out entirely. So was the "drinking, jesting and jostling." So were the firecrackers, the brass band, and the wedding procession where the bride usually rides through the street in a closed sedan chair.

Instead, there was a discussion which criticized the old style wedding, appraised the new, and featured a round-table talk on "how to attain the full meaning of marriage."

Jefferson PTA Has Installation

The Jefferson school P.T.A. held its April meeting at the school Thursday evening, April 13, with the president, Mrs. Raymond Schultz, presiding.

The members of the sixth and seventh grade chorus sang three numbers as a devotional.

Several pupils from the fifth grade gave a safety playlet in the form of a quiz kid show.

The secretary and the treasurer's reports were read and approved and room count award went to the seventh grade.

E. T. Martin, principal, installed the following officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. Charles Poynter, first vice-president, Mrs. Roland Snavely, second vice-president, Mrs. Elmer Lane, secretary; Mrs. Vincent Siegel, treasurer, Miss Minta Sullivan and historian, Mrs. Verny Engholm.

The program for the evening was presented by the music department of Smith-Cotton high school under the direction of Miss Geraldine Tuefel, which included a saxophone solo by Bill Matthews and a bass horn solo by Charles Walch. The last portion of the program was a gypsy musical show.

After these numbers the meeting was dismissed.

Encouraging Results Reported By Cancer Specialists

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16—(AP)—A spectacular method of shooting anti-cancer drugs with almost pinpoint accuracy into deeply buried malignancies has shown encouraging results, a group of research specialists reported today.

A ribbon-like tube or catheter with a nozzle on one end is inserted into the patient's artery at some convenient place and pushed on inward until the nozzle reaches a secondary artery supplying blood to the cancerous area. A plunger on the exposed end of the tube then forces the anti-cancer drug straight through to the small artery whose blood stream carries it directly to the target.

Method Looks Promising

This revolutionary method looks promising because it permits a high degree of concentration of the anti-cancer drug on the malignant site. The high concentration effect is desirable because most anti-cancer drugs destroy normal as well as malignant cells.

The technique was developed here in the laboratory of experimental oncology about a year ago. About the same time cancer researchers in Sweden thought of the idea independently and also have made tests.

Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, director of the laboratory here, made the report to the American Cancer Society. The laboratory is a joint venture of the University of California and the National Cancer Institute, a government agency.

Poison Gases Effective

About 30 patients have been treated here with nitrogen mustards and radioactive chemicals. The nitrogen mustards are poison gases which are particularly effective against some forms of cancer but also are destructive to normal tissues. The radioactive substances destroy malignant cells by giving off rays. They too can destroy normal cells.

No cures have been obtained, but a number of cancers were temporarily halted and the tests warrant further use, Dr. Shimkin said.

The conventional way of applying anti-cancer drugs to deep malignancies is to inject them into the veins. This, however, allows the drugs to be difused through the entire blood stream, and only a small proportion of them reach the cancer site.

Drug Goes Into Cancer Site

By inserting the catheter downward in the carotid artery in the neck or upward in the femoral artery in the leg the nozzle can be steered into almost any secondary artery deep in the body the experimenters said.

Then the drug charge can be delivered so that nearly all of it goes to the cancer site.

The laboratory also reported a "cross transfusion technique" in which the veins and arteries of a leukemia sufferer and a normal person were hooked into each other so that the blood of both was mingled as it circulated through the double system.

Leukemia is a cancer-like disease of the white blood cells.

Lungs Play a Part

The researchers said they learned from this test that one or more organs of the body regulate the number of white blood cells in a system. This regulatory mechanism kept the white cell count of the normal person fairly normal and that of the leukemic person rather high during the cross transfusion.

The lungs appear to play a part in removing surplus white corpuscles from the blood stream, the experimenters found.

In still another experiment a number of patients with malignant melanoma volunteered to have their pituitary glands destroyed by X-rays or removed surgically to find out whether the operation would adversely affect their cancers.

Malignant melanoma is cancer which starts in a pigmented mole. It spreads through the body quickly and is one of the deadliest forms of cancer.

A Boss Gland

The pituitary gland, a pea-sized organ at the base of the brain, is the boss gland of the body, producing hormones which regulated the other glands.

The idea behind the operation is that melanoma never is malignant before puberty, and that if the pituitary gland of an adult melanoma victim were removed, shutting off the supply of hormones to other glands which awaken at puberty, the malignancy might disappear.

This was a desperate measure designed to postpone death if possible. The outcome remains in doubt.

Kaiser-Frazer Has Heavy Loss

DETROIT, April 15—(AP)—Kaiser-Frazier Corp. Friday reported a consolidated net loss of $30,329,351 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1949.

This compares with a net profit of $10,362,098 after all taxes, reported for 1948.

The report listed total sales for 1949 at $104,474,189, compared with $341,522,441 in 1948. It showed the corporation's current assets at $34,852,159 and current liabilities at $11,559,888. Including property, land and equipment total assets were brought to $90,114,229.

The statement also showed total long term obligations of $42,765,604.

Edgar F. Kaiser, president, told stockholders a major cause for the 1949 loss was inadequate financing.

(Earnings of the auto industry as a whole were at a new high in 1949 as production reached a record 6,238,000 care and trucks.)

Kaiser said his firm's heavy loss in 1949 does not properly reflect the present condition of the company, nor is it indicative of its future trend. Kaiser-Frazer's new 1951 models "have recevied wide public acceptance in nation-wide showings," he said. Volume shipments now are being made to distributors and dealers, tooling for the new low-priced car is virtually completed and this model will be in production in about 60 days.

Tells Olsen "Broken Leg Just Peanuts"

OCEANSIDE, Calif., April 15—(AP)—Doctors operated Friday to set the broken right leg of John Siguard Olson, 58, of the "Olson and Johnson" comedy team.

The break above the knee, caused in an automobile accident yesterday, was cleated with pins. This the doctors said, should enable him to get around again within ten days.

An understudy, Marty May will appear for Olson when the comedy team's new show, "Tsk, Tsk, Tsk, Paree," opens in San Diego Monday. He was on his way there when an automobile in which he was riding left the highway and plunged down an embankment.

Olsen's mother, who lives in Fort Wayne, Ind., sent him the following telegram: "When I was 75 I broke three ribs and had a brain concussion, 53 stitches and a shoulder out of place. A broken leg is peanuts."

Enlisted Men Head for Naples

Charles J. Rouchka, 1600 East Broadway, and Everett W. Banks of Marshall, both enlisted men in the U. S. Navy, are scheduled to arrive in Naples, Italy, on April 22.

Rouchka is aboard the heavy cruiser USS Newport News, and Banks is stationed on the destroyer tender USS Sierra, both ships being engaged in fleet maneuvers with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The visit to Naples was arranged to afford the ships' crews a period of relaxation ashore and an opportunity to visit the beautiful Italian countryside.

Leave parties have been arranged which will enable a large number of men to visit Rome. They will join the many thousands from all over the world who are visiting the Eternal City during the Holy Year. Trips have also been scheduled to Mount Vesuvius, the ruins of Pompeii and the Isle of Capri.

of politician Charles Binaggio and Charles Gargotta, whose gangland-style shootings pulled the crime spotlight on Missouri's second city last week.

Smith turned up nere this morning in a hushed-up session with four out of five members of the board, which the governor appoints. Police Chief Henry Johnson also attended the session.

"Stick By Guns"

Out of the conference came a two page statement from the governor telling police to stick by their guns and hold the fort.

"I have hopes." the statement said, "with your assistance that in a short time the recent murders will be solved. The police department, I know, is working tirelessly day and night to apprehend the guilty parties."

J. L. Milligan, chairman of the police board, issued an accompanying statement approving the governor's stand.

"No member of this police board," stated Milligan's release, "has in any way 'tied the hands of the chief of police' or interfered or obstructed in any way the enforcement of the law or interfered with his other duties as chief of police."

A letter to Smith was written by Rep. Richard M. Webster of Carthage, who said Missouri is known in the nation as "the seat of political corruption and the haven for an un-controlled underworld."

Carrollo was to spend at least another night in jail because the real property introduced as security for his $10,000 bond failed to meet federal district court requirements.

The same applied to the men arrested with Carrollo—Anthony (Stringbean) Marcella, Sam Tortorice and Mike Arnone.

At the time of the pick-up, police said Arnone had a record of 12 previous arrests. Police reported today, however, that a recheck showed Arnone had no previous record, but had been confused with another man with the same name.

Upon his return to the capital, the governor declined to name the three members of the board who had offered to resign.

After saying he told the members of the board they were "doing a good job," he added:

"I told them I had investigated all the charges against them and found them not verified by facts —just idle rumors."

He told newsmen that he was "well satisfied with the results" of his investigation of the police force and as far as he was concerned the investigation was over.

As for Representative Webster's suggestion about a state crime commission. Governor Smith said he judged that Webster was runing for re-election.

"Have No Authority"

"Any commission I could set up would be only advisory—they'd have no authority whatsoever," he said.

Besides, he commented, such a commission "would be a slap at local law enforcement officers.

"I have no knowledge that the sheriffs and prosecuting attorneys in the various counties are not performing their duties."

The governor said he was surprised to learn there was a mystery about his whereabouts the past 24 hours. He explained that he drove to Kansas City with his son-in-law, Frank Teterus of Chicago and that his room at the Hotel (President) was in Teterus' name.

While there, he said, he talked with 36 lawyers, ministers, merchants and judges and "without a single exception every one of them told me there is less gambling and unsolved crime."

None of them, he added, urged that a grand jury be called. Five or six, he said, told him it would be a waste of money to call a grand jury now.

Deputy Arrested in A Raid Suspended

ST. Louis, April 15—(AP)—Sheriff Thomas F. Callanan today suspended a deputy sheriff arrested yesterday with 10 other persons in a police raid of a huge weather ticket lottery racket.

Callanan said he suspended Arthur J. Kuntz, 51, pending outcome of the case. The deputy's job pays $185 a month.

Police Capt. Joseph A. Wren estimated the lottery has been grossing about $50,000 a week.

Spring Begins Warming Up

(By The Associated Press)

Another blast of record cold stung the southeast Saturday but spring began behaving like spring in the plains states.

Temperatures rose to seasonal levels in Montana and the Dakotas. The warmup was expected to spread gradually over the entire eastern half of the country.

Forecasters said the Canadian ice box has been drained of its Arctic cold, for the present at least, and that near normal temperatures should return soon to all winter weary sections.

But the chilly southeast reported these record low temperatures for this late in the season:

Miami, Fla., 51; Savannah, Ga., 34; Atlanta, Ga., 31 and Birmingh..m, Ala., 31; Tampa, Fla., 46, equalling an 80 year old record, and Terre Haute, Ind., had a record low for the date of 24.

The freeze line dipped through Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and the Carolinas and into northern Georgia, Alabama and Arkansas.

The weather across the country was generally fair, except for light drizzle in west Texas and the Oklahoma Panhandle, showers in the central Rockies and Pacific northwest and snow flurries in the northern Appalachians.

House Robbers in Quick Get-Away

Two house robbers had a close call to being caught at the home of Lloyd Cramer, 812 South Barrett avenue, about 8:10 o'clock Saturday night, but they succeeded in making a getaway with approximately $28.00 in silver dollars and some small change. They were surprised when Mr. Cramer accompanied by his two sons, Larry 12, and Gary 9, who returned home a little earlier than anticipated.

Mr. Cramer was driving into his garage when he saw a youth run across his drive, across the back yard and over a fence. At first he thought it might be neighborhood children playing hide-and-seek. He drove on into the garage and his son, Larry, walked around to the front of the house to get a newspaper when a second youth made a wild dash out the front door, through a screened door and ran east across Barrett disappearing between two houses.

Mr. Cramer went to the home of a neighbor and called the police

An investigation revealed the theives had "jimmied" the lock on the back door. The lock on the front door also had been damaged, but it was thought this was done in getting out of the house.

A good description of the two was obtained and a car they occupied was also identified. Police are making a check of several youths in hopes of getting the house-breakers.

Damage Slight In Two Fires

The fire companies answered two alarms, Saturday afternoon and evening, bringing the total for the year to 155 answered more than an average of a fire a day.

The first call was at 2:34 o'clock to the residence of May Cooper, 207 East Saline street, where burning grass had set fire to a shed. Slight damage resulted.

At 5:40 o'clock a burning outbuilding at the residence of Leonard Hall, 109 South Quincy avenue caused a run by the companies. Damage of about $25.00 resulted.

Two In Escape From Prison Farm

Paul Alpha Whiteman, 25, Sedalia, and Harvey Harry Harger, about 26, were reported to the Sedalia Police by the State Highway Patrol as having escaped from the Missouri Penitentiary Church farm, near Jefferson City, sometime about 5 o'clock Saturday evening.

Whiteman was sent to prison several months ago for two years on a charge of burglary,, and Harger was serving a four year sentence on a charge of burglary from Kansas City.

One Killed Working At Proving Grounds

LAS CRUCES, N. M., April 15—(AP)—One man was killed and another injured today while working with compressed air at the White Sands proving grounds near here

Other than the bare announcement, White Sands officials declined to release details of the accident.

Earlier it was reported the accident happened while the two men —identified only as civilians—were working with a rocket.

White Sands is a joint defense installation for testing of rockets and for upper atmosphere research.

Education Class Meeting

The Broadway Parents Education class met at the home of Mrs. William C. Bessmer, 416 West Fourth street, at 2:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Bert Goldman, chairman, presided.

The meeting was on: "Manners of Our Children".

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Elmer Maune and Mrs. John Fleming.

Critically Ill

Freighter Drifts Helplessly at Sea

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—The Canadian freighter Federal Trader was reported drifting helplessly tonight in the Atlantic ocean near Sable island off the coast of Nova Scotia.

The vessel radioed coast guard headquarters here it could not get up steam and was drifting toward Sable island.

The ship's distress message said it then was about 40 miles from the island.

The coast guard said it had messaged the Canadian Search and Rescue group, at Montreal, the Marine group of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The 2,861-ton vessel is of Canadian registry and its home port is Montreal.

Talk on Sedalia Sewerage

Richard Lindemood, 618 West Seventh street, resident engineer or Burns and McDonnell Engineering company, engineers for the sewer improvement program being installed in Sedalia, was one of the speakers at the eighth district meeting of the Western Missouri Water and Sewage Conference held at Boonville, Thursday.

Mr. Lindemood talked on the re-building of the Sedalia sewerage system and pointed out that upon completion of the project, Sedalia will have one of the finest and most modern sewerage systems in this part of the country.

Miss Pershing Is Still Critical

JEFFERSON CITY, April 15—(AP) — Warren Pershing, of New York, son of the late Gen. John J. Pershing, said tonight his aunt, Anna Mae Pershinp was "doing pretty well" at St. Mary's hospital here.

Miss Pershing, 83, of Lincoln Nebr., suffered a paralytic stroke last Monday night in her hotel room a few hours after she had presented one of the World War I general's gold mounted swords to his native state of Missouri.

The nephew, a New York banker, said he probably would return to New York tomorrow and come back here to see his aunt again next week-end.

Miss Pershing has been in critical condition since suffering the stroke and doctors said it would be ten days or two weeks until they could tell whether she would recover.

To Veterans Hospital

park as a result of the clearing, bull-dozing, and grading of the major portion of that park.

Ice Storm A Blow

"This winter's ice storm was a terrific blow to the parks with their better than 600 trees damaged in one degree or another. Expert tree surgery has healed that damage, but approximately fifty acres of parks had to be cleared of fallen limbs, and our employees then had to hand rake those acres to remove the small limbs from them. This has now been completed and the turf rolled in preparation to open the parks this spring.

"A timely program of repair has saved many future bills for the park board. Our heating plant has been repaired; new and lasting netting has been placed on the tennis courts and needed portions of the baseball backstops. The fence of Liberty ball diamond has had two coats of paint, and the ballstand floor has been waterproofed. All benches and tables have been repaired and painted. Monthly checks of operating equipment have been made for safety.

Studied Other Pools

"The Park board instituted an investigation in 14 cities of the operation of swimming pools similar to our two new pools. The knowledge gained from this investigation should prove invaluable to the proper operation of the pools this year. The board also constructed guards for the pool underwater lights, and provided for the winter maintenance of the two pools after they were released by the contractors.

"The drive in Washington Park was resurfaced this last summer, and a series of uniform signs placed in the drive at Liberty Park.

"The opportunity for city-wide sport and recreation has been fostered by the repairs and additions to the baseball facilities at Housel, Center, and Liberty Parks. The re-establishment of the drinking fountain at Hubbard Park, and the installation of a new fountain at the Rotary Shelter at Liberty Park has rendered the picnic areas more enjoyable. The band concerts sponsored jointly by the park board and the American Federation of Musicians Local 22 have been very largely attended.

"The contract for the new lighting at Liberty and for soft-ball lighting at Center has been let, and some of the materials have already been shipped for the project. Our contractors state that the lights in both cases should be ready well in time for most of thi ssummre's baseball games.

"Respectfully submitted,
"Sedalia Park Board
"Cline Cain, Sec'y.

One Hundredth Birthday Is Celebrated

her. She goes over and over her cards and tears open the tnvelopes in various places.

Cards From Germany

Among the cards, too, were some from Germany, friends of her daughter, Mrs. Cora Bragunier, and then there were cards from people she never even heard of but who knew she was soon to celebrate her hundredth birthday anniversary. She even had cards from people she didn't know, who live in Kansas.

Gifts had already started coming, too, and she got out one of her boxes of candy with peppermint balls and orange slices, and passed it around. Her favorite candy, however, is stick candy When she was a little girl back in 1859 making the trip with her parents from Virginia by boat to Boonville, that was the one thing she remembered most about the trip. When they landed at Boonville they got some stick candy and her liking for stick candy has never changed.

This will be a big day for Mrs. Bobbitt with relatives and friends to surprise her by dropping in to see her. She confided she would like to have a party but it would be too much work for her daughter. But she will have party, a ten dollar cake and more cards and gifts. She is going to have a big day for it isn't everyone who lives to celebrate their hundreth birthday anniversary—that, indeed is a rare occasion.

An all day meeting at camp Sakajawea opened the spring activities of the Sedalia Girl Scouts on Saturday, April 1. One hundred and thirty leaders and scouts took part in the clean-up project under the direction of the camp director, Mrs. Carl Siegel. The troops were assigned to different phases of the clean-up project and by 3:30 o'clock the camp grounds and buildings were in fine condition for the 1950 camping season.

First prize awards went to troop 33 at Whittier school with Mrs. Mary Houston and Mrs. C. H. Hall as leaders. Second prize went to troop 17, Mark Twain, with Mrs. Clay Williams and Mrs. J. M. Blue as co-leaders.

Troop 30, Broadway, under the direction of Mrs. Paul Houston won honors with a bird house they constructed.

Camp Sakajawea will be full of activity during the spring and summer months. Girl Scout troops will spend week-ends at the camp for overnight camping. The day camp for 1950 under the direction of Mrs. Harry Lambirth will take place in June.

Young Lovers Found in Cabin

Routed by Tear Gas—Girl Wounded In the Capture

QUESNEL, B. C., April 14—(AP)—An all-night siege of armed young lovers in a wilderness cabin ended Friday with the capture of a youth and his 16-year-old girl friend.

They stood off a posse of Canadian officers and civilians more than 12 hours. Driven from the cabin fortress by tear gas, the sweet-hearts were captured on a nearby ridge where they had taken refuge. The girl was nicked in the leg by a bullet from the posse.

Barking of the girl's collie dog led the posse to the hilltop hideout after tracking of the couple had failed.

Provincial police identified the defiant, trigger-free youth as Bert Lagace, 19. The girl, a juvenile, was not identified.

This British Columbia town is about 400 miles north of Vancouver. The siege scene was about 18 miles from the town.

Police had a wararnt charging Lagace with abduction of the girl. Her parents had sworn out a complaint against the youth after she had failed to return home Tuesday. She had been keeping company with him for several months, against her parents' wishes.

Police said the pair had broken into at least two cabins during their attempt to elude pursuit.

Officers said the girl had voluntarily accompanied Lagace.

Was Holding Rifle

They said she was holding a rifle when a posse bullet nipped her leg and sent her to a hospital.

The posse found the couple in the cabin late Thursday. A shot from inside held the men back. They waited until daylight to move in with tear gas. Two of four tear gas bombs were tossed back out to bring tears to posse members.

Her father, a respected Quesnel citizen, pleaded with her to come out. Officers said she shouted back: "I'll see you in hell first!"

The youth shouted: "If you want me, you'd better bring a coffin."

The couple dashed into the woods from the rear of the cabin as the possemen moved in under cover of trees and rocks.

After the dog gave away the couple's hiding place, and the girl was shot the posse rushed the position.

Sgt. Andy Fairbairn reported later: "Lagace put up a desperate struggle before we pinned him."

He said the girl "comes from a fine family" and had a good record previously: "I don't know what happened to her."

Helen G. Steele Music Club Has Annual Election of Officers

The annual business meeting and election of officers for the Helen G. Steele Music club on Wednesday afternoon brought to a close an outstanding year for the club.

A luncheon for board members and a board meeting preceded the regular business session. Mrs. E. F. Yancey, life president, presided and gave a brief resume of the year's work. She introduced Mrs. G. V. Jones, who read the poem, "Ever Near" (Arr) as a memorial tribute to Mrs. George Sneed and Mrs. W. H. Powell. The club members led by Mrs. A. H. Bratten sang "In the Garden" with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano. Mrs. Yancey, accepted on behalf of the Music Club, a copy of a march composed by Prof. W. B. Hert and dedicated to Smith-Cotton High School. The spirited march was played by Miss Mabel DeWitt.

The nominating committee composed of Mrs. G. V. Jones, Mrs. Henry Salveter and Mrs. Lawrence Geiger presented the following slate of officers, who were unanimously elected: Mrs. H. C. Johnson, first vice president; Mrs. A. Miles, recording secretary; Mrs. George Lovercamp, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Philip M. McLaughlin, auditor.

The new officers were introduced and the retiring officers were thanked by the president for their service to the club. Brief reports were given by the club treasurer and by the various committee chairmen. . . . meet me at the club

Ladies day at the country club is one event that more ladies should take advantage of. It's held every Thursday, and we really have an enjoyable time. This week we had creamed sweet breads, twice baked potatoes, pineapple salad, hot rolls, and strawberry sundae. You can make up your own table to play cards, or you can play golf, or you can just sit. The sun is warmer and the porch is lovely, so suit yourself—but do come out. You know its fun to get away from home and mix a little.

There were two tables of bridge and two of canasta Thursday. Winners in bridge were, Mrs. E. H. McLaughlin and Mrs. L. C. Yunker. Winners in canasta were Mrs. Harold Dean and Mrs. Victor Scott.

Sixty attended the stag party held the 13th, but I can't give you much information about that Maybe we can get a report later—so, girls, keep your ears open. This is the second year the gents have had such an affair. The first was so successful it will probably prove to be another annual event.

A Sore Subject

The boys got a little of the worst of it Sunday in the golf match, but its a sore subject at our house so I just don't say too much about it. Martha and Dick Sklar had a nice party after the match. You know, Marilynn is Martha's cousin, and I predict that Marilynn has quite a future ahead of her. She's only twenty.

Today is the opening day of the golf season. Tom Yount is in charge of the Blind Handicap tournament, and there will be prizes and pleasure for all contestants.

Maybe a lot of you have wondered about the pipes on the ground in front of the club house. I have been informed that they are going to be installed to keep our greens watered. The greens can all be watered at once, because there will be sufficient pressure for distributing the water. Aren't we getting efficient! Our golf course does compare very favorably with most courses in the country, and I think we should be proud of it. Incidentally, do you know we have a good golf pro, too, and he's very anxious to give lessons. Starting the first of June we will have a program worked out for golf lessons, and the charge will be very little. I'll let you know. This is one game you're never too young or too old to play.

Spring Formal Last Night

The spring formal was held last night. Is today a bad day? Last night was a good night. There were about 250 people, and I think everyone had a good time. Hor's d'eurves were served at nine, and the club was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. They were a little hard to find this year with all of our cold weather. We have Virginia Scott and Ola Wright to thank for our activities this month They, and their committee, did a good job on the dance. Harry Trotman and his orchestra gave forth with a few specialties, as well as his usual routine. The ladies looked so pretty all dolled up. I only wish we had more formal dances. Then we'd get our money's worth—huh, girls!

Don't forget—this afternoon—the golf match! You can either follow the match or sit on the porch. Bring the kids, and remember its your club, so come on out and get the most out of it.

Thursday will be a big day for the women of the club. It will be the spring opening card party when all the girls may bring one local guest. So we expect to see a big crowd out at the club Thursday. But remember—reservations must be in by Monday noon. So get your reservations in early.

Couple Married on Easter Sunday

Miss Angeline Semkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Semkin, 902 East Boonville street, was married to Mrs. Walter D. Ehlers of Peoria, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ehlers of Mora, at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed church at 7:00 o'clock p. m. Easter Sunday. The Reverend W. C. Bessmer performed the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with baskets of Easter lillies, snapdragons and smilax, an archway entwined with smilax and candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Lillian Fox played "Because" by D'Hardelot and "Claire de Lune" by Debussy. She also played "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin and "The Wedding March" by Mendelssohn. Miss Esther Meinsenheimer sang "Always" by Berlin and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. During the ceremony Miss Fox played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a gown of white slipper satin. It was fashioned with a net yoke with scattered seed pearls. The sleeves were long and tapered to a point over the hand and the full skirt widened into an aisle wide train. Her headdress was of waxed orange blossoms to which a fingertip veil was attached. She carried a white Bible with white Easter lilies and white satin ribbon streamers, making a shower bouquet from the Bible.

Miss Kathryn Semkin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink net over nylon, fashioned with a turn back collar and full skirt. She carried

HOSIERY HINTS

Stretch and straight lines!

The above topic of our little hosiery forum is going so mean much to your daily beauty—and your daily calm—once we've explained. The stretch we're talking about is in the Sta-Tru Seam, one more point of perfection in wonderful Airmaid Nylons. And the straight lines we spoke of are those same seams by Airmaid. You see, the elasticity hugs the seam to your leg, so that seams can't go wandering off in every direction.

What better way to end the eternal feuding with hosiery seams than to buy Airmaid Nylons? You'll find them — most conveniently — at The East End Drug Store. Adv.

Style Guide for today's woman

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

STYLE-WISE women and girls are selecting their summer wardrobes now. Keep in mind that in this particular part of the country we have many cool summer nights, so you'll be needing a few dark summer things. Perhaps you won't want to wear the same coat you had for your spring suits and dresses with your summer casuals, therefore it is wise to pick up an extra light weight coat now. You'll find superb values on the sale racks at such ridiculously low prices, it won't harm your budget. You will also note that you can have many more changes this coming season, because everything is so reasonably priced. 'Round the clock wardrobes may be selected in cotton materials that are truly washable and nearly a 100% sanforized—so buy them to fit.

Five Sponsors For Sedalia's Semi-Pro Team

Cubs' Opener Will Be With Holden Here On April 30

Generally speaking, what was a dream of many baseball minded Sedalians a few months ago, is now turning into a reality, because the newly organized semi-pro baseball team, the Sedalia Cubs, now have the backing of five sponsors, and if enough baseball talent is obtained, the team may eventually wind-up as one of the strongest semi-pro teams in this locality.

A few months ago, a number of men interested in seeing that Sedalia is represented with a good semi-pro team, started to hold meetings, to see what could be done about the situation. Now the team has the following sponsors, Pacific Cafe, Sedalia Packing company, Cramer and Schrader Construction company, B. A. "Bunny" Fischer and E. W. Thompson Motor company.

This afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, the fifth practice session of the Cubs will be held at the Liberty Park dnamond. Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 5:15 o'clock, the boys will practice again, and on Thursday of this week, the starting players will be chosen.

Team Officials

The officials for the team are: Jack Alpert, manager; Cliff Barr, business manager, Jimmy Glenn, publicity manager, Nathan Jones, treasurer and Frank "Dutch" Eschbacher, score-keeper.

Alpert said there were five outfielders fighting for the three starting positions in the outfield. They are: George Thompson, Charlie Thompson, Lopp Barnes, Joe Waters and Max Smith.

The manager said he was looking for infielders, as some of the positions are wide open. There are three men assured, more or less, of postions in the infield, Cliff Barr, Jack Slocum and Bus Livingood. In running over the pitching staff, the manager named these three right-handers: Bus Walker, Bob Rapp and Bob Brown, and added that he could use a couple more hurlers. He invited any player living in this vicinity, who is interested in playing ball, and is not yet with a team, to come out to practice this afternoon for a tryout.

Good Schedule Planned

The Cub's manager, said they were planning a good schedule of ball games. Following are some of the teams the manager listed that the Cubs will play: Holden, J. C. Dodgers, Slater, Armstrong, House of David, Glasgow, J. C. Redbirds, Cash Bargain Lumber of Kansas City, and other traveling teams are being slated to meet the Sedalia aggregation.

If's Up to Attendance

As to the home games, the manager put it this way: "If the Cubs draw a large attendance here, then we will play most of our games here, but if the crowd is thin, we will have to play most of our games out of town."

The opening game of the season for the Cubs will be on Sunday afternoon at Liberty Park on April 30, against the strong Holden team. The Holden team is made up of baseball material from all over the states of Missouri and Kansas. A night game is scheduled here on May 12 with the Jefferson City Dodgers.

The manager said new uniforms have been ordered for the team and were due to arrive this Friday.

Cardinals Lose To Browns 5-3

ST. LOUIS, April 15 — (AP) — Three-hit hurling for six innings by Cliff Fannin and Roy Siever's bat spelled victory for the St. Louis Browns, 5-3, as they opened their two-game city exhibition series with the St. Louis Cardinals today.

The American League team took a two-run lead in the first inning when Billy Demars walked, Frank Gustine was hit by a pitched ball, Sievers singled scoring Demars, and Dick Kokos was out on a forced play at second as Gustine crossed the plate.

The Cards' first hit was a double by Harry Walker in the fourth but Walker was left on base. The Redbirds picked up their first run and the only one off Fannin—in the fifth frame when pitcher Ken Johnson singled to left, scoring Eddie Kazak.

But the Browns picked up two more tallies in their half of the fifth off Sievers' bat as he doubled home Fannin and Demars.

The Cards added two runs in the seventh against Brownie relief hurler Dick Starr.

Johnson, the Cardinal started, was wild giving up five bases on balls as well as hitting Gustine once in his five innings. He allowed five hits.

Harvey Bros. to Sponsor Softball Team in Sedalia

The Harvey Bros. Implement company is sponsoring a softball team for the coming season. The team is to be known as the Sedalia Athletics.

New suits have been obtained and anyone who is interested in playing softball is asked to report at the Smith-Cotton diamond this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Baseball Opener for Local Team

Blues Play K. C. Team Today in Housel Park

The Teen-Age Blues of Sedalia will play Armour-Troost Motors of the Senior Division of the3 and 2 League of Kansas City in a baseball game this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at Housel Park.

Fisher or Walter will start on the mound for the Blues, with Lees receiving. Dave Wheeler, manager of the Armour-Troost team, said that Bob Bacchus and Bob Russell will form the Kansas City battery.

The visiting team boast some hard hitters in Mel Corum, Bob Shoemaker and "Ears" Davis.

Joe Fisher, manager of the Blues, said he would send in the following line-up:

Blue's Line-up

Thomas, 2b; Lane, ss; Wall, lf; Watson, cf; Vaught, 3b; Lees, c; D. Higgens, 1b; J. Walter, rf; and W. Walter or Fisher, on the hill.

The ages of the Blues' players run between 15 and 18 years, and they are playing an older team this afternoon. The Armour-Troost Motors team rages run between 17 and 21. Although the local team is out-aged, it will be out for victory in this, the opener of the season.

The Teen-Agers are scheduling games with the various 3-2 League teams. The team was organized this season, and is sponsored by the Northeast Athletic Club.

The Blues are coached by Elmer Lane and "Doc" Cnavely and will be suited in new uniforms.

S-C Baseball Team Enters Tournament

ST. LOUIS, April 15—(AP)—The state's first high school baseball tournament has drawn 45 entries, F. Froebel Gaines, chairman of the tournament committee, announced today.

The finals will be held here May 25-27.

Twenty-four of the teams are from the St. Louis area. Also to be represented are Lile of Kansas City, and teams from Sedalia, Cape Girardeau, Southwest City, Salem, Mexico and Hallsville.

The tournament is sponsored by the Missouri State High School activities Association.

The Smith-Cotton baseball team has been working out at the Sixt enth street and Center avenue ball diamond in the evenings, under Coach James Ball and assistant, Cecil Glenn.

Twenty boys have been working for starting positions. They are: Bob Ray, Dave Johnson, Virgil Rogers, "Skip" Schulz, Bill Arnold, Gene Frye, and Bill Brown, pitchers; Dean Edwards, Bill Holst, Dale Ruffin, Bill McCrary and Richard Lanning, outfielders; Gilbert Leinter, Don Broaddus, Bill Morgan, Ralph Walker, infielders, Ken Neiholdt, Leon Nold, John Cochran and Floyd Burton, Catchers.

Improvements Have Been Made at the Sedalia Course

The men golfers of the Sedalia Country Club will officially open the golf season today with a blind handicap tournament, which is an event that will permit the high handicapped players an equal opportunity to vie with the low handicapped players.

The first prize will be three golf balls, the second prize, two golf balls, and for third place winner, one golf ball will be awarded. Tom T. Yount, a member of the golf committee of the Sedalia Country Club will be in charge of this event.

With favorable weather, a large turnout is anticipated. The greens are in excellent shape and the fairways are coming out. The Country Club is in the middle of installing a complete new water system to all greens and tees, which will permit watering of all greens simultaneously. The installation of the water system will not hinder the play of the course.

Improved Tees

Since last year, all of the tees have been made twice or three times their original size. These improvements will make the course one of the outstanding nine-hole courses in the midwest, and the course is becoming a great source of pride, not only to the local golfers, but to many golfers in this region.

Last year, the Sedalia Country Club made its facilities available to the Sedalia Athletic Association for the promotion of a pro-amateur tournament, which was open to golfers in the region. In addition to the golfers in the state who attended, Loddie Kempa, National left handed champion of 1949 and Ky Lafoon, Chicago, participated in the event.

It is anticipated that the Sedalia Athletic Association again this year, will sponsor the same type tournament. It is understood that a chairman has already been selected to head this event.

Results of Exhibition Games Played by the Major Leagues

CLEVELAND, April 15—(AP)—Cleveland got only two hits today off a trio of New York Giant pitchers and lost to their cross-country rivals in a exhibition, 9 to 0.

Larry Doby got a single for the Indians in the fourth and Bob Avila, rookie second baseman, doubled in the eighth.

Game Halted by Rain

BOSTON, April 15—(AP)—The Boston Braves teed off against right hander Joe Bodson for a 4-1 victory when they resumed their intra-city series with the Red Sox in a game halted by rain after seven innings today at Braves Field.

7 to 4 Win for A's

PHILADELPHIA, April 15—(AP)—Home runs by Eddie Joost and Sam Champman helped the Philadelphia Athletics blast two of the Philadelphia Phillies' most effective pitchers—Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer— for a 7 to 4 victory in the opening city series game today.

Pitcher Looked Impressive

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 15—(AP)—Art Houtteman, a possible starter for Detroit in its American League opener Tuesday, was impressive today as the Tigers defeated the Louisville Colonels of the American Association in an exhibition contest, 8 to 3.

Houtterman took a three-inning workout and set down the nine batters he faced in easy fashion.

Di Maggio's 5th Homer

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—Joe Dimaggio socked his fifth home run of the spring to highlight a five run fifth inning rally that enabled the New York Yankees to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-4, before 12,000 fans today. The triumph was the Yanks' first of the year over their 1949 World Series foes.

Dimaggio unloaded off veteran Preacher Roe to break a scoreless tie and open the gates.

$70,000 Investment Clicks

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Clark Griffith's $70,000 investment, rookie outfielder-first baseman, Ivy Moren, made an auspicious debut before 3006 frozen fans today at Griffith Stadium. He slammed a home run over the right field wall with one man aboard in the first inning and helped Washington down Pittsburgh, 4-2.

Two right handers, Joe Haynes and Ray Scarborough, tamed the Pirates in the first of a two-game exhibition series. They scattered seven hits between them. Scarborough was nominated today by manager Bushy Harris tc pitch for the Nats on opening day Tuesday.

Cubs Defeated Sox 3-1

CHICAGO, April 15—(AP)—The Cubs opened the Chicago baseball season by beating the White Sox, 3-1, before 8,680 persons in Comiskey park today.

It was the Cubs' twenty-first win of the exhibition season in 31 games and the north siders' first in three games against their Chicago rivals.

Four Cub pitchers, Johnny Schmitz, Doyle Lade, Paul Minner and Walter Dubiel checked the White Sox on three scattered singles.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

A rude awakening is in store for some of the local semi-pro baseball players—IF baseball attendance runs true to form at some of the semi-pro parks. The Sedalia Cubs are claiming some of the semi-pro clubs near Sedalia are getting local players to play for them on a salary basis. The local team has nothing more to offer than good clean baseball, a lot of sport, and the hopes of ending the season with a plus sign in the bank so the players can divide any profits left.

But I think the Cubs' offer is good. Sedalia would have an excellant chance of winning a lot of games, building up a fairly good attendance, and at the same time cut in on some tournaments and come out money winners. At the end of season the "cut" or "take" which ever you might call it would not be too bad.

When a team dips down into a town to get players and promises salaries of $7.50 to $15.00 a game, plus expenses, they certainly are going to find it hard to pay off unless the attendance is better than it has been in recent years. The only team in or near this area, and that couldn't necessarily call Holden this area, is the Holden team. Holden probably is the only semi-pro club in this part of the state that showed a plus sign at the end of the season—but baseball games played there pulled out terrific attendance.

Sedalia has a chance to build this year. The reason, better lighting has been, or rather is being established at the local park. This alone should make it possible to bring in better teams, draw better crowds and in the long run build up a fund. The day of paying salaries in semi-pro baseball and still being able to come out on top is gone as far as many such teams are concerned. There are a few, but a very few exceptions.

Well can I remember when players were paid by the Sedalia clubs—and well can I remember when the sponsors came out on the very very short end. Maybe I am wrong boys, but I think the Sedalia Cubs still have a better deal as they will have no bubble to brust and all will be treated equally.

SOME discussion over players has been had the past several days about Ban Johnson players jumping from that class of ball to semi-pro and some of the better boys thinking of leaving Junior Legion for Ban Johnson. This just shouldn't be, boys of Junior Legion should and must stay in their own class Ban Johnson, theirs and the Semi-Pro should be able to muster a good team without dipping down.

As I understand it a gentleman's agreement has been reached as to this situation in Sedalia. I hope the three teams heed to the agreement and think of the future of Sedalia's baseball material. I hate like the dickens to harp on this subjct, but I see no other method than to issue a well deserving warning to team managers but to the players themselves TO STAY IN YOUR OWN CLASS.

It is easy for a ball player to think he is better than some of the boys of his own age and good enough to advance out of the class where he belongs—but in the long run he will find he has gotten too far ahead of himself before his time.

Working together will make it possible for all three teams to have good clubs—working apart will be the ruination of all.

THE members of the Sedalia Park Board are to be commended for their most recent decision—giving Sedalia a better lighted baseball park and giving Southeast Sedalia a softball park "with lights." The contract was let and signed last week making it possible to improve the system at Liberty Park and to install lights at the park at Fifteenth street and Center Avenue.

The improvement at Liberty Park should give Sedalia the best lighted semi-pro baseball park in Missouri. Engeneers' specifications and plans indicate such anyway.

These softball teams who have been yelling about lights will have them. Now lets see them get some games and have some of that good night softball out a Fifteenth street and Center.

Boys you owe a vote of thanks to the Park Board for their efforts.

218 Bowlers Enter Tourney In Sedalia

A Total of $218 In Cash Prizes To Be Awarded

The second annual Bowling Championship tournament, under the sanction of the American Bowling Congress, got underway Saturday night at the Sedalia Bowling Lanes with 218 entries competing for the big trophy and $218 in cash prizes.

The tournament consists of 25 five-man squad teams, 27 two-man teams and 39 singles. The five-man squad teams will end bowling tonight. This afternoon at 1:00 o'clock, the third squad will bowl, then at 7:00 o'clock, another five-man squad will enter competition with the last five teams to bowl at 9:00 o'clock tonight.

Next Weekend Schedule

Next week-end, the singles and doubles will bowl, and then the championhsips will be determined, and an all-events champion will be crowned.

At the end of the first squad shooting Saturday night, the Sport Center came out on top with a high score of 2970 pins with O. G. Nelson leading his team with 577 pins. Second highest in that squad was the Cal Rodgers team with 2933 pins, with McMullian and Whitaker Distributing company taking third place with a score of 2840.

Connie Michaelis, Jr., had a high three game score of 588 pins, and Harry Gudmundson had single game score of 212 pins.

Paul Maxwell is the Sedalia Bowling Association secretary.

Missouri Tigers Lose Baseball Game, 3 to1

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 15—(AP)—The Nebraska Cornhuskers baseball team made it two in a row over the Missouri Tigers with a two-run rally in the tenth inning for a 3-1 victory today.

Nebraska won the first game 7-1 yesterday.

The Missourians came up with three double plays behind Smith's pitching, which netted 11 strikeouts, but the Tiger hurler also issued six walks.

Bob Camp allowed Missouri only seven safeties and struck out three.

Big Audience For Baseball This Year

Diamond Jubilee Season Opens This Tuesday

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—The diamond jubilee season for the diamond game opens Tuesday and countless millions will see or hear baseball compared to the few thousands who followed the first big league teams in 1876.

This year the spread of television and the use for the first time of two radio networks assures the major leagues of its greatest audience—incalculably more even than 1949.

Total direct attendance may fall off slightly, but even that depends both on economic conditions and the closeness of the pennant races.

Winter came back with snow and rain in most big league cities at the weekend, but high hopes were held for sunshine.

It is the National League that claims the honor of presenting big league baseball for three quarters of a century. It was organized Feb. 2, 1876. The American League came into being in 1900.

Opening Games

President Truman will preside at the usual ceremonies in Washington. The full list of opening games:

American League

Philadelphia at Washington.
St. Louis at Chicago.
Detroit at Celevland.
New York at Boston.

National League

Boston at New York.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia.
Chicago at Cincinnati.
Pittsburgh at St. Louis (night).

This will be the first time any major league team has ever played a night game to open the season. In all, 409 night games have been scheduled in both leagues, a new high. Last year there were 384, and in 1940 only 81.

Defending Champs

The New York Yankees are defending their American League and world championship, and the Brooklyn Dodgers are defnding their National League pennant.

Few expect the unprecedented hysteria of 1949 will be repeated when both league races were determined in the final games of the season, but tight contests are expected.

In the National League the young Brooklyn team is a 6-5 betting favorite to repeat. The odds against the St. Louis Cardinals are 3-1, against the Boston Braves 4-1, The Philadelphia Phillies 8-1, and the New York Giants 12-1. The others are not taken seriously.

Manager Is Pleased With Legion Team

New Uniforms Have Been Ordered by Team's Sponsor

The Junior American Legion Post 16 baseball team under the managership of Homer Earhart, worked out Saturday afternoon at Liberty Park with an Inter-squad game, between the "A" and "B" squads. Earhart said he was very pleased with the teams' showing as a whole, but some flaws are still to be worked out.

In the outfield, Don Broaddus seems to be the only player to have a berth clinched. Broaddus played a good game at first base last year, but wanted to change to the outfield this season. Floyd Burton, a long ball hitter, Jim Fall and Bill Dey, two lefties, round out the outfielders, but they have not assured themselves regular spots.

The infield has two hold overs from last year's state tournament club in Bob Shawver and Bill Morgan. Shawver is going to play shortstop and Morgan is moving from third to first. Bob Bartlett is holding the "hot corner" down at the present time and Don Percival is handling the keystone sack. All four of these boys are hitting the ball with regularity and with distance.

Top Catcher

Big John Cochran is the first string catcher without doubt. He is ably backed by Junior Pirtle. Cochran seems to have what it takes to be one of the best catchers ever put out by the local legion team in a number of years.

Ralph Schulz and Dave Johnson are the two returning pitchers. Pitchers who will probably see their first year of Legion ball are Jack Barnes, Virgil Rodgers, Jack Kays and Bill Arnold, Jr. Arnold was used for utility last year, but didn't take up the twirlers game until this year. Schulz should be the standout on the staff this year, but the other boys have shown signs that they too, would be in there battling for starting assignments.

Although the boys mentioned above have the inisde tract for starting positions none have been assured, and the boys will have to hustle all year to stay in the "charmer nine".

New suits have been ordered by the sponsor of the team, the W. A Smith Motors, Inc.

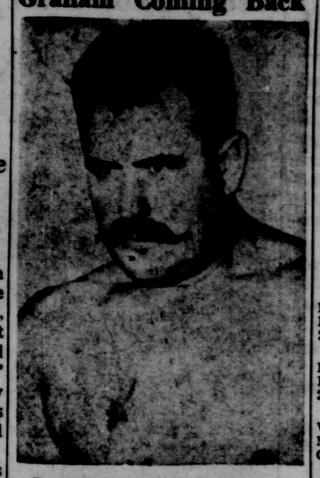
Graham Coming Back



Roy "Cowboy" Graham, Dallas, Texas, is coming back to Sedalia to make the blood of the local fans boil into a rage. Graham is one wrestler who the fans like to see and yet they despise as a wrestler. He meets Mayes McLain of Lawrence, Kansas, in the semi-windup event on the regular Wednesday night wrestling card.

B-J Chiefs Play Inter Game Today

Approximately 50 Games are Slated For the Home Team

An inter-baseball game between squads of the Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs will be played this afternoon at 1:00 o'clock at the Liberty Park baseball diamond After the game, the first string players will be chosen by the manager and coaches.

Undoubtedly, the pitching staff for the chiefs this year will be Joe Imhauser, Bobby Brown, Jim Egbert and Bob Ray. G. O. "Dutch" Hawley will manage the team, and Cal Rodgers and Rudy Bus, will be team coaches. Walter W. Jessee is vice-president of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League.

Game Schedule

The Sedalia Chiefs will play approximately 50 games this season, with 30 of them being league games. Out of the 50 games, approximately 35 games will be played at home. The team will open the season Sunday, April 29 at Eldon. The official league opener for the Chiefs will be on Sunday night, May 7 at Liberty Park, against the Boonville Lions.

About 35 boys between the ages of 17-21 have been showing up for baseball practice sessions. Some of the players have come to Sedalia to workout, from La-Monte, Windsor, Knob Noster, Warrensburg, Hughesville, Houstonia, Cole Camp and Warsaw.

Young baseball players, not yet on a team, are invited to turnout for a tryout this afternoon.

Lotowhite Zoomed To Victory In Handicap

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—A new name rocketed into the Kentucky Derby picture today when Hal Price Headley's Lotowhite zoomed to a four and one-half length victory in the $27,750 Experimental Free Handicap No. 2 at Jamaica.

Hill Prince, the 1 to 2 favorite of a stunned crowd of 41,068, never got into the act and wound up an inglorius ninth in the field of 11 three-year-olds. Eddie Arcaro said Hill Prince hit the rail leaving the backstretch, and was knocked clear off stride.

It was a field day for the long shot players, as J. M. Seider"s Royal Castle took second money, a length and a half ahead of F. N Phelps' California Invader, Sturdy One. Mrs. Andy Schuttinger's Ferd was fourth, another length and a half away.

Lotowhite, an 18 to one shot, never won a race in 13 starts as a two-year-old. This was his sixth race as a sophomore, and only his second victory. Royal Castle, a non-Derby eligible, was 47 to 1, and Sturdy One was 27-1.

One fall with a 30-minute time limit.

Place: National Guard Armory.
Time: 8:30 P. M. Wednesday.
Referee: Jack Hader, Kansas City.

Sonny Meyers, St. Joseph, Mo., gets his wish Wednesday night when he enters the wrestling ring of Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, at the National Guard Armory. He will meet Lee Henning, Buffalo, N. Y., in the main event who has been the terror of the midwest for the past several months. The opening match starts at 8:30 o'clock.

Meyers a well known mat man of this area has been "itching" for a chance at Henning for sometime in the Sedalia ring. Meyers having won last week and Henning the victor in his match brought the two together for this week. Meyers has developed into one of the best heavyweights of the midwest and Henning is considered one of the toughest to invade the midwest. It will be interesting to watch the two when they meet.

Villian is Coming

Coming back to Sedalia for the semi-windup match is one of the most hated of the villian group, Roy "Cowboy" Graham of Dallas, Texas. Graham is slated against Mayes McLain, Lawrence, Kas., in a two-fall event. Graham who wres'ling fan boil with rage indicated he wanted to come back to Sedalia—providing the fans left him alone. This is almost a doubtful wish as the fans, first don't like Graham's tactics and second, he is one they love to "ride".

McLain a new comer to the local ring will be a good competitor for the Cowboy from Texas.

Opening Event

Opening the event of wrestling entertainment will be a match between Ellis Bashara of Houston, Tex. and Walter Sirois, Montreal, Canada. Sirois the man who has been having a string of bad luck following him is hopeful he will be like the "unlucky card player" his "luck" is changing. Sirois is a hard worker in the ring and his match with Bashara should be a real entertainer.

Back to Graham, the cowboy who has been in other territories the past several months claims to be in better condition than ever. He will endeavor to make short work of his opponent with the hope of getting a shot at the over winning Henning.

Impressive Score For Aggies Over Wildcats

MANHATTAN, Kas., April 15—(AP)—Oklahoma A. and M. pounded five Kansas State pitchers all over the park today to defeat the Wildcats 21 to 2 in a non-conference baseball tilt.

The Aggies got 22 hits, featured by a nine run third inning.

Bob Bartlett and John Tabor led the hitting spree for the Aggies, Bartlett got five hits including one home run, and Tabor got four blows, including two home runs.

The Aggies defeated K-State 3 to 0 here yesterday.

Fonda on With Play After His Wife Ends Life

Socialite's Body Is Cremated After A Simple Service

BEACON, N.Y., April 15—(AP)—Actor Henry Fonda's socially-prominent wife, being treated for a nervous disorder, killed herself Friday by slashing her throat with a razor blade.

She had been in a sanitorium more than two months.

She was Mrs. Frances Seymour Brokaw Fonda, 42, descendant of revolutionary war pioneers. Her first husband, a financier, left an estate of millions.

Fonda, who had been living apart from his attractive wife, hurried here after her suicide. After a simple funeral service the body was cremated.

The actor then returned to New York and went on stage as usual in the lead role of the hit show "Mr. Roberts" at the Alvin theater on West 52nd street.

His 863rd performance of the role was up to his usual standard.

Ushers, noting that few of the audience asked them any questions about Mrs. Fonda's death, judged that a majority of the playgoers were not aware of the tragedy.

An understudy, Marsahll Jamison, was rehearshing to replace Fonda when the actor arrived at the theater. Fonda has not missed a performance during more than two years the show has been playing.

Fonda himself would not see newsmen.

His press agent, Leo Friedman, quoted him as saying:

"It's awfully hard to say how I feel."

Mrs. Fonda had been at Craig House corporation sanitorium since she suffered a nervous breakdown Feb. 3. She was reported improving, however, and had the freedom of the grounds.

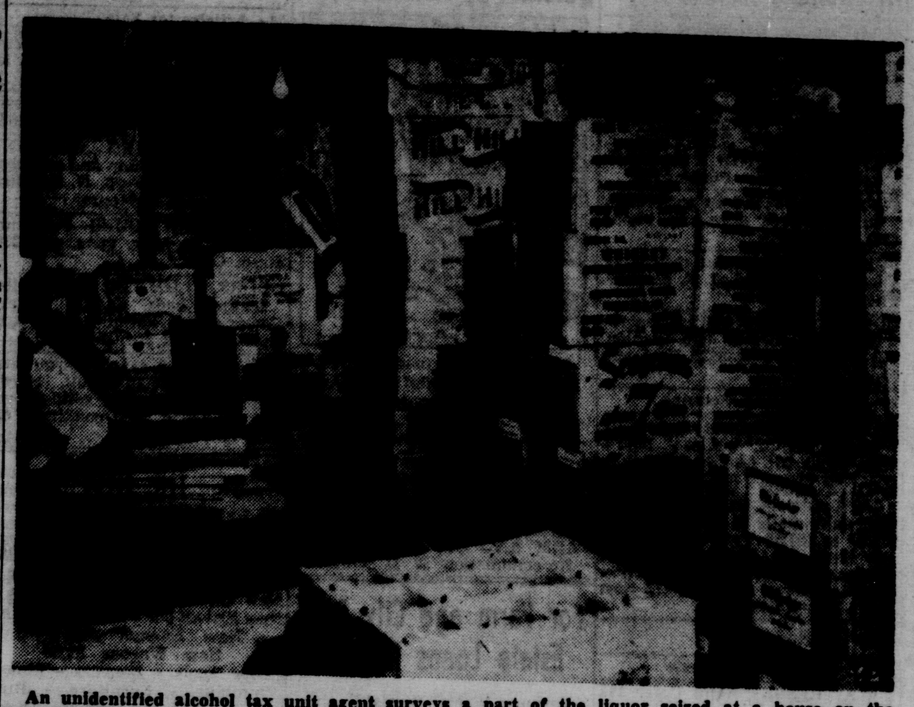
Tax Agent Surveys Liquor Cache



An unidentified alcohol tax unit agent surveys a part of the liquor seized at a house on the Kansas City northside where Charles Carollo, ex-convict and one-time political leader, was arrested with three other men on charges of trafficking in untaxed liquor. Agents said the liquor was intended for transshipment into dry klahoma. This scene is basement of raided house. (AP PHOTO)

Arrested in Liquor Raid

Charles Carollo, ex-convict and predecessor of the slain Charles Binaggio as leader of the First District Democratic club, stands outside the house in Kansas City, Mo., where he was arrested April 14 by federal alcohol tax unit agents for trafficking in untaxed liquor. The agents confiscated 1,053 cases of liquor which they said was valued at between $45,000 and $50,000. (Associated Press Photo)

Mary Martin, With South Pacific, A Wonderful Girl

By Mark Barron

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—Miss Mary Martin, a lady with a cute bang on her curly head, is a happy person. She is a top flight performer, can sing like a canary bubbling with honey and she continues to break Broadway records.

Miss Martin recently has been taking a week's vacation from her high-faluting show, as she would say in her native Weatherford, Texas, drawl in "South Pacific," a show which has been around here for some time. It is a tuneful musical which continues to be a top Broadway hit. And has just reopened after a short vacation.

There are some box office statistics which should be encountered before one meets the luscious Miss Martin. The advance sales of "South Pacific" already are beyond the $800,000 bracket.

As of today more than 800,000 persons have seen this musical, the weekly gross passing $50,600 and a grand total of nearly $3,000,000 already is in the cash tills for any of the boys who might need a spare buck for lunch.

Have Seen Auditions

Among those who have seen "South Pacific" auditions to hear any of the Hollywood offers. Miss Martin has a human, heartwarming quality, one where Katharine Cornell once came backstage and asked if she could borrow Miss Martin's make-up kit "because she had been crying and the tears have destroyed my make-up."

Met Drama Star

"Sure, missy," Miss Martin said to Miss Cornell. A musical show star thus met a serious drama star

Other than "South Pacific" Miss Martin has been singing such songs of her own as "Glad to Be Unhappy" and "Maybe" and "It's a Lovely Day Tomorrow." Also, she says, she has a new recipe for barbecue sauce. But, you will have to ask Mary Martin in person for that. And she is the kind of home girl who will cook it for you. That's Mary Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Mary Martin are Vice-President and Mrs. Alben W. Barkley, Margaret Truman, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, General Eisenhower, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the Shah of Persia, General Romolu and Governor Dewey.

Also around is Miss Martin's soft spoken husband, Richard Halliday, a motion picture executive. It is a true love match.

"South Pacific," Miss Martin's show, is a revealing criterion about how Broadway top hit shows are selling.

"Since Dec. 5," so the confidential report from Broadway reads, "the Damon Runyon cancer fund has sold 2,379 'South Pacific' tickets at a gross of $65,161.73 and a net profit to the fund of $55,398.53. The procedure followed was to sell the seats at $6 for an evening performance and $3.60 or $4.20 at matinees, plus a substantial contribution volunteered by the would be purchasers."

Good and Pretty Head

Miss Martin, a lady with a good and pretty head on her shoulders, refused to go back to the movies after her success in "South Pacific."

She said: "My contract in the theater doesn't expire until June, 1951 and I shall be playing Nellie in Forty-Fourth street right here until then. After that, I cannot tell. In England, I have many friends. Also in Texas."

So she has remained on the stage playing "South Pacific" and affirms that she will not accept

Missouri Pacific Shop Notes

Mr. and Mrs. John Rush left Thursday for Little Falls, Mass., where they were called on account of the death of Mrs. Rush's father who died suddenly. Mr. Rush is a carman.

Walter Pummill, carman apprentice, was a visitor in Kansas City Thursday where he accompanied his sister who entered a hospital there for medical attention.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dixon and son, Raymond, of San Diego, spent a few days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. August Walker. Mr. Dixon who is in the U.S. Navy, was enroute with his family to Baltimore, Md., where he is stationed.

M. H. Shelby, power plant engineer, who recently retired from service was presented with a gift Friday during the noon hour by his fellow shop mates. The gift was a rod and reel, fishing tackle, and complete fishing accessories. The presentation was made by J. H. Parsley power plant engineer. Mr. Shelby began to work for the Missouri Pacific March 1, 1928, and has worked in the power plant continuously since.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lutgen spent the week-end visiting their son and family in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hayden and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Edwards, of Carrolton, Mo., spent a few days last week visiting and sightseeing in Nashville, Tenn. While there they attended the Grand Old Opera. Mr. Hayden is a switchman for the Missouri Pacific.

A number of men have been called back to work at the shops during the past week and indications for a big program of work at the shop seem to be bright.

Word has been received in Sedalia by friends that Royal Harrison a former electrician at the shops had suffered a stroke at his home in Etawanda, Calif., and is in a serious condition.

W. R. Sugg, mechanical superintendent for the Missouri Pacific, with headquarters in St. Louis, was a business visitor at the shops the past week.

Mrs. Charles R. Dunlap of San Diego, Calif., arrived in Sedalia the past week to spend a vacation visiting her son, William Dunlap, boiler maker, and other relatives and friends in Sedalia. Mrs. Dunlap is a former resident of Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mopps, left Tuesday for St. Louis, where Mrs. Mopps will enter the Missouri Pacific hospital for medical attention. Mr. Mopps is a pipefitter.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Humes and son were visitors in Kansas City last Sunday where they attended the Ice Capades. Mr. Humes is a carman.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Young and daughter, Patty, and son, Sammie, of St. Louis are spending a two weeks vacation visiting in Sedalia. Mr. Young was formerly welding supervisor at the local shops but is now employed with the Missouri Pacific in St. Louis.

Ransacked Home Of James Grady

The police received a report late Friday night from James Grady, of 2704 South Ohio, avenue, that his home had been ransacked sometime between 6:30 and 10:30 o'clock that night.

Grady said a portable radio, a Luger pistol, a box of .22 calibre cartridges and a glass bank full of pennies were missing.

Police officers Cecil Smith and Bob Knox were sent to the residence and according to the police reports, the entrance was gain through an outside basement door.

The police are conducting an investigation.

Truman Appear In Sixteen States

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—President Truman will mix brief train appearances in 16 states with four or five sets speeches on his election year western trip starting May 7.

The White House made public part of the itinerary Friday and said it is still subject to change.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman had accepted an invitation to speak at Madison, Wis., on the way back the afternoon of May 14.

He also confirmed speeches at dedication ceremonies at Kortes dam, Wyo., May 9, Grand Coulee Dam, Wash., May 11, and at a big Democratic jubilee in Chicago May 15.

Tentative consideration has been given for a speech at Fargo, N. D., May 13. There were reports that Mr. Truman also would make an address in one of the Minnesota twin cities, St. Paul or Minneapolis, but the present schedule would have to be rearranged for that because as now drawn his train is due there at 4 a. m. May 14.

The brief stops which the President made popular on his preelection trip in 1948 were not announced in detail.

But it was learned the special train would pass through 16 states as follows: Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Plan for Small Church Needs

An area vacation and church school conference ,sponsored by the religious education forces of the co-operating denominations and the state council of churches will be held at the First Methodist church on April 27.

This institution is one of a series of 35 institutes to be held over the tate for the purpose of providing the resources and leadership to aid those who attend to become better teachers both in the church school and vacation Bible school.

The program is planned to meet the needs of the small church as well as the large church. This will be done in the presentation of material and in discussion.

The conference is open to Vacation Bible school leaders and teachers and church school administration leaders and teachers, ministers, superintendents and parents.

The teacher-leader for this area is Walter Baumgarten, assiisted by Mrs. Karl Baur, of Kansas City, Mr. H. A. Murphy, Mrs. Mabel Frazer of St. Louis, and Miss Martha Miller, of Mexico.

Mrs. Howard W. Edwards, of Sedalia, is local chairman.

Farmer Killed in a Fall Off Truck

STRAFFORD, Mo., April 15—(AP)—J. W. Ritterbach, 70-year-old farmer, was killed Friday when he fell from a truck at his farm home one and one-half miles east of here.

Greene county coroner Randolph Neale said Ritterbach suffered a broken neck and head injuries.

The coroner said the farmer and a hired hand were working on the truck bed when Ritterbach fell.

Neale said no inquest would be held.

Didn't Care What Selling; Didn't Want Any

TRENTON, Mo., April 15—(AP)—Census taker Kenneth Miller met with sales resistance when he called at a home here.

He identified himself when the housewife answered his knock, saying: "I'm the census taker."

"I don't care what you're selling" she replied. "I don't want any.

Approximately 100,000,000,000 pounds of milk are produced for sale every year in the United States.

Is Found Dead in His One Room Home

RICHMOND, Mo., April 15—(AP)—Charles F. Wallin, 75, was found dead Friday in his one room home east of Elkhorn, Mo.

Neighbors found the body when they went to investigate why they had not seen him since Tuesday. Dr. John Baber, county coroner, said the man died of natural causes.

Dr. Baber said the man was survived by a sister, Mrs. Augusta Herry of Topeka, Kas.

Carburetor Too Rich Makes Motorist Too Poor

Car owners who are wasting money and not getting proper gas mileage due to over-rich mixtures will be pleased to learn of a Wisconsin inventor who has developed a very clever unit that helps save gasoline by "Vacumating." It is automatic and operates on the supercharge principle. Easily installed in a few minutes. Fits all cars, trucks, tractors. The manufacturers, the Vacu-matic Carburetor Co., 7617-605K State St., Wauwatosa, Wis., are offering a Vacu-matic to anyone who will install it on his car and help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full free particulars if you write them or just send your name and address on a penny post card today.

Suspend Jail Term In Truancy Case

GALLATIN, Mo., April 15—(AP)—A father received a suspended 30-day jail sentence for the truancy of his 15-year-old son.

The conviction was followed by a warning from E. C. McNitt, county superintendent of schools, who said "most people do not realize there is a compulsory attendance law with 'teeth' in it."

Magistrate O. O. Mettle passed the sentence upon Herman Rowland, had missed 31½ days in 100 days or school. The son is a student in the seventh grade.

McNitt said the little-used law had been invoked several times in the county. He said the state law calls for attendance in school of all children between the ages of seven and 16, unless they finish the eighth grade after they are 14 and before they are 16.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

In Combination With the Sunday Morning Capital

Volume Eighty-two, Number 89 — Section Two — Sedalia, Missouri, Sunday, April 16, 1950 — Full Associated Press Leased Wire and Wide World Features

Red Cross Corner

From Mrs. Arthur M. Hoffman, chairman of the Staff Aides, we learn that Mrs. E. B. McNeill prepared and mailed 500 Red Cross News Sheets this week. Always interesting, this current edition of one of the outstanding ARC publications is unusually interesting, and provocative. For example, here is one story: Bad Esslinger, Germany. Soldiers on foreign duty are notoriously poor correspondents Distance, work, and the attractions of strange sights all conspire to kep them from writing home as often as they should. As a result, chaplains, Commanding officers, and Red Cross field directors receive many letters form worried parents asking them to look into sonny's neglect . . . . One such recent request took a Red Cross man to a small unit in northern Germany. When he arrived, he found the group's commanding officer giving his men a lecture on the importance of maintaining home ties . . . 'It takes only a few minutes to write a letter,' the CO was saying. 'and it keeps your folks from worrying. You owe them that much, at least'. Then he turned to the field director. 'I have a man here who seldom writes to his mother. She just contacted me to learn if he's in trouble—she's worried sick. So I've been sounding off on writing home.' . . . . The CO paused. 'Did you want to see me?' he asked . . . Yep,' said the Field Director. 'I have a letter here from our chapter in Phoenix.' 'That's my home town' said the CO . . . 'I know', replied the Red Cross man, 'It seems that your mother . . . '

Our campaign solicitors are continuing to bring thir reports into Headquarters office, 4101½ South Ohio. Territories are being reworked, and persons contacted who have been missed. Every effort is being made to get to every citizen of Sedalia and the county. As has been said before, many times in this column, Red Cross is like insurance. You contribute in your good times, and when the bad times come, the Red Cross gives it back to you, with compound interest. You give money. When you need it, you get material help, consultation, ready solutions to your problems, in other words, "a way out". So, if you have not already made your contribution to the 1950 Red Cross campaign fund, we suggest that you do so now. You'll never regret it.

Miss Margaret Egan, Chairman of Junior Red Cross, announces that a shipment of 18 Junior Red Cross gift boxes was made this week. These boxes contain needed articles such as pencils, pads, soap, wash clothes, tooth brushes, together with a small toy or two. This is the second shipment of gift boxes, the previous one consisting of 109 boxes. From now on, our Chapter is going to put greater emphasis on JRC. We have interesting plans in the making for our Juniors, and much thought is being given to the selection of 'natural leaders' in High School who will be capable of taking on a real responsibility in this most important youth work.

Interest in First Aid continues with new classes in the making, and plans for the Water Safety courses which will take shape when the swimming season begins. Parents can send their children to the new swimming pools with the assurance that adequate protection will always be at hand.

A peaked leather-soled shoe called the Cracowe was considered the heighth of fashion during the Middle Ages. Its point was so long that a chain tied around the knee held up the toe.

Wins $$$ For Voice

Marthe Errolle (above), 31, opera, concert and night club singer, has won a suit in New York for $40,000 because she allegedly has been unable to sing since her husband's death in an automobile accident. She sued Joseph A. Kelly, 30, a chemical firm executive, for $150,000, but accepted the smaller settlement. Kelly was driving the car in which the singer's husband was riding. (AP Wirephoto)

Israel to Export Flowers

TEL AVIV, Israel—(AP)—Israeli are going in the flowers-for-export business in a big way. It is hoped that Israel, within a few years, will become one of the world's principal suppliers of hardy winter varieties of flowers.

Israel already has made successful trial shipments of roses and gladiolis by plane to Switzerlnad and the United States.

Crossroads Comment

by G. H. S.

Is it too fantastic to suppose a nation-wide, well organized gambling and crime syndicate might control by narrow margin results of a national election—the same as units of the same syndicate pull strings in some state and city elections?

Current public anxiety over the domineering, devil-may-care attitude of organized criminals in Kansas City and other metropolitan areas, brings into focus a suspicion long held in minds of many that the success or failure of political parties in a national election might depend upon the nod of a crime czar.

Since the Binaggio-Gargotta slayings, public attention throughout the nation is being called to the powerful crime syndicate whose tentacles stretch into every state. At the top are not hoodlums but shrewd business men. To them crime is a billion dollar profession they direct. Underlings are the hatchet men.

What simple technique for such a syndicate with its far flung organization to promote propaganda for months in behalf of one party candidate to win by landslide proportions. Then, lop-sided betting odds thus established, direct and swing votes in strategic national areas, to upset the balance against the favorite, and collect millions of dollars from the losers. It has happened in horse-racing, dog-racing, yes even in big-time athletic events in the past. Why not in national, state and local elections?

Fantastic? From what the public has been reading lately—maybe not!

What about the apathetic public? Suckers, say the gamblers!

Suckers? The public, the taxpayers, suckers!

Why of course not. Americans are really charitable, full of the milk of human kindness, taking care of the world, the politicians, the racketeers, the gamblers, the needy.

What's wrong with two aged women on public relief back east becoming bored and taking off on a European vacation? They go broke and borrow $350 from the American embassy for passage back home. They again are broke on arrival in New York, so they go back on public relief—free eats, free housing, all that sort of thing.

And then this morning the Agriculture department adds butter and cheese surpluses to its domestic "giveaway" list. 15 million pounds of butter and 5 million pounds of cheese for relief and charity in the United States; along with potatoes, dried milk and powdered eggs. Thus the price support program continues to work.

Yes, indeed, the forgotten man is being taken care of as promised 18 years ago; although it appears in political circles today the forgotten men are the despised economic royalists—the American taxpayers.

Adequate public transportation service between Sedalia, Boonville and Columbia has been neglected for years.

Inconvenient transfer layovers at Marshall Junction has long been a discouraging factor to the traveling public.

The Fred Harvey Division of the Des Moines, Springfield and Southern Bus Lines will have a hearing before the Missouri Public Service Commission Monday, April 24 on a new route between Sedalia and Columbia. Application for the extension of the bus line from Marshall Junction over Highway 40 to Boonville and Columbia was made so direct service can be had between Sedalia and Columbia.

On the basis of the facts presently known, this is a forward step in transportation for the benefit of Sedalians, Pettis countians and people living south, east and west of Sedalia, the central take-off point.

Such direct service would be available for nearly 100 students and their parents from this area, not to mention transient and business patrons who travel between Sedalia and Columbia.

If the bus company's application is bolstered by public interest, action on it by the commission will be facilitated. For this purpose contact may be made with the agent at the Union Bus Depot in Sedalia.

Principle of North Atlantic Defense Pact Not Clicking

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—With U.S.-U.S.S.R. relations getting no better as a result of the U.S.-plane-over-Latvia incident, it's important to take a look at the recent Hague conference and see how the North Atlantic Pact is working.

That pact was founded on the idea that the United States would furnish the arms, Europe the men—for the defense of Western Europe.

It wasn't given publicity at the recent Hague meeting, but that principle isn't really working. In brief, Western Europe is hanging back about supplying the men.

The French, usually considered the great reservoir of military man-power, told Hague conferees they had an army tied up in Indo-China, where Communist guerrillas are killing French officers at the rate of one-half a West Point graduating class per year. It would be political dynamite to increase the French army now, they said.

Other smaller countries also didn't want to overtax their military budgets, all of which paved the way for two important proposals:

1. Bringing Spain, together with Franco's 500,00-man army into the North Atlantic Pact.

2. Arming a West German army of 150,000 men.

Thumbs Down on Spain

Neither proposal got anywhere.

The Spanish proposal, long advocated by the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, was vigorously opposed by British Defense Minister Emmanuel Shinwell, who explained that the British Labor government had only a margin of six votes in the House of Commons, and that bringing Spain into the North Atlantic Pact would lose Premier Attlee abiut 40 votes. Political opinion in British Labor circles, he said, was adamant against Dictator Franco.

So the Spanish proposal was dropped.

NOTE—Secretary of Defense Johnson has told friends that the Truman administration is not anxious to resume full-scale relations with Franco until he gives Protestants the right of free worship. Spanish Protestants are now virtually second-class citizens, it being difficult for a Protestant to win promotion in the Spanish army or in other government posts.

No German Army

The plan for a 150,000-man German army was made by the British, who argued that such a force could not be a threat to France unless equipped with an air force. The British proposed giving the Germans land-army equipment instead.

But the French said no. A German army, they argued, would do a right-about-face, and go over to the enemy in case of Russian attack. So the idea of a German army was also dropped.

That left Western Europe still considerably shy of the armies considered necessary to hold back a Soviet attack, and with some private talk among European defense chiefs that the United States should keep an army permanently on the continent.

Pugnacious Senator

Washington's pugnacious GOP Sen. Harry Cain started to beat up a reporter half his size the other day, but changed his mind when the little fellow stood his ground.

The near-brawl was staged in Cain's office after a difference of opinion over whether the Senator was "expendable."

Time reporter Frank McNaughton had rated Cain among the eight most expendable Senators—an opinion with which most newsmen heartily agree. Cain, however, did not agree, and angrily called McNaughton to his office.

"I had in mind to pull a trick on you that would just break your health," he stormed, his face livid with rage.

Lunging out of his swivel chair, the Senator started around the desk. McNaughton jumped up, prepared to defend himself.

"If you've got any tricks up your sleeve, you go ahead and pull them," challenged the mild-mannered little reporter.

But Cain changed his mind, ordered McNaughton out of his office instead, then proceeded to air his wounded vanity on the Senate floor, where he told amused colleagues it wasn't true that he was one of the Senate's most expendable members. The more he talked, however, the more the Washington Senator convinced his listeners the opposite.

Snarling defiance, Cain roared up at McNaughton in the press gallery, calling him "smug, arrogant, self-centered, vain and frustrated."

Exactly the reverse happens to be true. McNaughton is an able, modest, sincere newsman.

Then Cain sank to a new low in statesmanship. Lashing out from behind his congressional immunity, Cain called McNaughton a "4-F in war and a 4-F in peace."

"McNaughton has undoubtedly encouraged other men to die, but he has never stood on the sidelines and watched them die," harangued Cain.

"I lost even what had been my desire to laugh in the face of this pigmy," he sneered. "I did not even want to bat him around physically because that would have been like punching a bag of mush."

Merry-Go-Round

Perle Mesta, madame minister to Luxembourg, is back in town after only six months overseas—officially for consultation with Secretary Acheson. Real reason, however, is to see if she can talk President Truman out of an ambassadorship. After all, Eugenie Anderson, of Red Wing, Minn., is ambassador to Denmark. . . . The joint chiefs of staff have sent Secretary Acheson a stiff memo asking that he stop the shipment of steel from Western Germany to Communist China. High Commissioner McCloy had given his O.K. to the shipment of 15,000 tons of steel rails to China from German factories, but U.S. military men don't like it. Reminds them of the days when we sent oil and scrap iron to Japan. . . . The CIO is bringing 20 groups of unemployed from major U.S. cities to urge prompt government action to relieve growing unemployment. . . . The rift between southern farm and northern big-city Democrats in Congress is wider than ever since the Kerr natural gas bill was railroaded through Congress by a Republican-southern Democrat coalition.

The Strangle Hold

Music Modes

The new David O. Selznick-Alexander Korda presentation, "The Third Man," has created an unprecedented amount of excitement in music circles with its unorthodoxed musical scoring. The entire background music for the picture is built up by one lonely zither, played by the first man of the instrument, Anton Karas. The story behind all of this is very interesting and bears telling.

It all started when Carol Reed, an imaginative director with a flair for doing things in a different way, decided that his melodramatic story of post-war Vienna, "The Third Man," would be still more exciting if integrated throughout with special zither music.

To follow up this move, Reed then discovered Anton Karas, playing in a little known Austrian cafe. Karas composed and executed the special zither score for the flicker and by the time he reach London, where he was to work on the final scoring for the picture, his fame had preceded him. Karas was offered a job at the swank Express club, and Princess Margaret, hearing exciting tales about his accomplishments, couldn't wait for the official opening. She phoned to ask if she could bring a party over to the club at six o'clock instead of the regular nine-thirty premiere, and for an hour and a half she and her friends listened to repeated scores from the film.

Others Like "Zither"

Princess Margaret has been only one to have fallen under the entrancing qualities of the zither music. For example, more than 100,000 recordings of one of the zither "Third Man" numbers were sold in London within three weeks.

When the Selznick researchers began "cracking" dust covered reference books in the search for publicity material on the picture, lo and behold they find that Nero didn't play a fiddle while Rome burned . . . it was a precursor to the present zither.

The old phrase "Nero fiddled while Rome burned" will have to be changed to "Nero zithered while xxx." The instrument that Nero played was actually an early model of the zither, it was called a "cithara." The "cithara player," or to be correct, the "citharoedus" was distinguished from other Romans by a specially-designed toga. Gold coins found in Roman ruins bear the likeness of Nero dressed as a "citharoedus." This evidence furthers the reports made by the picture's research men in that Nero had a "hankering" for twanging a zither.

Prototype of Modern Instruments

The zither is a prototype of all of our modern string instruments, including the guitar, violin, spinnet, clavichord and piano. The true birthplace of the zither is rather difficult to trace. The Selznick zither experts report that "allusions to the a string instrument of the zither type have been found as far back as 1700 B. C." In ancient China, zithers were referred to erroneously as "lutes," and mention of them is made in an ode written about 1100 B. C. The She, or long zither, was one of the instruments played by the great Chinese poet and philosopher, Confuscious.

Confuscious didn't have anything on the famed Greek warrior, Achilles. He has often been alluded to as a singer and performer on the early zither. Since the artistic element was rather a common thing among the Greeks, it is probable that Plato and Aristotle, the great Greek teachers and philosophers, were also adept in zithering.

A Loved Instrument

In the intervening centuries that filled the gap between the pre B. C. era and about three decades past 1800, the zither became a much loved instrument in the Austrian highlands and the people of that area did much to improve on the ancient models. The zither is a difficult instrument to play well because of its complicated chord formations, but the ability to play at par is a birth-gift to most of the Austrian highland peasants and defenitely satisfies their musical needs.

The present version was introduced into Great Britain about the middle of the 19th century. With the immigration into this country in the following years, zithers came along. The zithers became a rage in this country for some time, especially around the turn of the century. The vogue died out because the trouble of tuning the instrument is simply too much for an amateur.

The acceptance of this plectrum deal, which incidentally lies on a table or a stand, by the more progressive musicians is slightly of a different hue. The pop musicians trade journal, Metronome, often called the "Boppers Bible," has added a word to its record rating chart. For those not familiar with this publication we offer this explanation.

The magazine has a record review in its exterior. The chart reads A, artistically extraordinary, A- excellent, B+ very good and so forth. Near the bottom of the chart, it reads, D, terrible, and alas, Z, zither.

Good Actors

Oh yes, we almost forgot to mention, the picture has actors. Joseph Cotton, Valli, Orson Wells and Trevor Howard. There is a plot too and the entire spectacle can be witnessed and heard at the Fox Theater starting on April 23rd.

Joe Ruddick, Fox manager, has been running the background music of the picture, "The Third Man Theme" and "The Cafe Mozart Waltz" in the intermission periods.

"It's haunting," says Ruddick, speaking of the music; "and the people are simply going crazy about it."

BACK TO NORMAL WITH THE HELP OF GOD

You perhaps are tempted to look to your surroundings, or to others—to everything except to yourself and God—as the way out. Don't—there is no other way out. Listen to the doctor's story of this once-desperate soul. Mrs. ——, 25 years old, was suffering from arthritis. She had gone from place to place in the United States seeking health, and had no faith in doctors as she had consulted over 50. She was in a hopeless state of mind and was filled with fears: afraid of getting well; afraid of losing her home; afraid of losing her husband's love; afraid of never being able to walk again. She was convinced that life was a "total loss," and was filled with a definite sense of guilt. Many times nurses would come out of her room in tears because they could not do anything right—she was so hard to please.

Her first step toward God was to trust Him with some of her simple fears. She began to co-operate, so that nurses no longer dreaded taking care of her. Then she began to walk. Suddenly she developed all the symptoms of a gastric ulcer when a malicious friend wrote telling her that her husband was unfaithful. She surrendered this sorrow to God and the symptoms of the ulcer left. Then her husband came and the matter was straightened out. Twice she had a return of pain—once when she lost her temper with her father-in-law; but after she had straightened out the difficulty with him, her pain left.

The patient confesses that two years prior to the arthritis she had been running away from life because of an affectional conflict, and that during the two years when her husband was studying she had been living a double life, staying out late at night, drinking in order not to think, and smoking incessantly. She saw that her way of life was what had broken down her health and had given her arthritis—that the cause of her ill-health was not physical but spiritual. She concludes, "I'm back to normal with the help of God." Sin is the abnormal; it is a trying to live against life, and that cannot be done.

O my Father and my God, I face, as this woman did, the tangled strands of life—tangled by my own sins and follies. Here and now I promise Thee that no stone will be left unturned, no pledge unfulfilled until I am free in Thee. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Dropsy in the Inner Ear May Cause Slow Loss of Hearing

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service.

Ringing, buzzing, swishing, pounding, hissing or other kinds of noises in the ears cause an enormous amount of discomfort and anxiety. Most people say that they would be willing to do almost anything to get rid of these noises. They are often associated with spells of dizziness; sometimes people actually fall and injure themselves when attacked by such a dizzy spell.

The sounds complained of are not heard by other people and yet they are not imaginary. Most often they come from something deep in the ear or hearing mechanism itself. Several of these are grouped under the name Meniere's syndrome. This condition, in addition to causing the ear noises and causing attacks of dizziness, is usually accompanied by a slow but gradually worsening loss of hearing.

In one of the most important forms of this condition the cause is believed to be a dropsy in the deep portion of the ear called the inner ear, or labyrinth. This dropsical condition, accumulation of fluid—does not often develop in young people, but from the age of 45 on is increasingly common. Why it should come at all is not known.

One or both ears may be involved. The attacks of dizziness usually bother patients more than the ringing in the ears or loss of hearing. In many cases the attacks of dizziness becomes less and less frequent and severe after the first few years.

Some patients who drink a lot of fluids find that an attack comes on a few hours afterwards—probably because of the increased accumulation of fluid in the labyrinth. This has given a clue leading to the use of some forms of treatment aimed at cutting down the intake of fluids or removing excess fluids from the body.

Surgery Used

Several medical treatments have been tried. Surgery is also employed with success in some cases and not in others. Surgical treatment is liable to bring some but not complete relief.

Unless people fall as a result of dizziness and hurt themselves Meniere's syndrome is more annoying and uncomfortable than it is dangerous. This form of dizziness does not interfere with activities or bodily functions except those related to balance and hearing.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

• Q's and A's

Q—How did the expression "not dry behind the ears" originate?

A—The expression is said to have originated among the Dutch of early Pennsylvania. Noticing that animals just born are promptly licked dry everywhere but behind the ears, the Dutch coined the phrase to designate a mere youngster.

Q—Is immigration to Australia on the increase?

A—Australia reports receiving more immigrants in 1949 than Canada, South Africa and New Zealand together—76,000 having come in the first six months alone.

Q—Who was the oldest signer of the Declaration of Independence?

A—When the signatures were affixed Benjamin Franklin was the oldest signer; the next oldest was Stephen Hopkins.

Q—Is "burning off" injurious to the forest range?

A—In certain pine types of the southern coastal plains and in certain sagebrush areas in the west, prescribed burning may be helpful. Uncontrolled or promiscuous use of fire on the range results in great damage to both soil and forage.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

George C. Whitney, former young Sedalian, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Whitney, of South Vermont avenue, has been made soliciting freight agent for the Queen and Crescent line with headquarters at Dallas. He had been with the traffic claims department of the M. K. & T. railway.

The Central Missouri Fox and Wolf Hunters association held a meeting Saturday and decided to hold the annual hunt at Elk Lick, nineteen miles northeast of Sedalia, the same location as it was held in 1909. It will be the week starting Monday, May 23.

Next Wednesday evening the Rev. J. D. Prigmore is to be installed as pastor of the Central Presbyterian church. The Rev. D. M. Clagett, moderator of the presbytery, will be in charge.

Four Yanks in Mexico Try Hand at Bullfighting

MASTER OF THE BULL, shouted the crowd in Mexico City when Wally Minard finished his stint in the bull ring. But first came three weeks of practice like this, with only a set of horns and an eager helper.

MASTER OF THE MULETA, or small cape, is Lester Findlay as he follows through with a traditional pass in the best matador style. Findlay was thrown and mauled by the animal and announced afterwards, "I've retired."

By John Cobb, Jr.
NEA Special Correspondent

MEXICO CITY, Mexico —Four American college boys studying here traded their textbooks for the cape and sword of the bullfighter. When the bullfight was over, the inexperienced Americans were still alive, to the surprise of the crowd.

For three weeks before the bullfight the four Mexico City College students, all veterans of World War II, practiced the traditional passes and learned other tricks of the bullfighting trade from Joselito Gonzalez, a novillero or bullfighter who has not attained professional status.

All their practicing was done with only a set of horns, since arrangements to practice their passes with a genuine bull fell thru. The Americans therefore faced an untamed bull for the first time when they entered the bullring before 1000 somewhat cynical spectators. The only concession made to beginners was to round off about a half-inch of the sharp horns of the 550-pound bulls.

John "Wally" Minard, a 26-year-old infantry veteran from Chicago had drawn the lot for the first bull. A kicking, snorting, jet black young bull came charging out of its dark cell into the light of the ring, tossing its head and looking for trouble.

The crowd gasped a little. The Chicago veteran cooly made a few passes with his cape as the bull's horns whisked by. There were approving yells of "Ole!" from the grandstand.

During the first part of any bullfight, assistants always go in with capes to help wear the bull down before the kill. The bull knocked down one of Minard's Mexican assistants. When Minard tried to get the bull off, he was thrown to the ground and the bull began to maul him. It was probably only the blunted horns that saved him from serious injury.

The bull was drawn off and Minard got up with a little blood on his cheek and continued the traditional passes. Finally, he lunged and thrust the curved blade of the sword into the small area between the shoulder blades where it must go to enter the heart. In a moment the bull dropped dead—a perfect kill. The crowd began to cheer.

As Minard's bull dropped, the spectators began to wave their handkerchiefs and chant "torrero" — "master of the bull." They would not stop until the American boy was awarded two ears and a tail, the highest reward a matador can get.

Bob Blanchard, a 23-year-old Marine veteran from Cleveland, faced the second bull. Veteran bullfight fans agreed that Blanchard had the best form of the four. He was the only one who was not thrown by his bull. The horns came close, but never touched him.

The third bull was for Lester Findlay, 34, of La Verne, Calif., He faced his bull smiling and made several traditional passes and many unorthodox passes which amused the crowd, but he was thrown and mauled before it was over. Asked about bullfighting afterward, he rubbed a hip and said, "I've retired."

Last in the ring was Wayne "Duffy" Rogers, Air Force veteran from Mundelein, Ill., near Chicago. The biggest of the four Mexico City college students got the smallest bull. He made some of the best muleta (small cape) passes of the afternoon. Once when the bull hit him instead of the cape, Rogers clamped his arm over the bull's head and kept from falling.

Each of the last two boys "cut an ear" as the Mexican sportswriters say of the awarding of one ear to the matador. Blanchard cut two ears for his performance, despite the fact that his bull was not quite as spirited as the first one.

Minard didn't seem so excited about bullfighting afterward. And wiping some blood off his cheek he mused, "I don't think there's much future in it."

HAIFA, Israel—(AP)—Anybody body who doesn't like it in Israel doesn't have to stay. So ruled a Haifa magistrate.

Three young Jews travelled to Britain as stowaways aboard the steamer "Cyprian Prince." They were returned to Israel.

Magistrate J. Maman said he had no power to authorize their exit from Israel. But, he added, he saw no object in punishing people who do not wish to stay here.

One Man's International Family

Korean Student, Two Japanese Girls Share Logan Home in Seattle

INTERNATIONAL BREAKFAST: in background, Mrs. Logan, Sally Okada, Helen Logan and Sangho Back; in foreground, Judy Okada, "Butchie" Logan, and ex-Army Captain Wilfred G. Logan.

Pictures and Text
By Fred ZAVATTERO
NEA Staff Correspondent

SEATTLE, Wash — (NEA) — A couple of years ago when Capt. Wilfred G. Logan was in the U.S. Army of Occupation in Korea, he heard a Korean schoolboy plead for a chance to study in the U.S. so he could return to Korea with American know-how.

Today that schoolboy, Sangho Back, is getting his chance as a partner in the Logan family's "backyard internationalism." He's a student in a Seattle high school under the sponsorship of ex-Capt. Logan, whose household includes two little Japanese girls in addition to his own two children.

After nine months in an American school, Sangho is an honor student and is helping pay for his room and board with money he earns after school. And as a junior member of the international Logans, he takes part in the family activities. All his problems—and there are many—are solved during joint conferences in the living room.

Gradually Sangho is being conditioned to a few basic American customs, such as the courtesy shown to women. In Korea, women are seldom permitted to speak unless spoken to, and not often then, Sangho is no longer demoralized when Mrs. Logan suggests that he try not to slam the door.

The Logans' experiment in international relations has required sacrifice and effort. Logan studies at the University of Washington under the G.I. bill of rights during the day, and works full time at nights to earn money to support his family. Sangho's contribution to the family budget scarcely covers his own expenses.

The Japanese girls, two-year-old Sally and six-year-old Judy, are the daughters of a railway employe whose wife is a patient in a tuberculosis sanitarium. Unable to care for his children while the mother receives treatment in a hospital, the father sought the aid of the county welfare department.

The Logans were given the Japanese children, on a foster-parent basis, after a careful investigation by the welfare department.

Almost the same age as the two Logan children, the little Japanese girls have been accepted as members of the family. Mrs. Logan is "mommy" to Sally and "Aunty Thelma" to the older girl.

At the end of their first year as backyard internationalists, the Logans consider themselves investors. They feel Sangho will return to his home in Korea with a sound working knowledge of democracy. "All he wanted was a chance," they explain, "and we could give him that."

As for the Japanese girls, "All they need is a chance, too. If we help them now, they can grow into useful members of society."

Lights Guide Fish to Safety

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Fish, like moths, are attracted by light. Taking advantage of this weakness, Henry R. Burkey has invented a lighting system to prevent newly hatched river fish from commiting suicide by entering irrigation ditches or power diversion channels. Every year millions of fish, particularly fingerling salmon, are lost this way. Burkey has developed a system of moving lights which fish follow.

"We were amazed," Burkey says, "to find how powerful a lure the lights created. Not a single fish appeared immune to the lure of the glow which piloted them safely past the danger area."

Italy Has Pension Trouble

ROME — (AP) — The Italian government is paying more than 1,100,000 war pensions from the Second World War and new applications are still coming at a rate of ten thousand a month. The disability payments range from a minimum of $1 a month up to a maximum of $100.

Paliament is expected to take up consideration soon of a new proposal to raise the payments on the ground that they are no longer in keeping with Italian living costs. There still are 450,000 applicants for war disability payments whose cases have not yet been settled.

Pakistan Calls India "Bharat"

KARACHI, Pakistan—(AP)—Pakistan newspapers have announced that henceforth they will call India by its new name, "Bharat." The new Indian constitution adopted "Bharat" as an alternate name to India. But "India" continues to be used in English while Indian language newspapers and books use "Bharat" or "Hindustan."

Pakistan previously has objected to India's continued use of the old name after partition. M. A. Jinnah, founder of Pakistan, preferred always to say "Hindustan," even in English. Pakistan Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan recently has referred to India as "Bharat" in his public statements.

Perfect Forest Far in Future

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP)—California foresters have been working 50 years but are still babes in the woods, Says, Prof. F. S. Baker, dean of the School of Forestry at the University of California.

That's a very short time in the life of many trees, he says. And the ideal forest is a long way off, he asserts.

In his opinion it would be one that would furnish an even quota of wood every year—forever. That means it would have enough trees to utilize its growing capacity. Only the oldest would be cut, the age classes would be distributed properly and cut areas would be reseeded so that normal growth could continue, he says.

The Sunday afternoon "Columbia LP Record Parade" will move to a new time period this week on KMBC. Each Sunday in the future, this classical-popular program will be heard at 12:30 p.m.

Another new program makes its appearance on KMBC this Sunday. "Choraliers" conducted by Eugene Lowell returns to the air this week at 1 p.m. over KMBC. Baritone Hubart Hendrie is guest soloist, and the male chorus has several outstanding selections for this first program.

Rhymaline Review at 7 p.m., followed by Do You Know, get off to a good start last Monday evening on KMBC. The first quarter-hour program features all the stars of Rhymaline Time, KMBC's 7:30 a.m. weekday feature. The second quarter-hour will present some member of the KMBC family each Monday evening. This week's guests, to be interviewed by Jim Burke, are songstress Sunny Daye, and pianist-organist Harry Jenks. Hope you'll tune in and hear all about your favorite KMBC personalities.

A special documentary program will be heard at 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon on KMBC. The program, based on the Arnold Forster book is entitled "A Measure of Freedom," and the program is being presented in cooperation with the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. Three incidental episodes make up the half-hour show.

The KMBC-KFRM Team will present a special 45-minute broadcast of the 25th annual K.U. Relays on Saturday, April 22. Sam Molen, Sports Director of The Team, will be on hand at this big track and field meet to broadcast direct from Lawrence from 5:45 p.m. until 6 o'clock. In addition to Sam's live reports, he will present tape-recorded highlight events as they are run off throughout the afternoon. He'll climax his 45-minute special program with a complete resume and results of the entire running of the 25th annual K.U. Relays.

Comedian Jack Benny, feted as the outstanding personality of the last 25 years, will be heard twice over KMBC this Sunday. In addition to his own feature program at 6 p.m., Jack will drop in on Charlie McCarthy at 7 p.m. for a guest appearance. It's the first time in several years that those two have had an official meeting, and the unusual hilarious insults should be in order.

Ken Parsons, member of The KMBC-KFRM Farm Service staff, has two weekday morning programs of particular interest to those engaged in agriculture. Ken's a graduate agronomist, and a practical farmer, and his 6:20 a.m. "Your Farm and Ours" is a program geared to a discussion of various farm problems. Ken has another regular morning feature entitled "Better Farming." He discusses soils and crops, insecticides, herbicides, fertilizer, and other tips and suggestions that are particularly adaptable to this Heart of America region. Farmers and those interested in various phases of agriculture find these programs interesting and informative.

MOVIES ARE BETTER THAN EVER!

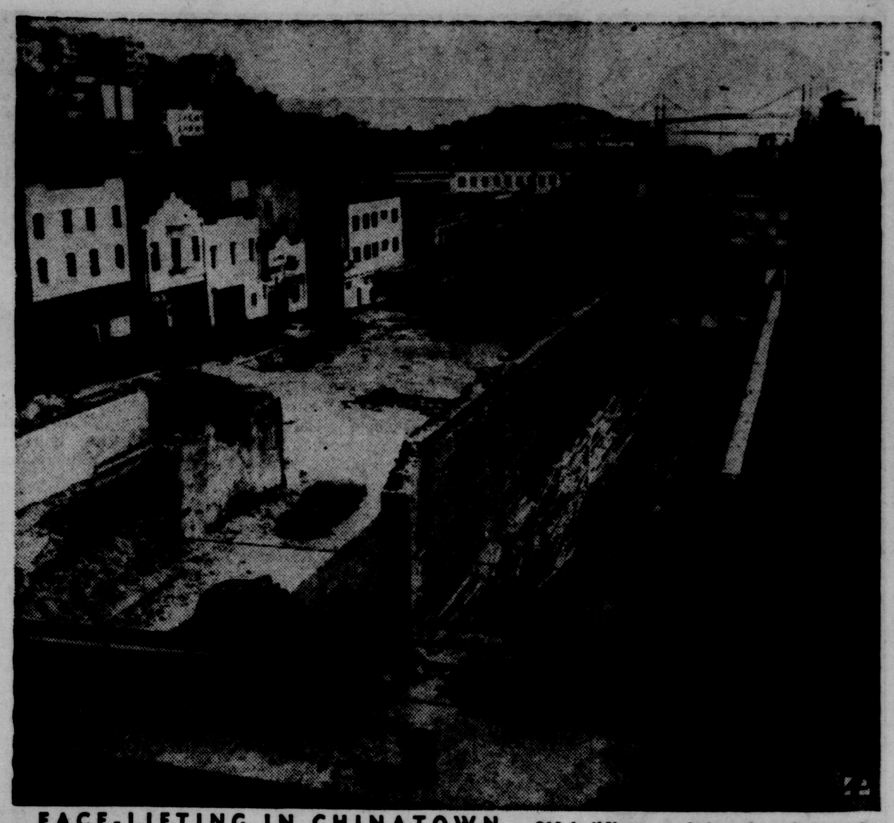
Shrubbery planted about a well landscaped house and grounds usually represents quite an investment for the home-owner and like all important investments, it should be protected against damage or loss. All that adds up to giving your shrubbery proper care. Be sure to prune them properly and give them a regular diet of the correct plant food and fertilizer. Pruning is important, especially for deciduous shrubs—that is, the ones that discard flowers and leaves in the autumn. These should be pruned after the flowers fade and fall. In the case of such shrubs as forsythia, deutzia, spiraea, weigela and viburnum, remove about a third of the oldest growth, all dead wood and weak branches and generally shape the plant for future effect.

Evergreens probably are the most common and most popular foundation planting shrubs. They give the house and grounds the decorative effect of green, growing foliage in winter, when the flower beds are brown and ugly. They should be shaped up and cut back to be held in bounds. Cut the top back and shear irregularly to produce the desired shape. Avoid a tortured "formal" effect by pruning before new growth starts. And be sparing with the pruning shears. Too-heavy a cutting may be fatal. To insure a generous bloom the following year on such flowering shrubs as rhododendrons, azaleas and lilacs, remove the seed pods after the flowers fade. Cut out the weak branches and dead growth. If shaping is desired, prune off in generous branches while in full bloom and use these cuttings for indoor decoration. Watering and feeding are important in the care of shrubs. Provide a mulch of peat moss or compost over the roots to hold moisture. Water while new growth is developing by slow soaking from a dripping hose. Feed with a complete fertilizer as soon as flowers fade. Do this by drilling a series of shallow holes, about a foot apart under the shrub, in a circle as large as that formed by the outermost branch tips. Use a cup of the liquid fertilizer to each inch of trunk diameter.



FACE-LIFTING IN CHINATOWN — Old buildings are being cleared away in San Francisco's Chinatown for a new project to house 234 families in a $2,500,000 development.

. . . AND FOUR TO GO—This 1950 model rooster came off the assembly line with some spare parts, namely two extra legs and a double tail. The bird, belonging to Mrs. Harry Aukerman of Eaton, O., is now three weeks old and is as healthy as any of the flock.

Indian Presidents Get Pensions

NEW DELHI, India —(AP)—The last governor-general of India, Chakravarti Rajagopalachari, will be given a lifetime pension of $211 per month. Finance Minister John Matthai, announcing this in parliament, said a similar pension will be given to retired presidents of the Indian republic. Rajagopalachari retired January 26 when Dr. Rajendra Prasad was installed as first president of the republic.

Japan Has More People

TOKYO — (AP) — Japan's population keeps on going up and up. The welfare ministry reports the population on last Jan. 1 was 83,073,518. The population a year earlier was 81,191,604.

At the present rate, the population on these crowded islands will exceed 100,000,000 by 1961.

Heinkel Advises West

STUTTGART, Germany—(AP)—Ernst Heinkel, who built some of Nazi Germany's best war planes has this word of advice for the western powers in their aerial planning for European defense. "They had better quit wasting their time and money in rival, uncoordinated experiments in military aircraft by individual countries. They should centralize all their efforts under one control and develop mass production of one good model for each type of plane.

"Even if this plane is not quite as good as one which might be perfected by continued scattered experiments, the advantages would outweigh this disadvantage," Heinkel said. "All the Allied nations would be using the same type of plane. They could shift planes where needed, use a central shockpile of spare parts. And they could build a lot more planes a lot faster than with many varied models."

Tattooed Reds Captured

RANGOON—(AP)—Police in the rice-growing delta district of Myaungmya arrested four members of the Burma Communist party while they were being tattooed for "invulnerability" in anti-government battles.

The Burmese believe that the tattooing of certain parts of the body with the Burmese alphabet safeguards its yearers from injury. According to the design and color of ink used, protection is supposed to be given against wild animals and knife and bullet wounds. The custom is widely adopted by bandits.

The National Geographic Society says Americans use 125,000,000 wooden matches a day.

Loch Lomond To Have Park

LONDON—(AP) — The "bonnie, bonnie banks of Loch Lomond" are to be a national park. Britain's secretary of state for Scotland announced the government had bought a $12,370 acre estate which includes the mountain Ben Lomond and a 13-mile stretch of the banks of the storied lake.

In 350 B. C., the famed Greek-physician Hippocrates, "Father of Medicine," used a leather-soled boot to treat club-foot.

THE MODERN, ECONOMICAL, EASY METHOD OF HANDLING GRAIN AND BULK FEED

NORTH AMERICAN GRAIN-O-VATOR

GRAIN-O-VATOR handles bulk feed at the rate of 50 bushels per minute. Fills feed bunkers and bins, grain bins and self feeders in an absolute minimum of time.

Reduces labor costs in preparing and handling feed—in many cases saves the need of a hired man.

Reduces loss of profits due to wasted feed. No spillage.

Gives better, more even gain on livestock by mixing feed thoroughly. Saves dollars on buying prepared or sacked feed.

Ask any user — some have said: "saved me a hired man," "worth its cost as a feed mixer alone," "use it for something every day," "don't scoop a bit any more," "wouldn't sell it for twice what it cost."

THE STORY: Clemency Norton is nursery governess to Baba, small daughter of Syrie and Jon Amberley, who live in the luxurious desert home of Jon's brother Piers in Algiers. Syrie shows jealousy when she sees Piers with Clemency and tells her to remain in her own part of the house. Later Clemency witnesses a quarrel between Syrie and Jon, during which it becomes obvious that Syrie despises her husband. After this irritating scene, Clemency goes for a walk and meets Piers. Her heart beats very fast indeed. After a short conversation she returns to her quarters.

XI

THOSE "attractive French officers" whom Syrie had mentioned to Clemency, had been away in the desert on maneuvers, hence the fact that very little entertaining had gone on at Red Aloes since Mrs. Jon Amberley's return. Justine explained that Madame always had a party on Thursday afternoon when her friends dropped in to tea, or something stronger. For half an hour of that time it was usual for Baba to be taken down, dressed in her prettiest clothes, and circulated among the guests.

"Now you are going to be a very good girl, darling," Clemency told her.

"I'm always a dood dirl," announced the cherub with complete conviction, "'cept when Daddy spoils me." Which adroitly shifted the burden of yesterday on to broader shoulders.

There were rather more than a dozen people in the room—half of whom were soldiers. All extremely personable—from the elderly, white - mustached senior officer, to the handsome, bronzed young captain, whose laughing dark eyes were bent very intently on his hostess as she stood in the midst of a little knot of people.

"Come along, Clemency." Baba pulled Clemency's hand, dancing forward, and at that moment Syrie turned her head.

"Hello, darling," she called. "Come along; Captain Levide has been waiting for you."

"Baba—my sweetheart! What a long time since I saw you. Come and see what Paul has brought you." The dark-eyed captain came striding forward, and, catching the child up, set her on his shoulder.

"Put her down for a minute, Paul," ordered Syrie. "Mrs. Sanderson wants to talk to her. This is my daughter, Mrs. Sanderson."

The elegant, gray-haired woman who was sitting near, bent forward, holding out her hand.

"Hello, Barbara. Come and talk to me. I knew your Daddy when he was a little boy. She's like you, Syrie—not like Jon."

"My Daddy spoils me," announced Baba, still clinging to her alibi.

"She's extraordinarily like you, Syrie," she said. "Don't you think so?" The smile she gave Clemency was unaffectedly friendly.

"Yes, I think she is—but she has her father's eyes," said Clemency.

"Join me," Mrs. Sanderson said to Clemency. "My daughter is somewhere outside—if she doesn't come in presently I will get you to go and find her." Syrie had made no attempt to introduce her, so Clemency at once repaired the casual omission. "Sit down and talk to me," Mrs. Sanderson said.

"I came back with Mrs. Amberley—Mrs. Jon, just over a fortnight ago," said Clemency, immediately liking this charming, natural, and well-bred woman.

SHE learned that Mrs. Sanderson and her son and daughter were spending the winter in North Africa.

"I have an affection for this part of the world," Blanche Sanderson said. "I haven't been here since the War—though my son, who came over with the Canadian Air Force and served in North Africa."

So she was Canadian—Clemency would not have thought it, though she did not like to make any comment.

"My husband was Canadian," Mrs. Sanderson explained. "My children are very proud of being Canadian born. I'm British—"

"Just nicely so, darling," said a girl's gay voice behind them.

"Ah, there you are, Janette. This is Miss Norton—my daughter—Lieutenant de Brion—Miss Norton."

"How do you do?" Clemency found herself shaking hands with a very pretty girl.

Almost immediately Syrie came over and joined the group.

PIERS was threading his way across the room, seeming somehow apart from this laughing, informal gathering. He paused on his way to exchange greetings with one or two of Syrie's guests; to shake hands with the white-mustached General, and kiss the hand of the General's wife.

Someone else had been instantly aware of his arrival, and had seen his glance resting long on Clemency.

Syrie said, without raising her voice: "Do you know Miss Norton, I think someone has had enough excitement."

Baba was behaving very well, but as the party was obviously over for her Clemency took the cue for exit.

"Come, sweetheart," she said. "Time to come upstairs—or we shan't be able to finish that story before bedtime."

"Run along, Barbey. You've been a good girl, and you shall come to my next party." Syrie kissed her offspring, briefly smiling into the admiring dark eyes of Paul Levide.

Baba certainly was an angel this afternoon. She said her "goodbys" very prettily. Piers had joined the group by now, and sat down beside Mrs. Sanderson, who greeted him with the affection of an old friend. She broke off in her conversation with him to kiss Baba goodby and to smile at Clemency, but Piers seemed to be equally unaware of his niece and her governess.

This was, of course, wrong. Not only had he seen her, but he was still seeing her, while he chatted and laughed with Blanche Sanderson and Janette.

A girl "like a fresh rose." . . .

Czechs Told To Like Germans

PRAGUE—(AP)—Since the establishment of the East German Republic, Communist leaders here have endeavored to soften this nation's traditional dislike of its German neighbor. The controlled press daily informs readers that "All Germans Are Not Alike."

It is a pretty tough job, however convincing a nation which for centuries been ruled first by the Austrians and then by the Germans under Hitler. But government leaders keep pegging away at the theme that life in the Russian-sponsored East German Republic is changing the character of the people living there and that the only persons Czechs must fear are the Germans living in the Western sectors.

Boost in Range, Speed and Power is Expected in the New Turboprop Engine

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Hottest item in U. S. aviation today is the Navy's new turboprop, a very powerful, light, hybrid engine. It uses jet 'thrust" to turn a propeller, with an extra 10 per cent power bonus from the thrust of exhaust gases.

After many years of poo-pooh-ing the idea, the Air Force is now making secret plans to install turboprops on its giant, controversial B-36 atom bomb taxi. Several experts predict that the Navy's engine may give the B-36 so much added speed that orders for the plane which is now slated to take the place of the B-36, the all-jet B-52, can be cancelled.

The Navy is now putting the new engines on its huge flying boat, the XP5-Y and on a new fighter, the XA2-D Skyshark. In the civil aviation field, four of the biggest aircraft manufacturers, Boeing, Douglas, Convair and Martin, are planning to put turboprops on some models of their passenger planes.

The announcement that the Navy's turboprop is sufficiently proven to be tried on commercial airlines is a great source of relief to many U. S. observers. Up until recently, the British were believed to be way out in front in the use of turboprops on airliners. But this announcement draws America very close to even. It is also claimed that the Navy engines are better than those of the British.

The Navy's 10-year battle to perfect the controversial engine now looks like it may pay off even better than its backers hoped. At best, critics of the idea said, it would only be an interim development, until jets would completely out-date the propeller.

However, it is now being admitted that the turboprop might make both the piston type engine and the jet obsolete. Since the propeller uses the power of a jet engine more efficiently, the turbo prop gives the plane greater range, licking the biggest bug of pure jet planes. And it has much more economy, and can put a fighter, for instance, close to the 600-miles-per-hour speed of the pure jets. Its extreme light weight permits carrying more fuel.

Allison Aircraft Engine Company has done most of the development work for the Navy and now has two turboprop engines—the T-38 and the more powerful T-40 which is rated at over 5000 horsepower. Pratt & Whitney has developed an even heavier one than the T-40. It is this engine which will be put on the B-36.

The Allison T-40, which will be used on the big Navy flying boat, has two unique features. One engine is actually composed of two separate jet turbines. This permits turning off one turbine during cruising to save fuel. Both are used during the take-off and when extra speed is needed.

The other innovation is the use of two three-bladed, counter-rotating props. The counter-rotation eliminates torque, the opposite twisting force created by a spinning propeller. This is extremely important on the turboprop because of the supersonic speed at which the props whirl.

In discussing what the T-40 can do for the Boeing Stratocruiser Boeing's vice president, Frederick B. Collins, says, "The light weight of turboprops would permit the carrying of more than 1000 extra gallons of fuel. Certain ranges would be increased 113 per cent. It would take off in 67 per cent of the distance required by the conventional version."

Manchuria Undersells U. S. on Gasoline

HONG KONG — (AP) — Gasoline made in Manchuria is underselling the U. S.—made product in Tientsin, recent arrivals from that north China city report.

The gasoline, produced by the Fushun Mining administration sells for 30 per cent less than American gasoline. A Communist press report from Tientsin says that the Manchurian gasoline is heavier and produces more smoke but otherwise it "compares favorably with imported gasoline."

Corundum, used for abrasives, is found in Montana.

Fire Losses Reduced

NEW YORK—(AP)—Newspapers of the United States are given much of the credit for the decrease in fire losses in the past year. The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that 1949 fire losses were 6.1 per cent below the all-time high of $711,114,000 recorded in 1948.

Wendell Sether, public information director of the National Board, says "newspapers in all parts of the country helped save lives and property by educating the public to prevent fires, support modern fire departments and adopt better fire prevention laws."

Truman Veto On Gas Bill

Senators of Missouri Were Opposed to the Kerr Measure

WASHINGTON, April 15 —(AP)— President Truman today vetoed the controversial Kerr natural gas bill, which had been strongly endorsed by some of his friends in Congress and hotly condemned by others.

The bill, which also split the Republicans, would exempt most gas producers from federal regulation.

"After careful analysis and full consideration," the president told Congress, "I believe that such an action would not be in the national interest."

There appeared to be virtually no prospect that the lawmakers might try to pass the bill over Mr. Truman's veto. On its first trip through Congress, the bill mustered only a bare majority in both houses. Two-thirds approval by both the Senate and House would be needed to override.

The bill would have exempted from federal price regulation so-called independent producers not affiliated with pipelines. As a matter of fact, they are not regulated now, but backers of the bill expressed belief the Federal Power Commission would move to set up such regulation. President Truman, in his message today, said the authority to regulate is "necessary in the public interest."

Foes Called it "Grab"

Foes of the bill objected vehemently that it was a "gigantic grab" which would cost consumers up to $500,000,000 a year. Backers of the measure denied this. They replied that the regulation would be a blow at free enterprise which would so descourage gas production that the consumer would be harmed.

In sending the bill back to Congress—with the observation that there is too little competition in the natural gas industry to exempt the producers from federal controls—Mr. Truman rebuffed some of his closest legislative lieutenants.

Speaker Rayburn, who comes from oil-producing Texas, had supported the Kerr bill with one of his rare floor speeches. Senator Connally (D-Tex.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee(had been numbered among its backers on the other side of the capitol.

The veto was greeted jubilantly by the bill's opponents.

Deemed It "Unfair"

Senator Donnell (R-Mo.), another opponent of the measure, said: "I think the president acted properly." Senator Kem (R-Mo.), who also fought the bill as "unfair to the people," said he did not believe there was any chance Congress would over-ride the veto.

Connally expressed "great disappointment." Senator Kerr (D-Okla.), the bill's author, said Mr. Truman had "made a mistake," adding:

"Time will prove that the consuming areas which want and need abundant supplies of natural gas will receive less gas and at higher prices than would have been the situation if the bill had been approved."

Kerr, a wealthy oilman, delivered the keynote address at the 1944 Democratic convention which nominated Mr. Truman as running mate for the late President Roosevelt.

Kerr's statement summed up the main argument of those who had urged Congressional passage and presidential approval of the measure.

Since House members are in the midst of a long Easter recess, there was little comment on his action from that side of the capitol. But there was plenty from the Senate, which originally had passed the gas bill by a 44 to 38 vote.

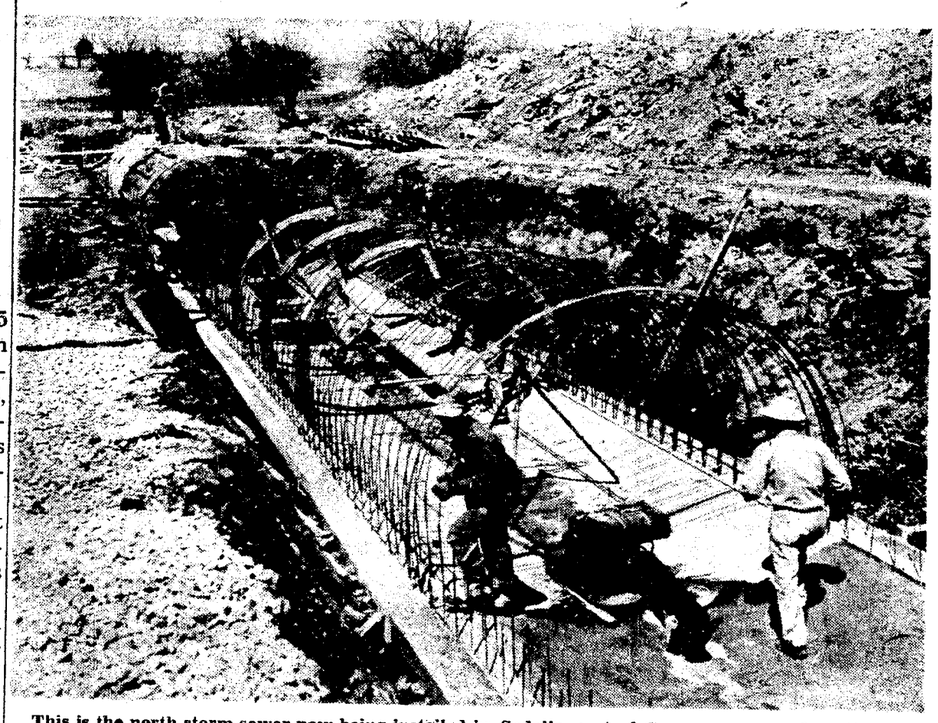
Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.), one of its sponsors, said that "if the president's objections could be met I'd favor revising the bill and trying to pass it this session."

Most other supporters of the measure indicated little prospect of such action.

Rep. Harris (D-Ark.), House sponsor of the bill, said in New Orleans that he was "sorely disappointed" at the president's action which he termed "the greatest blow" to the gas and oil industry in a long time.

Harris said that uncertainty over federal regulation will tend to stifle the industry's initiative in hunting new sources of natural gas and developing them as future reserves.

Progress On North Storm Sewer



This is the north storm sewer now being installed in Sedalia, east of Grand avenue and north of the Missouri Pacific railroad, which will handle both storm and sanitary sewage. Shown in the picture above is form work and re-enforcing steel being erected preparatory to pouring a concrete arch on the concete base invert, which has previously been poured and appears below the steel in this photo. This work, which is a part of the sewer improvement bond issue, is being done by Hastings and Stiers, contractors of St. Louis. The concrete for this project is purchased locally. Closer Accord Is Sought on Foreign Policy

Connally Plan Advanced for Better Harmony

By Don Whitehead

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Senator connally (D-Tex.) today disclosed a plan designed to bring the Senate and the State Department into a close working arrangement on foreign policy.

The Texan will recommend that the Senate Foreign Relations committee be divided into eight subcommittees to consult with the State Department on specific problems around the world. Connally is committee chairman.

"This plan," he told reporters, "is the first serious effort to set up a procedure in the foreign relations committee to get the most efficient and careful study of international problems."

The Connally plan is one of recent administration moves to rebuild bipartisan foreign policy and obtain close cooperation between Congress and the State Department.

Among Republicans there have been proposals that they be invited to sit in on policy making, and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), has urged an "unpartisan" study of a cold war pattern to follow the Marshall Plan which ends in 1952.

Senate Republicans may speak out officially next week with a statement of their foreign policy views.

Go To Committee

Connally said he would place his reorganization plan before the full Senate Foreign Relations committee probably Tuesday. He said there was a "good reaction" from Senators who have seen the plan.

It would divide the committee into eight sub-groups to handle: United Nations affairs, European affairs, Far Eastern affairs, American republics affairs, Near Eastern and African affairs, economic and social policy affairs, public affairs, and State Department organization.

The committee's membership includes Democratic Senators Connally, Thomas of Utah, George of Georgia; Green of Rhode Island; Tydings of Maryland; McMahon of Connecticut; Pepper of Florida and Fulbright of Arkansas. On the Republican side are Senators Vandenberg of Michigan; Wiley of Wisconsin, Lodge of Massachusetts; Smith of New Jersey and Hickenlooper of Iowa.

Tentative subcommittee assignments are: United Nations affairs—Connally, Thomas, Vandenberg and Wiley.

Far Eastern affairs—Thomas, George, Smith.

Fire At Brockman Home

The fire companies at 4:05 o'clock, Saturday morning, were called to the residence of A. E. Brockman, 1822 South Ingram avenue, where burners on a coal oil stove were smoking. Considerable smoke damage resulted to the house.

Another Report on Mysterious Animal

Norman Peters, living on the Charles Van Dyne farm on route 4, reported to the Democrat-Capital Saturday morning he heard the mysterious animal that is in the vicinity and described its howl or bark in the same manner as did the other farmers in the area.

Peters said he missed four little month-old pigs about a week ago, but thought little about it. After seeing the report in Friday's Democrat he then decided that the mystery animal was responsible.

He said that he noticed the cattle running across the pasture as if pursued or frightened by something.

Clean Slate to Police Board

Statement from Governor after Secret Session

KANSAS CITY, April 15—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith gave a clean slate today to his Kansas City police board, harrassed since two under-world slayings April 5.

The governor's declaration came out of a secret meeting here. After his return to Jefferson City, he said he turned down the offers of three of the five commissioners to resign voluntarily. Mayor William E. Kemp, an ex-officio member of the board did not attend.

"I told them," Smith said, "I thought they were doing a good job."

However, Mayor Kemp said he "cannot believe that the governor intends for this to be the ultimate conclusion in the matter of police administration in Kansas City. To feel otherwise would be a matter of the greatest disappointment."

Kemp said he was not invited to the conferences here.

"There is nothing in the governor's statement that touches upon the vital question of an impaired morale among at least some of the personnel of the police department as a result of widespread rumors that certain underworld personages have influential connections with the police department," Kemp added.

The governor also said he did not plan to set up a bi-partisan state crime commission to "clean up Missouri" suggested by a Republican legislator.

Meanwhile the federal government refused to free on bond Moonfaced Chas. Carrollo, onetime underworld chieftain here, and three other men nabbed in a raid yesterday on an illicit liquor operation.

Police reported "no progress" in their investigation of the slayings

Young U. S. Airman Guilty Trying to Divulge Secrets

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, April 15—(AP)—A U. S. Air Force court martial convicted Cpl. Gustav Mueller, 19, today of attempting to give American military secrets to Soviet Russia and sentenced him to five years in prison. He had denied the charge in tearful testimony.

Described in a report by army doctors as "immature and emotionally unstable," the young airman from St. Paul, Minn., insisted he was only trying to trap some Russian spies with the melodramatic activities that led to his arrest last fall. In a clipped, British-type accent, he said:

"I never meant to betray the United States. I am not a Communist. I hate Communism. I am loyal to the United States and always shall be. x x x I know I did wrong and I am sorry. I tried twice to kill myself in jail at hard labor while awaiting trial. I would never do such a thing again."

He repudiated stories he told U. S. army agents who posed as Russian operatives and obtained documents from him after he sent a telegram to the Soviet consulate in Bern, Switzerland, last September asking for contact. They testified he told them he believed in Communism and wished to help out the party cause.

Mueller was the only defense witness in the two-day trial. His attorney, Elmo Gower of Cumberland, Md., used a light touch in questioning and chose not to deliver a closing argument.

Capt. Carl Felth of Biloxi, Miss., the trial judge advocate (prosecutor), ridiculed as "incredible" Mueller's declaration that he was only trying to trap Russian spies and attacked the defense efforts to make light of the case.

"This is no joking matter," he said.

The court of seven officers deliberated 90 minutes.

In addition to the prison sentence, it ordered that Mueller be dishonorably discharged from the Air Force, in which he enlisted in 1948 for a three-year term. The findings of such tribunals are subject to review by higher authorities.

The prisoner took the verdict quietly.

Mueller is a native of Burma, the son of a Swiss father and an English mother. A slim, dark youth, he said yesterday that he did not know his nationality, "I must be Swiss, if anything." Today he said he probably was an American citizen.

His mother, Mrs. Edward A. James, said in St. Paul he obtained American citizenship automatically as a minor son when she was granted citizenship in January, 1948. Widowed by the death of her first husband in Rangoon in 1941, she married James, an American, in Calcutta.

Mueller is the first U. S. serviceman ever reported to have tried to betray American military information to Russia.

Master Park Plan Stressed By Park Board

Report Made for Year 1949-50; Lights This Summer

Members of the Sedalia Park board, Joseph W. Reid, chairman, Cline Cain, Leo Bopp, Lindsey Hayden and H. F. Rapp, have made the following report at the close of the present administration:

"Sedalia Missouri
"April 12, 1950

"The Honorable Julian H. Bagby, "Members of the City Council, Sedalia, Mo.

"Gentlemen:

"At the start of a new park season your Park board wishes to submit its report on the Sedalia parks for the year 1949-50.

"We are aware that in some areas of the parks there is still much repair work to be done, but the board has laid its stress this year on areas of the parks that are not to be changed under the "Master Park Plan" submitted to the board last year by the landscaping and city planning engineering firm of Harlan Bartholamew and associates and trust that this repair policy meets your approval.

Added Work

"With the increased number of parks, and the greatly increased attendance at all five parks, your board has endeavored to increase the attractiveness of the park and add to the park system the facilities most frequently requested by those atending the parks.

"The Sedalia Park System today consists of nearly 100 acres of parks and park-maintained parkways and to keep them in presentable condition is in itself a major undertaking, worthy of this last years park budget which is approximately four times what the budget was a few short years ago.

"One of the boards major expenditures this year was for a power type gang lawnmower such as is used in most city parks. A major saving in time and labor has been effected by this mower, and better looking lawns have been possible. The removal of the unsightly tangle of trees and underbrush at Hubbard Park was an allied project. And a presentable turf will be possible in that

Four Flying Reserves Killed

SPOKANE, Wash, April 15—(AP)—A Navy torpedo bomber coming in for a landing crashed in some trees a half mile from the field today, killing all four Naval Reserve crew members.

The four-place single engine Avenger was practicing carrier landings when it suddenly plunged to the earth from an altitude of about 3040 feet. The plane was completely destroyed.

A turret back of the cockpit was ripped from the fuselage and thrown 75 feet from the rest of the wreckage. The gunner's body was found hanging from the turret.

The four flyers, who had jobs in town came out to practice their flying as reserves only twice a month, were all from Spokane.

The dead were identified as:

Four Killed in Dynamite Blast

ANCHORAGE, Alaska April 15—(AP)—A premature dynamite explosion took the lives of four construction workers on the Alaska railroad today.

The blast ripped out telephone poles and loosed a tremendous amount of debris onto the tracks, cutting rail transportation and communications between here and Seward.

The dead were identified as John Skoglund, powder foreman, Silverdale, Wash., and Ben Wilson, powderman helper, "Big Ed" Bumgardner, powderman helper, and Daniel Stabenan of Anchorage.

Reports on the cause of the accident are still fragmentary.

Woman Electrocuted While in Bathtub

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., April 15—(AP)—Dr. M. M. Russell, coroner, said Mrs. May Calbreath was electrocuted in her bathtub here today by a health machine.

The elderly woman was found dead in the tub by her husband, Earl Calbreath.

The coroner said she apparently touched an electrode of the machine and was killed instantly.

Two Councils Meet Monday

The City Council will meet in regular session at 7:30 o'clock Monay night in the City Hall. Mayor Julian H. Bagby will preside over the first part of the meeting, all unfinished business will be transacted, then that Council will adjourn sine die, which means to adjourn without planning to meet again.

The incoming mayor, Herb E. Studer will take over, and the new Council will be organized. Harry Moore alderman, will take the place of Virgil Corson, in the first ward; Elmer Sumners succeeds himself in the second; Earl Lashley succeeds himself in the third and Jim Reed take the place of Herb Studer in the fourth.

The new Council will then take up its business.

Mayor-elect Studer is a Republican, all Councilmen Democrats.

One Hundredth Birthday Is Celebrated

LaMonte Woman Has Letter From President Truman

The little old lady who today is celebrating her one hundredth birthday anniversary reminds one of lavender and old lace as she sits quietly in her chair by the big front window in her home about nine miles northwest of La Monte. Her snow white hair is thick and she wears it in a big coil on top of her head. She can no longer see the yellow jonquils growing in her yard from her big window nor read the books that had been so much a part of her life, for age has dimmed her eyes.

"So you are going to have a birthday Sunday?" we said to Mrs. Sarah Isabelle (Belle) Bobbitt.

The face which has surprisingly few wrinkles for one of a hundred years, lighted up and she smiled sweetly: "Yes, and how old do you think I'll be Sunday?" she asked.

"You will be one hundred" we answered.

Hopes For Another Hundred

"That's right, I'll be a hundred years old and I hope I live to be another hundred," she said and then she asked the question that we are certain now women never get too old to want to know, "Do you think I look that old?"

She smiled coyly when we said we didn't think she looked that old and we meant it.

"I have gotten so many cards," she said and then added proudly: "And do you know, I got a letter from the president of the United States."

But old age has made her forgetful, too, and the precious letter from President Harry S. Truman, as well as many cards that had arrived, could not be found. She had put them away and forgotten where. But she will find them and will pass many lonely hours for

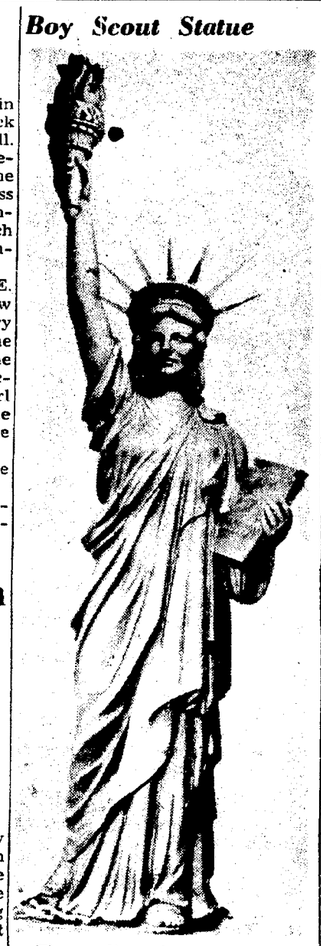
Rail Unions Consider Strike

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Two big unions of railroad engineers and firemen today considered a nationwide strike to force the hiring of a third man on diesel locomotives.

The track is all cleared for a walkout at any hour they might wish to designate.

Leaders of the firemen-enginmen met in Chicago today to make plans. They recessed without taking action, but a spokesman said a definite announcement may come tomorrow after additional chairmen and grand lodge officers are heard from.

Boy Scout Statue



The replica of the Statue of Liberty is shown above, which will be erected on the north side of the court house as part of the 40th Anniversary crusade of the Boy Scouts of America. The replica is eight-and-one-half feet to the tip of the torch and will be placed on a star-shaped base of marble, which will raise the statue to fifteen feet in height. The base has been designed by William C. Wallace, architect, who has donated his services, as well as will other workmen who have anything to do with the erection. On the bronze plaque, to be embedded in the base of the replica, is the following: "With the faith and courage of their forefathers who made possible the freedom of these United States, The Boy Scouts of America, dedicate this replica of the statue of Liberty as a pledge of eevrlasting fidelity and loyalty. 40th anniversary crusade to strengthen the arm of Liberty, 1950."

May Lose Sight In One Eye

Boys playing at Whittier school, Friday, tossing clay, dirt and rocks from the excavation of a new addition to the school, may result in one child losing his eye sight. The injured boy is Billy Joe Griffith, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren V. Griffith, 609 East Sixteenth street.

The boys were playing near where workmen were at work, when one boy picked up a piece of clay which had rocks mixed in it and threw the missile, it striking the Griffith boy in the left eye. According to the boy's mother the eye was badly damaged and he may lose the sight.

Billy Joe is in the fifth grade at Whittier.

Parents of children attending schools where construction is underway are asked to cooperate with the teachers in compelling their children not to go near this work and especially near machinery. The children should be told not to throw any kind of rocks, dirt or clay at another child as it may result in injury to another child as it has to the Griffith boy.

Ten-Year-Old Girl Falls Out Of Swing, Sees Flying Saucer

If a 10-year old girl hadn't fallen out of a swing at the opportune time, there probably wouldn't be any story to tell, but since she did fall, she and her other 10 classmates and teacher, Miss Dora Benz, of Walnut Grove school, have a mystifying story to tell, that of seeing a flying saucer, one day recently while most of the pupils were eating their lunches on the school grounds.

Gayle Paige, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paige, Sedalia, route 3, the first girl to see the flying disc, said she had just finished eating lunch at school, and was swinging, and all of a sudden she fell out of the swing.

Saw Silver Object

After falling, she looked up over the school house roof into a western direction, and there it was, a silver circular object spinning through the air, with two streaks of white puffs extending from it.

She excitedly told her classmates and pointed skyward to her strange discovery, and they in turn stood glaring skyward for five or 10 minutes, until the object vanished into thin air.

She said Marvin Shull was the first to "pin" the name on the object, that of a flying saucer, and later she said, including the teacher, all agreed, it was a flying saucer.

Up High

The girl said the object was way, way up there in the sky, and to her it seemed the size of a ball, and seemed not to have been traveling very fast.

Robert Harvey, in the seventh grade, was contacted when walking home from school, and he gave a similar account of the phenomenon. He said it was a disc shape, and silver in color, traveling westward, that it didn't look very big, and something was shooting out from the object.

This is believed to be the first report in Pettis county of anybody having spotted a flying saucer. Take it for what it is worth, but you'll have a hard time convincing those "kids", it was anything else but a flying saucer.

Eye Cast On Crops Situation

Developments are Being Watched Closely by the Politic Leaders

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Political leaders are watching crop developments this spring as sharply as a farmer with a note due at the bank.

They realize that a poor crop year—now seen as a distinct possibility—could take the government's multi-billion-dollar farm price program off a hot spot and push it aside as a major issue in this year's battle for control of Congress.

Forewarnings of possible poor farm production are showing up in the form of drought-like conditions in some areas, unusually severe dust storms in the great plains, and critical insect infestations. Already these factors have taken a big slice off the prospective winter wheat crop.

There is evidence that the cotton crop may have a bad time with the boll weevil, and the corn borer poses a major threat to corn, the principal livestock feed grain. An unseasonally cold spring is delaying preparations for crop planting.

These developments do not mean, however, that a poor production year is bound to follow. There is plenty of time for the situation to change and for farmers to grow crops which would add to the already top-heavy surpluses.

Nevertheless, political leaders—realizing that according to the law of averages a bad crop year is overdue—are watching the weather reports.

Might Force Shift

A marked downturn in farm production prospects undoubtedly would require some quick shifts in campaign strategy.

The Truman administration has been counting heavily on the farm problem as a campaign issue to help it win election of lawmakers committed to the Brannan farm plan of relatively high farm price supports and production payments as a means of giving consumers cheaper food prices.

It has counted also upon widespread public criticism of the present price support program to pull votes for those who campaign as advocates of Brannan proposals. The current program has been criticized widely—even by President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan—on the ground that it piles up surpluses while holding consumer prices at excessively high levels.

But a poor crop season could easily change public attitude toward the $4,000,000,000 stock of surpluses under government control. The public under such circumstances easily could develop the attitude that the nation is lucky to have the extra supplies, as protection against shortages and skyrocketing prices.

Except for reserve of 425,000,000 bushels from previous crops recent developments in the winter wheat crop probably would have pushed prices of the grain a dollar a bushel or more above present quotations, farm officials said.

Big Supply of Feed

The stock of surpluses contains a record supply of livestock feed grain. Their availability should prevent a repetition of the meat shortage of 1947, which resulted from a short corn crop the previous year when there were no surpluses.

A poor growing season might even bring a temporary cure of the potato price support headache.

And—by no means least in the politicians' calculations — a bad crop year also could be expected to halt the downswing in farm prices which started in 1948.

On the whole it appears that relegation of the farm problem to the background would be more beneficial to the Republicans than to the Democrats. The Republicans have fared least well in those election years in which the farm issue has been of major importance.

With the farm problem out of the way, the Republicans would have more time during the campaign to devote to other issues, such as government spending and taxing, the administration's welfare policies and the question of loyalty among the government officeholders.

Democratic Women To Meet Tuesday

The Pettis County Women's Democratic Club will hold its regular meeting Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock at the Maccabee hall on East Fifth street, with the president, Mrs. J. C. Saunders, presiding over the business session.

Mrs. George Chambers and her committee will have charge of the social session.

Airlines' New Bid for Increase In Travel Utilizes Fastest Equipment and Low Fares

DAY COACH WITH WINGS: A choice of 34 flights on six lines.

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — The airlines are lines are beginning to use their fastest and best equipment in a bold new bid to build up air travel with coach-style service featuring low fares and no frills.

American Airlines is blazing the trail, hoping to revolutionize the industry and create a great mass market for air transportation. United Air Lines plans to follow suit in May on a more limited scale.

The air coach idea isn't brand new. It's been getting a try-out for about a year and a half and has spread to most major airlines. But up to now such service has been chiefly restricted to overnight trips when travel is normally slack. And the lines have relied on 230-mile-an-hour DC-4s for the most part.

Now American has started flying the 300-mile an-hour DC-6s on a one stop coast to coast trip that clips nearly four hours off the fastest previous transcontinental coach service.

To fit out DC-6's for this run, American stripped them of luxury features and upped seating capacity from 52 to 70. The bigger load will go far toward offsetting the lower fares charged, American believes. By eliminating a second fuel stop, which a DC-4 must make the line saves around $250 a day in costs.

On this flight you take off from LaGuardia Airport in New York at 10:25 in the morning. Three and a half hours later you're in Chicago, with ample time for lunch at the field. No meals are served aloft — they're part of the fancy trimmings that have been eliminated.

At 1:40 p.m. CST you board the plane again, span the coastal mountains and land at Los Angeles airport at 7:10 p.m. just 11 hours and 45 minutes after the take-off at New York.

If you returned the same way, you'd leave the coast at 9:45 a.m., reach Chicago at 6:10 p.m. and New York at 10:50 p.m. Eastbound, with usually favoring tail winds, the trip takes only 10 hours and five minutes.

The one-way fare all the way is $110, plus tax. Round trip costs exactly double, or $253 with tax. That's $92 cheaper than the regular non-coach service.

American thinks this kind of air travel can be self-supporting, can in fact earn as much revenue as the higher-fare standard service using the same planes. If it turns out to be right, American won't worry too much about what happens to its luxury trade.

Some of the other lines aren't so confident. They fear the industry's regular rate structure may be ruined by coach competition if the idea is applied too widely. They'd like to see it limited to older, slower equipment and to the unattractive hours of the day.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Air Lines, is in this camp. He feels, moreover, that low-fare coach service actually is discriminatory. People boarding planes at cities not on coach routes must pay higher fares.

Capital Airlines, however, is one of the big rooters for air coach. Though its shorter routes from the South and Midwest to Washington and New York make DC-6's uneconomical to use, Capital has been highly successful with DC-4's in that service. The pioneer with air coach, this line now has 10 flights daily at reduced fares. Yet it claims its first class travel hasn't suffered.

Right now you can take your pick from among 34 different air coach flights on six major lines When United gets going with DC-6's between Los Angeles and San Francisco next month, this total will climb to 40.

To the Civil Aeronautics Board this entire venture still is tentative. The big question, of course is: Can the lines tap a big new market without seriously impairing the revenues they get from their more expensive service? And most experts will be watching DC-6 flights like American's transcontinental trip for their answer

New Hearing Device Has No Receiver Button In Ear

Chicago, Ill.—Deafened people are hailing a new device that gives them clear hearing without making them wear a receiver button in the ear. They now enjoy songs, sermons, friendly companionship and business success with no self-conscious feeling that people are looking at any button hanging on their ear. With the new almost invisible Phantomold and Beltone you may free yourself not only from deafness, but from even the appearance of deafness. Employers Ask Questions on Revised Laws

Explanation Given By Manager Social Security Office

Attention of employers is called to the fact that under provisions of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act the rate of Social Security Tax on wages paid on and after January 1, 1950, is 1½% on employees and 1½% on employers.

Scott Webber, manager of the Sedalia Social Security office, reports that numerous daily calls and letters from employers seek more information about the revised Social Security tax and reporting procedures.

The Social Security office now has available a new Employer's Tax Handbook, which will be mailed free of charge to any employer upon request.

Principal Changes

Principal changes, all effective with respect to wages paid on or after January 1, 1950, are:

1. A new combined form, 941, will be used for the quarterly report of income tax withheld from wages and Social Security Taxes.

2. A revised monthly depositing system has been installed for both taxes.

April 30 is the deadline for filing returns for the first quarter of 1950.

Handbook Convenient

The Employers' Tax Handbook brings together in one convenient publication all the essential information needed by employers for the purpose of the Federal payroll taxes, including wage tables showing amounts to be withheld in each wage bracket, and a calendar of employers' duties under the law for the complete year.

On hiring new employes, Webber urges all employers to secure both name and social security number from the social security account number card. If the employee has never had a social security number, or has lost his card, have him make application immediately. Application blanks are available at the Social Security Office, or at each local postoffice.

Compliance with this will insure correct returns, and wil lresult in a saving of valuable time as well as a portion of the tax dollar.

NEW YORK, April 16—(AP)—National Doughnut Week begins today.

And naturally, millions of thoughtful Americans are going around saying to one another:

"Good old National Doughnut Week has rolled around again. My, isn't it good to have it back?"

But only a handful of these grateful citizens are aware of the deep historical significance behind National Doughnut Week—or just how it came about.

Well, it was born 13 years ago in the agile brain of Bert Nevins, a balding, cruller-shaped publicity man.

"It was the first of the food weeks," Bert recalled modestly. "Before that there were just things like Mother's Day, Arbor Day, the Fourth of July and National Baby Week."

All Sorts of Weeks

Now, of course, there are weeks for all sorts of goodies—such as National Hot Tea Week and National Cold Tea Week, National Kraut and Frankfurter Week, National Pickle Week, National Honey Week and also National Honey for Breakfast Week.

The pioneering idea of setting a week apart for the nation to pause and ponder the blessings of the doughnut grew out of a stern reality in the industry—sales hit a peak at Halloween, slumped in the spring.

"Picking the right time was very important," said Nevins. "You don't want to have a food week during a period when there are holidays, as people have other things on their mind.

Settled for April

"We couldn't take the week before Easter because bakers are pushing hot cross buns then. So we settled for a week in April after Easter."

And in the baker's dozen years since the doughnut muscled itself a place in the calendar sales have quadrupled. The $200,000,000 a year industry expects to sell 12,000,000,000 doughnuts in 1950.

"We don't think that National Doughnut Week alone is responsible for this increase," said Nevins, who has built himself a $100,000 annual business glamorizing doughnuts, diapers, pretzels and cranberries. "But we do know that spring sales, which used to be small, now are almost equal to fall sales."

Some groups make a week for their product, say "National Frozen Dogfood Week" and let it go at that. Nevins uses every possible device to thrust doughnuts into the public mind.

This week, for example, his gimmicks include a new doughnut-shaped hair-do, doughnut straw hats for the ladies, pajamas decorated with doughnuts, and a recording of "The Doughnut Song," by folk singer Burl Ives. He even persuaded Emily Post to endorse the custom of dunking "provided the doughnut is first broken in half."

Feels He's Been Copied

Like all frontiersmen of the intellect, Nevins feels he has been copied.

"Now there are too many weeks of all kinds overlapping each other," he objected. "This whole idea of special weeks may kill itself if we get many more. It is getting promiscuous."

He is mulling over a plan to call all interested parties together and get them to divide up the year on a sensible basis.

"After all there are only 52 weeks," he said regretfully.

So, a happy doughnut week to you! It is also National Coin Week, National Want Ad Week and National Noise Abatement Week.

Red Wedding Provides Propaganda

HONG KONG—(AP)—The Chinese Reds are turning event the ancient wedding ceremony into a sounding board for their theories. The leftist newspaper "Ta Kung Pao" carries an account of a recent Shanghai wedding which it said was "rich in educational meaning."

Instead of sending gifts, guests paid the equivalent of 5c each at the door for tea and cakes. The lavish wedding feast—for which a groom ordinarily will go into debt for years if necessary—was cut out entirely. So was the "drinking, jesting and jostling." So were the firecrackers, the brass band, and the wedding procession where the bride usually rides through the street in a closed sedan chair.

Instead, there was a discussion which criticized the old style wedding, appraised the new, and featured a round-table talk on "how to attain the full meaning of marriage."

Jefferson PTA Has Installation

The Jefferson school P.T.A. held its April meeting at the school Thursday evening, April 13, with the president, Mrs. Raymond Schultz, presiding.

The members of the sixth and seventh grade chorus sang three numbers as a devotional.

Several pupils from the fifth grade gave a safety playlet in the form of a quiz kid show.

The secretary and the treasurer's reports were read and approved and room count award went to the seventh grade.

E. T. Martin, principal, installed the following officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. Charles Poynter, first vice-president, Mrs. Roland Snavely, second vice-president, Mrs. Elmer Lane, secretary; Mrs. Vincent Siegel, treasurer, Miss Minta Sullivan and historian, Mrs. Verny Engholm.

The program for the evening was presented by the music department of Smith-Cotton high school under the direction of Miss Geraldine Tuefel, which included a saxophone solo by Bill Matthews and a bass horn solo by Charles Walch. The last portion of the program was a gypsy musical show.

After these numbers the meeting was dismissed.

Encouraging Results Reported By Cancer Specialists

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16—(AP)—A spectacular method of shooting anti-cancer drugs with almost pinpoint accuracy into deeply buried malignancies has shown encouraging results, a group of research specialists reported today.

A ribbon-like tube or catheter with a nozzle on one end is inserted into the patient's artery at some convenient place and pushed on inward until the nozzle reaches a secondary artery supplying blood to the cancerous area. A plunger on the exposed end of the tube then forces the anti-cancer drug straight through to the small artery whose blood stream carries it directly to the target.

Method Looks Promising

This revolutionary method looks promising because it permits a high degree of concentration of the anti-cancer drug on the malignant site. The high concentration effect is desirable because most anti-cancer drugs destroy normal as well as malignant cells.

The technique was developed here in the laboratory of experimental oncology about a year ago. About the same time cancer researchers in Sweden thought of the idea independently and also have made tests.

Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, director of the laboratory here, made the report to the American Cancer Society. The laboratory is a joint venture of the University of California and the National Cancer Institute, a government agency.

Poison Gases Effective

About 30 patients have been treated here with nitrogen mustards and radioactive chemicals. The nitrogen mustards are poison gases which are particularly effective against some forms of cancer but also are destructive to normal tissues. The radioactive substances destroy malignant cells by giving off rays. They too can destroy normal cells.

No cures have been obtained, but a number of cancers were temporarily halted and the tests warrant further use, Dr. Shimkin said.

The conventional way of applying anti-cancer drugs to deep malignancies is to inject them into the veins. This, however, allows the drugs to be difused through the entire blood stream, and only a small proportion of them reach the cancer site.

Drug Goes Into Cancer Site

By inserting the catheter downward in the carotid artery in the neck or upward in the femoral artery in the leg the nozzle can be steered into almost any secondary artery deep in the body the experimenters said.

Then the drug charge can be delivered so that nearly all of it goes to the cancer site.

The laboratory also reported a "cross transfusion technique" in which the veins and arteries of a leukemia sufferer and a normal person were hooked into each other so that the blood of both was mingled as it circulated through the double system.

Leukemia is a cancer-like disease of the white blood cells.

Lungs Play a Part

The researchers said they learned from this test that one or more organs of the body regulate the number of white blood cells in a system. This regulatory mechanism kept the white cell count of the normal person fairly normal and that of the leukemic person rather high during the cross transfusion.

The lungs appear to play a part in removing surplus white corpuscles from the blood stream, the experimenters found.

In still another experiment a number of patients with malignant melanoma volunteered to have their pituitary glands destroyed by X-rays or removed surgically to find out whether the operation would adversely affect their cancers.

Malignant melanoma is cancer which starts in a pigmented mole. It spreads through the body quickly and is one of the deadliest forms of cancer.

A Boss Gland

The pituitary gland, a pea-sized organ at the base of the brain, is the boss gland of the body, producing hormones which regulated the other glands.

The idea behind the operation is that melanoma never is malignant before puberty, and that if the pituitary gland of an adult melanoma victim were removed, shutting off the supply of hormones to other glands which awaken at puberty, the malignancy might disappear.

This was a desperate measure designed to postpone death if possible. The outcome remains in doubt.

Kaiser-Frazer Has Heavy Loss

DETROIT, April 15—(AP)—Kaiser-Frazier Corp. Friday reported a consolidated net loss of $30,329,351 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1949.

This compares with a net profit of $10,362,098 after all taxes, reported for 1948.

The report listed total sales for 1949 at $104,474,189, compared with $341,522,441 in 1948. It showed the corporation's current assets at $34,852,159 and current liabilities at $11,559,888. Including property, land and equipment total assets were brought to $90,114,229.

The statement also showed total long term obligations of $42,765,604.

Edgar F. Kaiser, president, told stockholders a major cause for the 1949 loss was inadequate financing.

(Earnings of the auto industry as a whole were at a new high in 1949 as production reached a record 6,238,000 care and trucks.)

Kaiser said his firm's heavy loss in 1949 does not properly reflect the present condition of the company, nor is it indicative of its future trend. Kaiser-Frazer's new 1951 models "have recevied wide public acceptance in nation-wide showings," he said. Volume shipments now are being made to distributors and dealers, tooling for the new low-priced car is virtually completed and this model will be in production in about 60 days.

No Trespassing

Tells Olsen "Broken Leg Just Peanuts"

OCEANSIDE, Calif., April 15—(AP)—Doctors operated Friday to set the broken right leg of John Siguard Olson, 58, of the "Olson and Johnson" comedy team.

The break above the knee, caused in an automobile accident yesterday, was cleated with pins. This the doctors said, should enable him to get around again within ten days.

An understudy, Marty May will appear for Olson when the comedy team's new show, "Tsk, Tsk, Tsk, Paree," opens in San Diego Monday. He was on his way there when an automobile in which he was riding left the highway and plunged down an embankment.

Olsen's mother, who lives in Fort Wayne, Ind., sent him the following telegram: "When I was 75 I broke three ribs and had a brain concussion, 53 stitches and a shoulder out of place. A broken leg is peanuts."

Enlisted Men Head for Naples

Charles J. Rouchka, 1600 East Broadway, and Everett W. Banks of Marshall, both enlisted men in the U. S. Navy, are scheduled to arrive in Naples, Italy, on April 22.

Rouchka is aboard the heavy cruiser USS Newport News, and Banks is stationed on the destroyer tender USS Sierra, both ships being engaged in fleet maneuvers with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The visit to Naples was arranged to afford the ships' crews a period of relaxation ashore and an opportunity to visit the beautiful Italian countryside.

Leave parties have been arranged which will enable a large number of men to visit Rome. They will join the many thousands from all over the world who are visiting the Eternal City during the Holy Year. Trips have also been scheduled to Mount Vesuvius, the ruins of Pompeii and the Isle of Capri.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Sarah Houston

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Houston, who died at her hom,e 311 East Twenty-seventh street, Friday morning, were held at the Ewing funeral home at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Sid Mabry, pastor of the Faith Tabernacle, officiated.

Mrs. Harvey Worlledge and Mrs. Sid Mabry sang, "Sometime We'll Understand" and "Will the Circle Be Unbroken" accompanied by Mrs. Mae Moser at the organ.

Friends who served as pallbearers were Lester Simon, Douglas Simon, Frank Vinson, Mel Vinson, Bill Toliver and James Wood.

Ed Shacklett

Ed Shacklett, of Sturgis, S.D., former Pettis countian, died April 4.

Funeral services were held April 8, at the Methodist church in Sturgis with the Masons in charge.

Mr. Shacklett lived most of his life in Pettis county leaving here about 20 years ago.

A daughter, Mrs. Inez Shacklett Price died May, 1949.

Mrs. Shacklett will make her home with her son, Harry Shacklett, in Fonoma.

Mrs. Susan Caroline Finley

of politician Charles Binaggio and Charles Gargotta, whose gangland-style shootings pulled the crime spotlight on Missouri's second city last week.

Smith turned up nere this morning in a hushed-up session with four out of five members of the board, which the governor appoints. Police Chief Henry Johnson also attended the session.

"Stick By Guns"

Out of the conference came a two page statement from the governor telling police to stick by their guns and hold the fort.

"I have hopes." the statement said, "with your assistance that in a short time the recent murders will be solved. The police department, I know, is working tirelessly day and night to apprehend the guilty parties."

J. L. Milligan, chairman of the police board, issued an accompanying statement approving the governor's stand.

"No member of this police board," stated Milligan's release, "has in any way 'tied the hands of the chief of police' or interfered or obstructed in any way the enforcement of the law or interfered with his other duties as chief of police."

A letter to Smith was written by Rep. Richard M. Webster of Carthage who said Missouri is known in the nation as "the seat of political corruption and the haven for an un-controlled underworld."

Carrollo was to spend at least another night in jail because the real property introduced as security for his $10,000 bond failed to meet federal district court requirements.

The same applied to the men arrested with Carrollo—Anthony (Stringbean) Marcella, Sam Torrorice and Mike Arnone.

At the time of the pick-up, police said Arnone had a record of 12 previous arrests. Police reported today, however, that a recheck showed Arnone had no previous record, but had been confused with another man with the same name.

Upon his return to the capital, the governor declined to name the three members of the board who had offered to resign.

After saying he told the members of the board they were "doing a good job," he added:

"I told them I had investigated all the charges against them and found them not verified by facts —just idle rumors."

He told newsmen that he was "well satisfied with the results" of his investigation of the police force and as far as he was concerned the investigation was over.

As for Representative Webster's suggestion about a state crime commission. Governor Smith said he judged that Webster was running for re-election.

"Have No Authority"

"Any commission I could set up would be only advisory—they'd have no authority whatsoever," he said.

Besides, he commented, such a commission "would be a slap at local law enforcement officers.

"I have no knowledge that the sheriffs and prosecuting attorneys in the various counties are not performing their duties"

The governor said he was surprised to learn there was a mystery about his whereabouts the past 24 hours. He explained that he drove to Kansas City with his son-in-law, Frank Teterus of Chicago and that his room at the Hotel (President) was in Teterus' name.

While there, he said, he talked with 36 lawyers, ministers, merchants and judges and "without a single exception every one of them told me there is less gambling and unsolved crime."

None of them, he added, urged that a grand jury be called. Five or six, he said, told him it would be a waste of money to call a grand jury now.

Deputy Arrested in A Raid Suspended

ST. Louis, April 15—(AP)—Sheriff Thomas F. Callanan today suspended a deputy sheriff arrested yesterday with 10 other persons in a police raid of a huge weather ticket lottery racket.

Callanan said he suspended Arthur J. Kuntz, 51, pending outcome of the case. The deputy's job pays $185 a month.

Police Capt. Joseph A. Wren estimated the lottery has been grossing about $50,000 a week.

Spring Begins Warming Up

(By The Associated Press)

Another blast of record cold stung the southeast Saturday but spring began behaving like spring in the plains states.

Temperatures rose to seasonal levels in Montana and the Dakotas. The warmup was expected to spread gradually over the entire eastern half of the country.

Forecasters said the Canadian ice box has been drained of its Arctic cold, for the present at least, and that near normal temperatures should return soon to all winter weary sections.

But the chilly southeast reported these record low temperatures for this late in the season:

Miami, Fla., 51; Savannah, Ga., 34; Atlanta, Ga., 31 and Birmingham, Ala., 31; Tampa, Fla., 46, equalling an 80 year old record, and Terre Haute, Ind., had a record low for the date of 24.

The freeze line dipped through Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and the Carolinas and into northern Georgia, Alabama and Arkansas.

The weather across the country was generally fair, except for light drizzle in west Texas and the Oklahoma Panhandle, showers in the central Rockies and Pacific northwest and snow flurries in the northern Appalachians.

House Robbers in Quick Get-Away

Two house robbers had a close call to being caught at the home of Lloyd Cramer, 812 South Barrett avenue, about 8:10 o'clock Saturday night, but they succeeded in making a getaway with approximately $28.00 in silver dollars and some small change. They were surprised when Mr. Cramer accompanied by his two sons, Larry 12, and Gary 9, who returned home a little earlier than anticipated.

Mr. Cramer was driving into his garage when he saw a youth run across his drive, across the back yard and over a fence. At first he thought it might be neighborhood children playing hide-and-seek. He drove on into the garage and his son, Larry, walked around to the front of the house to get a newspaper when a second youth made a wild dash out the front door, through a screened door and ran east across Barrett disappearing between two houses.

Mr. Cramer went to the home of a neighbor and called the police

An investigation revealed the theives had "jimmied" the lock on the back door. The lock on the front door also had been damaged but it was thought this was done in getting out of the house.

A good description of the two was obtained and a car they occupied was also identified. Police are making a check of several youths in hopes of getting the house-breakers.

Miss Pershing Is Still Critical

JEFFERSON CITY, April 15—(AP) — Warren Pershing, of New York, son of the late Gen. John J. Pershing, said tonight his aunt, Anna Mae Pershinp was "doing pretty well" at St. Mary's hospital here.

Miss Pershing, 83, of Lincoln Nebr., suffered a paralytic stroke last Monday night in her hotel room a few hours after she had presented one of the World War I general's gold mounted swords to his native state of Missouri.

The nephew, a New York banker, said he probably would return to New York tomorrow and come back here to see his aunt again next week-end.

Miss Pershing has been in critical condition since suffering the stroke and doctors said it would be ten days or two weeks until they could tell whether she would recover.

Master Park Plan Stressed By Park Board

park as a result of the clearing, bull-dozing, and grading of the major portion of that park.

Ice Storm A Blow

"This winter's ice storm was a terrific blow to the parks with their better than 600 trees damaged in one degree or another. Expert tree surgery has healed that damage, but approximately fifty acres of parks had to be cleared of fallen limbs, and our employees then had to hand rake those acres to remove the small limbs from them. This has now been completed and the turf rolled in preparation to open the parks this spring.

"A timely program of repair has saved many future bills for the park board. Our heating plant has been repaired; new and lasting netting has been placed on the tennis courts and needed portions of the baseball backstops. The fence of Liberty ball diamond has had two coats of paint, and the ballstand floor has been waterproofed. All benches and tables have been repaired and painted. Monthly checks of operating equipment have been made for safety.

Studied Other Pools

"The Park board instituted an investigation in 14 cities of the operation of swimming pools similar to our two new pools. The knowledge gained from this investigation should prove invaluable to the proper operation of the pools this year. The board also constructed guards for the pool underwater lights, and provided for the winter maintenance of the two pools after they were released by the contractors.

"The drive in Washington Park was resurfaced this last summer, and a series of uniform signs placed in the drive at Liberty Park.

"The opportunity for city-wide sport and recreation has been fostered by the repairs and additions to the baseball facilities at Housel, Center, and Liberty Parks. The re-establishment of the drinking fountain at Hubbard Park, and the installation of a new fountain at the Rotary Shelter at Liberty Park has rendered the picnic areas more enjoyable. The band concerts sponsored jointly by the park board and the American Federation of Musicians Local 22 have been very largely attended.

"The contract for the new lighting at Liberty and for soft-ball lighting at Center has been let, and some of the materials have already been shipped for the project. Our contractors state that the lights in both cases should be ready well in time for most of thi ssummre's baseball games.

"Respectfully submitted,

"Sedalia Park Board

"Cline Cain, Sec'y.

her. She goes over and over her cards and tears open the invelopes in various places.

Cards From Germany

Among the cards, too, were some from Germany, friends of her daughter, Mrs. Cora Bragunier, and then there were cards from people she never even heard of but who knew she was soon to celebrate her hundredth birthday anniversary. She even had cards from people she didn't know, who live in Kansas.

Gifts had already started coming, too, and she got out one of her boxes of candy with peppermint balls and orange slices, and passed it around. Her favorite candy, however, is stick candy When she was a little girl back in 1859 making the trip with her parents from Virginia by boat to Boonville, that was the one thing she remembered most about the trip. When they landed at Boonville they got some stick candy and her liking for stick candy has never changed.

This will be a big day for Mrs. Bobbitt with relatives and friends to surprise her by dropping in to see her. She confided she would like to have a party but it would be too much work for her daughter. But she will have party, a ten dollar cake and more cards and gifts. She is going to have a big day for it isn't everyone who lives to celebrate their hundreth birthday anniversary—that, indeed is a rare occasion.

"We appreciate the fine way everything was handled"

So writes a family we had the privilege of serving. Another expresses appreciation for the "considerate terms" given them. States a third family, "You went considerably beyond and above what ordinarily could be expected. It made the road a lot easier."

One kindly lady expressed thanks for the "kindly and friendly advice".

Expressions like these tell more than anything we might say. They indicate that we have been successful in our policy of providing the "finer funerals for less".

Scenes at Girl Scout Little House

A scene on the grounds of "The Little House," Girl Scout camp, on Saturday, April 8, where more than 160 girls had assembled for "Clean-up Day. (Padgett Photos)

An all day meeting at camp Sakajawea opened the spring activities of the Sedalia Girl Scouts on Saturday, April 1. One hundred and thirty leaders and scouts took part in the clean-up project under the direction of the camp director, Mrs. Carl Siegel. The troops were assigned to different phases of the clean-up project and by 3:30 o'clock the camp grounds and buildings were in fine condition for the 1950 camping season.

First prize awards went to troop 33 at Whittier school with Mrs. Mary Houston and Mrs. C. H. Hall as leaders. Second prize went to troop 17, Mark Twain, with Mrs. Clay Williams and Mrs. J. M. Blue as co-leaders.

Troop 30, Broadway, under the direction of Mrs. Paul Houston won honors with a bird house they constructed.

Camp Sakajawea will be full of activity during the spring and summer months. Girl Scout troops will spend week-ends at the camp for overnight camping. The day camp for 1950 under the direction of Mrs. Harry Lambirth will take place in June.

Young Lovers Found in Cabin

Routed by Tear Gas—Girl Wounded In the Capture

QUESNEL, B. C., April 14—(AP)—An all-night siege of armed young lovers in a wilderness cabin ended Friday with the capture of a youth and his 16-year-old girl friend.

They stood off a posse of Canadian officers and civilians more than 12 hours. Driven from the cabin fortress by tear gas, the sweet-hearts were captured on a nearby ridge where they had taken refuge. The girl was nicked in the leg by a bullet from the posse.

Barking of the girl's collie dog led the posse to the hilltop hideout after tracking of the couple had failed.

Provincial police identified the defiant, trigger-free youth as Bert Lagace, 19. The girl, a juvenile, was not identified.

This British Columbia town is about 400 miles north of Vancouver. The siege scene was about 18 miles from the town.

Police had a wararnt charging Lagace with abduction of the girl. Her parents had sworn out a complaint against the youth after she had failed to return home Tuesday. She had been keeping company with him for several months, against her parents' wishes.

Police said the pair had broken into at least two cabins during their attempt to elude pursuit.

Officers said the girl had voluntarily accompanied Lagace.

Was Holding Rifle

They said she was holding a rifle when a posse bullet nipped her leg and sent her to a hospital.

The posse found the couple in the cabin late Thursday. A shot from inside held the men back. They waited until daylight to move in with tear gas. Two of four tear gas bombs were tossed back out to bring tears to posse members.

Her father, a respected Quesnel citizen, pleaded with her to come out. Officers said she shouted back: "I'll see you in hell first!"

The youth shouted: "If you want me, you'd better bring a coffin."

The couple dashed into the woods from the rear of the cabin as the possemen moved in under cover of trees and rocks.

After the dog gave away the couple's hiding place, and the girl was shot the posse rushed the position.

Sgt. Andy Fairbairn reported later: "Lagace put up a desperate struggle before we pinned him."

He said the girl "comes from a fine family" and had a good record previously: "I don't know what happened to her."

. . . meet me at the club

Ladies day at the country club is one event that more ladies should take advantage of. It's held every Thursday, and we really have an enjoyable time. This week we had creamed sweet breads, twice baked potatoes, pineapple salad, hot rolls, and strawberry sundae. You can make up your own table to play cards, or you can play golf, or you can just sit. The sun is warmer and the porch is lovely, so suit yourself—but do come out. You know its fun to get away from home and mix a little.

There were two tables of bridge and two of canasta Thursday. Winners in bridge were, Mrs. E. H. McLaughlin and Mrs. L. C. Yunker. Winners in canasta were Mrs. Harold Dean and Mrs. Victor Scott.

Sixty attended the stag party held the 13th, but I can't give you much information about that Maybe we can get a report later—so, girls, keep your ears open. This is the second year the gents have had such an affair. The first was so successful it will probably prove to be another annual event.

A Sore Subject

The boys got a little of the worst of it Sunday in the golf match, but its a sore subject at our house so I just don't say too much about it. Martha and Dick Sklar had a nice party after the match. You know, Marilynn is Martha's cousin, and I predict that Marilynn has quite a future ahead of her. She's only twenty.

Today is the opening day of the golf season. Tom Yount is in charge of the Blind Handicap tournament, and there will be prizes and pleasure for all contestants.

Maybe a lot of you have wondered about the pipes on the ground in front of the club house. I have been informed that they are going to be installed to keep our greens watered. The greens can all be watered at once, because there will be sufficient pressure for distributing the water. Aren't we getting efficient! Our golf course does compare very favorably with most courses in the country, and I think we should be proud of it. Incidentally, do you know we have a good golf pro, too, and he's very anxious to give lessons. Starting the first of June we will have a program worked out for golf lessons, and the charge will be very little. I'll let you know. This is one game you're never too young or too old to play.

Spring Formal Last Night

The spring formal was held last night. Is today a bad day? Last night was a good night. There were about 250 people, and I think everyone had a good time. Hor's d'eurves were served at nine, and the club was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. They were a little hard to find this year with all of our cold weather. We have Virginia Scott and Ola Wright to thank for our activities this month They, and their committee, did a good job on the dance. Harry Trotman and his orchestra gave forth with a few specialties, as well as his usual routine. The ladies looked so pretty all dolled up. I only wish we had more formal dances. Then we'd get our money's worth—huh, girls!

Don't forget—this afternoon—the golf match! You can either follow the match or sit on the porch. Bring the kids, and remember its your club, so come on out and get the most out of it.

Thursday will be a big day for the women of the club. It will be the spring opening card party when all the girls may bring one local guest. So we expect to see a big crowd out at the club Thursday. But remember—reservations must be in by Monday noon. So get your reservations in early.

Couple Married on Easter Sunday

Miss Angeline Semkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Semkin, 902 East Boonville street, was married to Mrs. Walter D. Ehlers of Peoria, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ehlers of Mora, at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed church at 7:00 o'clock p. m. Easter Sunday. The Reverend W. C. Bessmer performed the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with baskets of Easter lillies, snapdragons and smilax, an archway entwined with smilax and candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Lillian Fox played "Because" by D'Hardelot and "Claire de Lune" by Debussy. She also played "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin and "The Wedding March" by Mendelssohn. Miss Esther Meinsenheimer sang "Always" by Berlin and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. During the ceremony Miss Fox played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a gown of white slipper satin. It was fashioned with a net yoke with scattered seed pearls. The sleeves were long and tapered to a point over the hand and the full skirt widened into an aisle wide train. Her headdress was of waxed orange blossoms to which a fingertip veil was attached. She carried a white Bible with white Easter lilies and white satin ribbon streamers, making a shower bouquet from the Bible.

Miss Kathryn Semkin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink net over nylon, fashioned with a turn back collar and full skirt. She carried a nosegay bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Eunice Semkin, sister of the bride, wore a yellow gown fashioned identically to that of the maid of honor. She carried a candle with a white satin bow, with which she lighted the candles.

Mr. Melvin Ehlers, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Harry Ehlers, brother of the bridegroom, and Amos Semkin, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Semkin, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue dress with beige accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Ehlers, mother of the bridegroom, wore an aqua dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A lace tablecloth covered the table with a three tiered wedding cake as the centerpiece with pink and white streamers. The home was decorated with Easter lilies and snapdragons.

STYLE-WISE women and girls are selecting their summer wardrobes now. Keep in mind that in this particular part of the country we have many cool summer nights, so you'll be needing a few dark summer things. Perhaps you won't want to wear the same coat you had for your spring suits and dresses with your summer casuals, therefore it is wise to pick up an extra light weight coat now. You'll find superb values on the sale racks at such ridiculously low prices, it won't harm your budget. You will also note that you can have many more changes this coming season, because everything is so reasonably priced. 'Round the clock wardrobes may be selected in cotton materials that are truly washable and nearly a 100% sanforized—so buy them to fit.

HOSIERY HINTS

by Airmaid Clark

Stretch and straight lines!

The above topic of our little hosiery forum is going to mean much to your daily beauty—and your daily calm—once we've explained. The stretch we're talking about is in the Sta-Tru Seam, one more point of perfection in wonderful Airmaid Nylons. And the straight lines we spoke of are those same seams by Airmaid. You see, the elasticity hugs the seam to your leg, so that seams can't go wandering off in every direction.

What better way to end the eternal feuding with hosiery seams than to buy Airmaid Nylons? You'll find them — most conveniently — at The East End Drug Store. Adv.

Five Sponsors For Sedalia's Semi-Pro Team

Cubs' Opener Will Be With Holden Here On April 30

Generally speaking, what was a dream of many baseball minded Sedalians a few months ago, is now turning into a reality, because the newly organized semi-pro baseball team, the Sedalia Cubs, now have the backing of five sponsors, and if enough baseball talent is obtained, the team may eventually wind-up as one of the strongest semi-pro teams in this locality.

A few months ago, a number of men interested in seeing that Sedalia is represented with a good semi-pro team, started to hold meetings, to see what could be done about the situation. Now the team has the following sponsors, Pacific Cafe, Sedalia Packing company, Cramer and Schrader Construction company, B. A. "Bunny" Fischer and E. W. Thompson Motor company.

This afternoon at 3:15 o'clock, the fifth practice session of the Cubs will be held at the Liberty Park dnamond. Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 5:15 o'clock, the boys will practice again, and on Thursday of this week, the starting players will be chosen.

Team Officials

The officials for the team are: Jack Alpert, manager; Cliff Barr, business manager, Jimmy Glenn, publicity manager, Nathan Jones, treasurer and Frank "Dutch" Eschbacher, score-keeper.

Alpert said there were five outfielders fighting for the three starting positions in the outfield. They are: George Thompson, Charlie Thompson, Lopp Barnes, Joe Waters and Max Smith.

The manager said he was looking for infielders, as some of the positions are wide open. There are three men assured, more or less, of postions in the infield, Cliff Barr, Jack Slocum and Bus Livingood. In running over the pitching staff, the manager named these three right-handers: Bus Walker, Bob Rapp and Bob Brown, and added that he could use a couple more hurlers. He invited any player living in this vicinity, who is interested in playing ball, and is not yet with a team, to come out to practice this afternoon for a tryout.

Good Schedule Planned

The Cub's manager, said they were planning a good schedule of ball games. Following are some of the teams the manager listed that the Cubs will play: Holden, J. C. Dodgers, Slater, Armstrong, House of David, Glasgow, J. C. Redbirds, Cash Bargain Lumber of Kansas City, and other traveling teams are being slated to meet the Sedalia aggregation.

It's Up to Attendance

As to the home games, the manager put it this way: "If the Cubs draw a large attendance here, then we will play most of our games here, but if the crowd is thin, we will have to play most of our games out of town."

The opening game of the season for the Cubs will be on Sunday afternoon at Liberty Park on April 30, against the strong Holden team. The Holden team is made up of baseball material from all over the states of Missouri and Kansas. A night game is scheduled here on May 12 with the Jefferson City Dodgers.

The manager said new uniforms have been ordered for the team and were due to arrive this Friday.

Cardinals Lose To Browns 5-3

ST. LOUIS, April 15 — (AP) — Three-hit hurling for six innings by Cliff Fannin and Roy Siever's bat spelled victory for the St. Louis Browns, 5-3, as they opened their two-game city exhibition series with the St. Louis Cardinals today.

The American League team took a two-run lead in the first inning when Billy Demars walked, Frank Gustine was hit by a pitched ball, Sievers singled scoring Demars, and Dick Kokos was out on a forced play at second as Gustine crossed the plate.

The Cards' first hit was a double by Harry Walker in the fourth but Walker was left on base. The Redbirds picked up their first run and the only one off Fannin—in the fifth frame when pitcher Ken Johnson singled to left, scoring Eddie Kazak.

But the Browns picked up two more tallies in their half of the fifth off Sievers' bat as he doubled home Fannin and Demars.

The Cards added two runs in the seventh against Brownie relief hurler Dick Starr.

Johnson, the Cardinal started, was wild giving up five bases on balls as well as hitting Gustine once in his five innings. He allowed five hits.

Harvey Bros. to Sponsor Softball Team in Sedalia

The Harvey Bros. Implement company is sponsoring a softball team for the coming season. The team is to be known as the Sedalia Athletics.

New suits have been obtained and anyone who is interested in playing softball is asked to report at the Smith-Cotton diamond this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock

Baseball Opener for Local Team

Blues Play K. C. Team Today in Housel Park

The Teen-Age Blues of Sedalia will play Armour-Troost Motors of the Senior Division of the3 and 2 League of Kansas City in a baseball game this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at Housel Park.

Fisher or Walter will start on the mound for the Blues, with Lees receiving. Dave Wheeler, manager of the Armour-Troost team, said that Bob Bacchus and Bob Russell will form the Kansas City battery.

The visiting team boast some hard hitters in Mel Corum, Bob Shoemaker and "Ears" Davis.

Blue's Line-up

Thomas, 2b; Lane, ss; Wall, lf; Watson, cf; Vaught, 3b; Lees, c; D. Higgens, 1b; J. Walter, rf; and W. Walter or Fisher, on the hill.

The ages of the Blues' players run between 15 and 18 years, and they are playing an older team this afternoon. The Armour-Troost Motors team rages run between 17 and 21. Although the local team is out-aged, it will be out for victory in this, the opener of the season.

The Teen-Agers are scheduling games with the various 3-2 League teams. The team was organized this season, and is sponsored by the Northeast Athletic Club.

The Blues are coached by Elmer Lane and "Doc" Cnavely and will be suited in new uniforms.

S-C Baseball Team Enters Tournament

ST. LOUIS, April 15—(AP)—The state's first high school baseball tournament has drawn 45 entries, F. Froebel Gaines, chairman of the tournament committee, announced today.

The finals will be held here May 25-27.

Twenty-four of the teams are from the St. Louis area. Also to be represented are Lile of Kansas City, and teams from Sedalia, Cape Girardeau, Southwest City, Salem, Mexico and Hallsville.

The tournament is sponsored by the Missouri State High School activities Association.

The Smith-Cotton baseball team has been working out at the Sixt enth street and Center avenue ball diamond in the evenings, under Coach James Ball and assistant, Cecil Glenn.

Twenty boys have been working for starting positions. They are: Bob Ray, Dave Johnson, Virgil Rogers, "Skip" Schulz, Bill Arnold, Gene Frye, and Bill Brown, pitchers; Dean Edwards, Bill Holst, Dale Ruffin, Bill McCrary and Richard Lanning, outfielders; Gilbert Leinter, Don Broaddus, Bill Morgan, Ralph Walker, infielders, Ken Neiholdt, Leon Nold, John Cochran and Floyd Burton, Catchers.

Golf Tourney At Country Club Today

Improvements Have Been Made at the Sedalia Course

The men golfers of the Sedalia Country Club will officially open the golf season today with a blind handicap tournament, which is an event that will permit the high handicapped players an equal opportunity to vie with the low handicapped players.

The first prize will be three golf balls, the second prize, two golf balls, and for third place winner, one golf ball will be awarded. Tom T. Yount, a member of the golf committee of the Sedalia Country Club will be in charge of this event.

With favorable weather, a large turnout is anticipated. The greens are in excellent shape and the fairways are coming out. The Country Club is in the middle of installing a complete new water system to all greens and tees, which will permit watering of all greens simultaneously. The installation of the water system will not hinder the play of the course.

Improved Tees

Since last year, all of the tees have been made twice or three times their original size. These improvements will make the course one of the outstanding nine-hole courses in the midwest, and the course is becoming a great source of pride, not only to the local golfers, but to many golfers in this region.

Last year, the Sedalia Country Club made its facilities available to the Sedalia Athletic Association for the promotion of a pro-amateur tournament, which was open to golfers in the region. In addition to the golfers in the state who attended, Loddie Kempa, National left handed champion of 1949 and Ky Lafoon, Chicago, participated in the event.

It is anticipated that the Sedalia Athletic Association again this year, will sponsor the same type tournament. It is understood that a chairman has already been selected to head this event.

Results of Exhibition Games Played by the Major Leagues

CLEVELAND, April 15—(AP)—Cleveland got only two hits today off a trio of New York Giant pitchers and lost to their cross-country rivals in a exhibition, 9 to 0.

Larry Doby got a single for the Indians in the fourth and Bob Avila, rookie second baseman, doubled in the eighth.

Game Halted by Rain

BOSTON, April 15—(AP)—The Boston Braves teed off against right hander Joe Bodson for a 4-1 victory when they resumed their intra-city series with the Red Sox in a game halted by rain after seven innings today at Braves Field.

7 to 4 Win for A's

PHILADELPHIA, April 15—(AP)—Home runs by Eddie Joost and Sam Champman helped the Philadelphia Athletics blast two of the Philadelphia Phillies' most effective pitchers—Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer— for a 7 to 4 victory in the opening city series game today.

Pitcher Looked Impressive

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 15—(AP)—Art Houtteman, a possible starter for Detroit in its American League opener Tuesday, was impressive today as the Tigers defeated the Louisville Colonels of the American Association in an exhibition contest, 8 to 3.

Houtterman took a three-inning workout and set down the nine batters he faced in easy fashion.

Di Maggio's 5th Homer

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—Joe Dimaggio socked his fifth home run of the spring to highlight a five run fifth inning rally that enabled the New York Yankees to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-4, before 12,000 fans today. The triumph was the Yanks' first of the year over their 1949 World Series foes.

Dimaggio unloaded off veteran Preacher Roe to break a scoreless tie and open the gates.

$70,000 Investment Clicks

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Clark Griffith's $70,000 investment, rookie outfielder-first baseman, Ivy Moren, made an auspicious debut before 3006 frozen fans today at Griffith Stadium. He slammed a home run over the right field wall with one man aboard in the first inning and helped Washington down Pittsburgh, 4-2.

Two right handers, Joe Haynes and Ray Scarborough, tamed the Pirates in the first of a two-game exhibition series. They scattered seven hits between them. Scarborough was nominated today by manager Bushy Harris to pitch for the Nats on opening day Tuesday.

Cubs Defeated Sox 3-1

CHICAGO, April 15—(AP)—The Cubs opened the Chicago baseball season by beating the White Sox, 3-1, before 8,680 persons in Comiskey park today.

It was the Cubs' twenty-first win of the exhibition season in 31 games and the north siders' first in three games against their Chicago rivals.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

A rude awakening is in store for some of the local semi-pro baseball players—IF baseball attendance runs true to form at some of the semi-pro parks. The Sedalia Cubs are claiming some of the semi-pro clubs near Sedalia are getting local players to play for them on a salary basis. The local team has nothing more to offer than good clean baseball, a lot of sport, and the hopes of ending the season with a plus sign in the bank so the players can divide any profits left.

But I think the Cubs' offer is good. Sedalia would have an excellant chance of winning a lot of games, building up a fairly good attendance, and at the same time cut in on some tournaments and come out money winners. At the end of season the "cut" or ""take" which ever you might call it would not be too bad.

When a team dips down into a town to get players and promises salaries of $7.50 to $15.00 a game, plus expenses, they certainly are going to find it hard to pay off unless the attendance is better than it has been in recent years. The only team in or near this area, and that couldn't necessarily call Holden this area, is the Holden team. Holden probably is the only semi-pro club in this part of the state that showed a plus sign at the end of the season—but baseball games played there pulled out terrific attendance.

Sedalia has a chance to build this year. The reason, better lighting has been, or rather is being established at the local park. This alone should make it possible to bring in better teams, draw better crowds and in the long run build up a fund. The day of paying salaries in semi-pro baseball and still being able to come out on top is gone as far as many such teams are concerned. There are a few, but a very few exceptions.

Well can I remember when players were paid by the Sedalia clubs—and well can I remember when the sponsors came out on the very very short end. Maybe I am wrong boys, but I think the Sedalia Cubs still have a better deal as they will have no bubble to brust and all will be treated equally.

SOME discussion over players has been had the past several days about Ban Johnson players jumping from that class of ball to semi-pro and some of the better boys thinking of leaving Junior Legion for Ban Johnson. This just shouldn't be, boys of Junior Legion should and must stay in their own class Ban Johnson, theirs and the Semi-Pro should be able to muster a good team without dipping down.

As I understand it a gentleman's agreement has been reached as to this situation in Sedalia. I hope the three teams heed to the agreement and think of the future of Sedalia's baseball material. I hate like the dickens to harp on this subject, but I see no other method than to issue a well deserving warning to team managers but to the players themselves TO STAY IN YOUR OWN CLASS.

It is easy for a ball player to think he is better than some of the boys of his own age and good enough to advance out of the class where he belongs—but in the long run he will find he has gotten too far ahead of himself before his time.

Working together will make it possible for all three teams to have good clubs—working apart will be the ruination of all.

THE members of the Sedalia Park Board are to be commended for their most recent decision—giving Sedalia a better lighted baseball park and giving Southeast Sedalia a softball park "with lights." The contract was let and signed last week making it possible to improve the system at Liberty Park and to install lights at the park at Fifteenth street and Center Avenue.

The improvement at Liberty Park should give Sedalia the best lighted semi-pro baseball park in Missouri. Engeneers' specifications and plans indicate such anyway.

These softball teams who have been yelling about lights will have them. Now lets see them get some games and have some of that good night softball out a Fifteenth street and Center.

Boys you owe a vote of thanks to the Park Board for their efforts.

A Total of $218 In Cash Prizes To Be Awarded

The second annual Bowling Championship tournament, under the sanction of the American Bowling Congress, got underway Saturday night at the Sedalia Bowling Lanes with 218 entries competing for the big trophy and $218 in cash prizes.

The tournament consists of 25 five-man squad teams, 27 two-man teams and 39 singles. The five-man squad teams will end bowling tonight. This afternoon at 1:00 o'clock, the third squad will bowl, then at 7:00 o'clock, another five-man squad will enter competition with the last five teams to bowl at 9:00 o'clock tonight.

Next Weekend Schedule

Next week-end, the singles and doubles will bowl, and then the championhsips will be determined, and an all-events champion will be crowned.

At the end of the first squad shooting Saturday night, the Sport Center came out on top with a high score of 2970 pins with O. G. Nelson leading his team with 577 pins. Second highest in that squad was the Cal Rodgers team with 2933 pins, with McMullian and Whitaker Distributing company taking third place with a score of 2840.

Connie Michaelis, Jr., had a high three game score of 588 pins, and Harry Gudmundson had single game score of 212 pins.

Paul Maxwell is the Sedalia Bowling Association secretary.

Missouri Tigers Lose Baseball Game, 3 to1

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 15—(AP)—The Nebraska Cornhuskers baseball team made it two in a row over the Missouri Tigers with a two-run rally in the tenth inning for a 3-1 victory today.

Nebraska won the first game 7-1 yesterday.

The Missourians came up with three double plays behind Smith's pitching, which netted 11 strikeouts, but the Tiger hurler also issued six walks.

Bob Camp allowed Missouri only seven safeties and struck out three.

Big Audience For Baseball This Year

Diamond Jubilee Season Opens This Tuesday

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—The diamond jubilee season for the diamond game opens Tuesday and countless millions will see or hear baseball compared to the few thousands who followed the first big league teams in 1876.

This year the spread of television and the use for the first time of two radio networks assures the major leagues of its greatest audience—incalculably more even than 1949.

Total direct attendance may fall off slightly, but even that depends both on economic conditions and the closeness of the pennant races.

Winter came back with snow and rain in most big league cities at the weekend, but high hopes were held for sunshine.

It is the National League that claims the honor of presenting big league baseball for three quarters of a century. It was organized Feb. 2, 1876. The American League came into being in 1900.

Opening Games

President Truman will preside at the usual ceremonies in Washington. The full list of opening games:

American League

Philadelphia at Washington.
St. Louis at Chicago.
Detroit at Celevland.
New York at Boston.

National League

Boston at New York.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia.
Chicago at Cincinnati.
Pittsburgh at St. Louis (night).

This will be the first time any major league team has ever played a night game to open the season. In all, 409 night games have been scheduled in both leagues, a new high. Last year there were 384, and in 1940 only 81.

Defending Champs

The New York Yankees are defending their American League and world championship, and the Brooklyn Dodgers are defnding their National League pennant.

Few expect the unprecedented hysteria of 1949 will be repeated when both league races were determined in the final games of the season, but tight contests are expected.

In the National League the young Brooklyn team is a 6-5 betting favorite to repeat. The odds against the St. Louis Cardinals are 3-1, against the Boston Braves 4-1, The Philadelphia Phillies 8-1, and the New York Giants 12-1. The others are not taken seriously.

Manager Is Pleased With Legion Team

New Uniforms Have Been Ordered by Team's Sponsor

The Junior American Legion Post 16 baseball team under the managership of Homer Earhart, worked out Saturday afternoon at Liberty Park with an Inter-squad game, between the "A" and "B" squads. Earhart said he was very pleased with the teams' showing as a whole, but some flaws are still to be worked out.

In the outfield, Don Broaddus seems to be the only player to have a berth clinched. Broaddus played a good game at first base last year, but wanted to change to the outfield this season. Floyd Burton, a long ball hitter, Jim Fall and Bill Dey, two lefties, round out the outfielders, but they have not assured themselves regular spots.

The infield has two hold overs from last year's state tournament club in Bob Shawver and Bill Morgan. Shawver is going to play shortstop and Morgan is moving from third to first. Bob Bartlett is holding the "hot corner" down at the present time and Don Percival is handling the keystone sack. All four of these boys are hitting the ball with regularity and with distance.

Top Catcher

Big John Cochran is the first string catcher without doubt. He is ably backed by Junior Pirtle. Cochran seems to have what it takes to be one of the best catchers ever put out by the local legion team in a number of years.

Ralph Schulz and Dave Johnson are the two returning pitchers. Pitchers who will probably see their first year of Legion ball are Jack Barnes, Virgil Rodgers, Jack Kays and Bill Arnold, Jr. Arnold was used for utility last year, but didn't take up the twirlers game until this year. Schulz should be the standout on the staff this year, but the other boys have shown signs that they too, would be in there battling for starting assignments.

Although the boys mentioned above have the inisde tract for starting positions none have been assured, and the boys will have to hustle all year to stay in the "charmer nine".

New suits have been ordered by the sponsor of the team, the W. A Smith Motors, Inc.

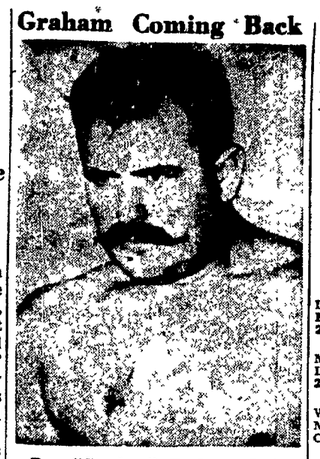
Graham Coming Back



Roy "Cowboy" Graham, Dallas, Texas, is coming back to Sedalia to make the blood of the local fans boil into a rage. Graham is one wrestler who the fans like to see and yet they despise as a wrestler. He meets Mayes McLain of Lawrence, Kansas, in the semi-windup event on the regular Wednesday night wrestling card.

B-J Chiefs Play Inter Game Today

Approximately 50 Games are Slated For the Home Team

An inter-baseball game between squads of the Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs will be played this afternoon at 1:00 o'clock at the Liberty Park baseball diamond After the game, the first string players will be chosen by the manager and coaches.

Undoubtedly, the pitching staff for the chiefs this year will be Joe Imhauser, Bobby Brown, Jim Egbert and Bob Ray. G. O. "Dutch" Hawley will manage the team, and Cal Rodgers and Rudy Bus, will be team coaches. Walter W. Jessee is vice-president of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League.

Game Schedule

The Sedalia Chiefs will play approximately 50 games this season, with 30 of them being league games. Out of the 50 games, approximately 35 games will be played at home. The team will open the season Sunday, April 29 at Eldon. The official league opener for the Chiefs will be on Sunday night, May 7 at Liberty Park, against the Boonville Lions.

About 35 boys between the ages of 17-21 have been showing up for baseball practice sessions. Some of the players heve come to Sedalia to workout, from La-Monte, Windsor, Knob Noster, Warrensburg, Hughesville, Houstonia, Cole Camp and Warsaw.

Young baseball players, not yet on a team, are invited to turnout for a tryout this afternoon.

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—A new name rocketed into the Kentucky Derby picture today when Hal Price Headley's Lotowhite zoomed to a four and one-half length victory in the $27,750 Experimental Free Handicap No. 2 at Jamaica.

Hill Prince, the 1 to 2 favorite of a stunned crowd of 41,068, never got into the act and wound up an inglorius ninth in the field of 11 three-year-olds. Eddie Arcaro said Hill Prince hit the rail leaving the backstretch and was knocked clear off stride.

It was a field day for the long shot players, as J. M. Seider's Royal Castle took second money, a length and a half ahead of F. N Phelps' California Invader, Sturdy One. Mrs. Andy Schuttinger's Ferd was fourth, another length and a half away.

Lotowhite, an 18 to one shot, never won a race in 13 starts as a two-year-old. This was his sixth race as a sophomore, and only his second victory. Royal Castle, a non-Derby eligible, was 47 to 1, and Sturdy One was 27-1.

Opening Event
Walter Sirois vs Ellis Bashara
Montreal, Canada Houston, Tex.
One fall with a 30-minute time limit.

Place: National Guard Armory.
Time: 8:30 P. M. Wednesday.
Referee: Jack Hader, Kansas City.

Sonny Meyers, St. Joseph, Mo., gets his wish Wednesday night when he enters the wrestling ring of Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, at the National Guard Armory. He will meet Lee Henning, Buffalo, N. Y., in the main event who has been the terror of the midwest for the past several months. The opening match starts at 8:30 o'clock.

Meyers a well known mat man of this area has been "itching" for a chance at Henning for sometime in the Sedalia ring. Meyers having won last week and Henning the victor in his match brought the two together for this week. Meyers has developed into one of the best heavyweights of the midwest and Henning is considered one of the toughest to invade the midwest. It will be interesting to watch the two when they meet.

Villian is Coming

Coming back to Sedalia for the semi-windup match is one of the most hated of the villian group, Roy "Cowboy" Graham of Dallas, Texas. Graham is slated against Mayes McLain, Lawrence, Kas., in a two-fall event. Graham who wrestling fan boil with rage indicated he wanted to come back to Sedalia—providing the fans left him alone. This is almost a doubtful wish as the fans, first don't like Graham's tactics and second, he is one they love to "ride".

McLain a new comer to the local ring will be a good competitor for the Cowboy from Texas.

Opening Event

Opening the event of wrestling entertainment will be a match between Ellis Bashara of Houston, Tex. and Walter Sirois, Montreal, Canada. Sirois the man who has been having a string of bad luck following him is hopeful he will be like the "unlucky card player" his "luck" is changing. Sirois is a hard worker in the ring and his match with Bashara should be a real entertainer.

Back to Graham, the cowboy who has been in other territories the past several months claims to be in better condition than ever. He will endeavor to make short work of his opponent with the hope of getting a shot at the ever winning Henning.

Impressive Score For Aggies Over Wildcats

MANHATTAN, Kas., April 15—(AP)—Oklahoma A. and M. pounded five Kansas State pitchers all over the park today to defeat the Wildcats 21 to 2 in a non-conference baseball tilt.

The Aggies got 22 hits, featured by a nine run third inning.

Bob Bartlett and John Tabor led the hitting spree for the Aggies, Bartlett got five hits including one home run, and Tabor got four blows, including two home runs.

The Aggies defeated K-State 3 to 0 here yesterday.

Fonda on With Play After His Wife Ends Life

Socialite's Body Is Cremated After A Simple Service

BEACON, N.Y., April 15—(AP)—Actor Henry Fonda's socially-prominent wife, being treated for a nervous disorder, killed herself Friday by slashing her throat with a razor blade.

She had been in a sanitorium more than two months.

She was Mrs. Frances Seymour Brokaw Fonda, 42, descendant of revolutionary war pioneers. Her first husband, a financier, left an estate of millions.

Fonda, who had been living apart from his attractive wife, hurried here after her suicide. After a simple funeral service the body was cremated.

The actor then returned to New York and went on stage as usual in the lead role of the hit show "Mr. Roberts" at the Alvin theater on West 52nd street.

His 863rd performance of the role was up to his usual standard.

Ushers, noting that few of the audience asked them any questions about Mrs. Fonda's death, judged that a majority of the playgoers were not aware of the tragedy.

An understudy, Marsahll Jamison, was rehearshing to replace Fonda when the actor arrived at the theater. Fonda has not missed a performance during more than two years the show has been playing.

Fonda himself would not see newsmen.

His press agent, Leo Friedman, quoted him as saying:

"It's awfully hard to say how I feel."

Mrs. Fonda had been at Craig House corporation sanitorium since she suffered a nervous breakdown Feb. 3. She was reported improving, however, and had the freedom of the grounds.

Leaves Three Children

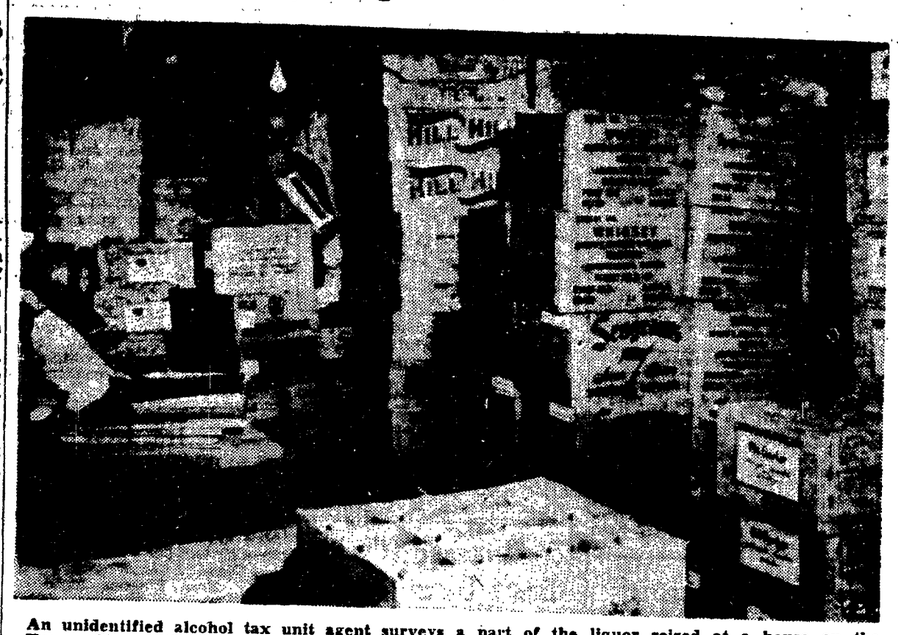
Tax Agent Surveys Liquor Cache



An unidentified alcohol tax unit agent surveys a part of the liquor seized at a house on the Kansas City northside where Charles Carollo, ex-convict and one-time political leader, was arrested with three other men on charges of trafficking in untaxed liquor. Agents said the liquor was intended for transshipment into dry kiahoma. This scene is basement of raided house. (AP PHOTO)

The agents confiscated 1,053 cases of liquor which they said was valued at between $45,000 and $50,000. (Associated Press Photo)

Mary Martin, With South Pacific, A Wonderful Girl

By Mark Barron

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—Miss Mary Martin, a lady with a cute bang on her curly head, is a happy person. She is a top flight performer, can sing like a canary bubbling with honey and she continues to break Broadway records.

Miss Martin recently has been taking a week's vacation from her high-faluting show, as she would say in her native Weatherford, Texas, drawl in "South Pacific," a show which has been around here for some time. It is a tuneful musical which continues to be a top Broadway hit. And has just reopened after a short vacation.

There are some box office statistics which should be encountered before one meets the luscious Miss Martin. The advance sales of "South Pacific" already are beyond the $800,000 bracket.

As of today more than 800,000 persons have seen this musical, the weekly gross passing $50,600 and a grand total of nearly $3,000,000 already is in the cash tills for any of the boys who might need a spare buck for lunch.

Have Seen Auditions

Among those who have seen "South Pacific" auditions to hear any of the Hollywood offers. Miss Martin has a human, heartwarming quality, one where Katharine Cornell once came backstage and asked if she could borrow Miss Martin's make-up kit "because she had been crying and the tears have destroyed my make-up."

Met Drama Star

"Sure, missy," Miss Martin said to Miss Cornell. A musical show star thus met a serious drama star.

Other than "South Pacific" Miss Martin has been singing such songs of her own as "Glad to Be Unhappy" and "Maybe" and "It's a Lovely Day Tomorrow." Also, she says, she has a new recipe for barbecue sauce. But, you will have to ask Mary Martin in person for that. And she is the kind of home girl who will cook it for you. That's Mary Martin.

Mary Martin are Vice-President and Mrs. Alben W. Barkley, Margaret Truman, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, General Eisenhower, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the Shah of Persia, General Romolu and Governor Dewey.

"Since Dec. 5," so the confidential report from Broadway reads, "the Damon Runyon cancer fund has sold 2,379 'South Pacific' tickets at a gross of $65,161.73 and a net profit to the fund of $55,398.53. The procedure followed was to sell the seats at $6 for an evening performance and $3.60 or $4.20 at matinees, plus a substantial contribution volunteered by the would be purchasers."

Good and Pretty Head

Miss Martin, a lady with a good and pretty head on her shoulders, refused to go back to the movies after her success in "South Pacific."

She said: "My contract in the theater doesn't expire until June, 1951 and I shall be playing Nellie in Forty-Fourth street right here until then. After that, I cannot tell. In England, I have many friends. Also in Texas."

So she has remained on the stage playing "South Pacific" and affirms that she will not accept

Missouri Pacific Shop Notes

Mr. and Mrs. John Rush left Thursday for Little Falls, Mass., where they were called on account of the death of Mrs. Rush's father who died suddenly. Mr. Rush is a carman.

Walter Pummill, carman apprentice, was a visitor in Kansas City Thursday where he accompanied his sister who entered a hospital there for medical attention.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dixon and son, Raymond, of San Diego, spent a few days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. August Walker. Mr. Dixon who is in the U.S. Navy, was enroute with his family to Baltimore, Md., where he is stationed.

M. H. Shelby, power plant engineer, who recently retired from service was presented with a gift Friday during the noon hour by his fellow shop mates. The gift was a rod and reel, fishing tackle, and complete fishing accessories. The presentation was made by J. H. Parsley power plant engineer. Mr. Shelby began to work for the Missouri Pacific March 1, 1928, and has worked in the power plant continuously since.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lutgen spent the week-end visiting their son and family in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hayden and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Edwards, of Carrolton, Mo., spent a few days last week visiting and sightseeing in Nashville, Tenn. While there they attended the Grand Old Opera. Mr. Hayden is a switchman for the Missouri Pacific.

A number of men have been called back to work at the shops during the past week and indications for a big program of work at the shop seem to be bright.

Word has been received in Sedalia by friends that Royal Harrison a former electrician at the shops had suffered a stroke at his home in Etawanda, Calif., and is in a serious condition.

W. R. Sugg, mechanical superintendent for the Missouri Pacific, with headquarters in St. Louis, was a business visitor at the shops the past week.

Mrs. Charles R. Dunlap of San Diego, Calif., arrived in Sedalia the past week to spend a vacation visiting her son, William Dunlap, boiler maker, and other relatives and friends in Sedalia. Mrs. Dunlap is a former resident of Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mopps, left Tuesday for St. Louis, where Mrs. Mopps will enter the Missouri Pacific hospital for medical attention. Mr. Mopps is a pipefitter.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Humes and son were visitors in Kansas City last Sunday where they attended the Ice Capades. Mr. Humes is a carman.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Young and daughter, Patty, and son, Sammie, of St. Louis are spending a two weeks vacation visiting in Sedalia. Mr. Young was formerly welding supervisor at the local shops but is now employed with the Missouri Pacific in St. Louis.

Plan for Small Church Needs

An area vacation and church school conference sponsored by the religious education forces of the co-operating denominations and the state council of churches will be held at the First Methodist church on April 27.

This institution is one of a series of 35 institutes to be held over the tate for the purpose of providing the resources and leadership to aid those who attend to become better teachers both in the church school and vacation Bible school.

The program is planned to meet the needs of the small church as well as the large church. This will be done in the presentation of material and in discussion.

The conference is open to Vacation Bible school leaders and teachers and church school administration leaders and teachers, ministers, superintendents and parents.

The teacher-leader for this area is Walter Baumgarten, assiisted by Mrs. Karl Baur, of Kansas City, Mr. H. A. Murphy, Mrs. Mabel Frazer of St. Louis, and Miss Martha Miller, of Mexico.

Mrs. Howard W. Edwards, of Sedalia, is local chairman.

Farmer Killed in a Fall Off Truck

STRAFFORD, Mo., April 15—(AP)—J. W. Ritterbach, 70-year-old farmer, was killed Friday when he fell from a truck at his farm home one and one-half miles east of here.

Greene county coroner Randolph Neale said Ritterbach suffered a broken neck and head injuries.

The coroner said the farmer and a hired hand were working on the truck bed when Ritterbach fell.

Ransacked Home Of James Grady

The police received a report late Friday night from James Grady, of 2704 South Ohio, avenue, that his home had been ransacked sometime between 6:30 and 10:30 o'clock that night.

Grady said a portable radio, a Luger pistol, a box of .22 calibre cartridges and a glass bank full of pennies were missing.

Police officers Cecil Smith and Bob Knox were sent to the residence and according to the police reports, the entrance was gain through an outside basement door.

The police are conducting an investigation.

Truman Appear In Sixteen States

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—President Truman will mix brief train appearances in 16 states with four or five sets speeches on his election year western trip starting May 7.

The White House made public part of the itinerary Friday and said it is still subject to change.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman had accepted an invitation to speak at Madison, Wis., on the way back the afternoon of May 14.

He also confirmed speeches at dedication ceremonies at Kortes dam, Wyo., May 9, Grand Coulee Dam, Wash., May 11, and at a big Democratic jubilee in Chicago May 15.

Tentative consideration has been given for a speech at Fargo, N. D., May 13. There were reports that Mr. Truman also would make an address in one of the Minnesota twin cities, St. Paul or Minneapolis, but the present schedule would have to be rearranged for that because as now drawn his train is due there at 4 a. m. May 14.

The brief stops which the President made popular on his preelection trip in 1948 were not announced in detail.

Didn't Care What Selling; Didn't Want Any

TRENTON, Mo., April 15—(AP)—Census taker Kenneth Miller met with sales resistance when he called at a home here.

He identified himself when the housewife answered his knock, saying: "I'm the census taker."

"I don't care what you're selling" she replied. "I don't want any.

Approximately 100,000,000,000 pounds of milk are produced for sale every year in the United States.

Is Found Dead in His One Room Home

RICHMOND, Mo., April 15—(AP)—Charles F. Wallin, 75, was found dead Friday in his one room home east of Elkhorn, Mo.

Neighbors found the body when they went to investigate why they had not seen him since Tuesday. Dr. John Baber, county coroner, said the man died of natural causes.

Dr. Baber said the man was survived by a sister, Mrs. Augusta Herry of Topeka, Kas.

Suspend Jail Term In Truancy Case

GALLATIN, Mo, April 15—(AP)—A father received a suspended 30-day jail sentence for the truancy of his 15-year-old son

The conviction was followed by a warning from E. C. McNitt, county superintendent of schools, who said "most people do not realize there is a compulsory attendance law with 'teeth' in it."

Magistrate O. O. Mettle passed the sentence upon Herman Rowland, had missed 31½ days in 100 days or school. The son is a student in the seventh grade.

McNitt said the little-used law had been invoked several times in the county. He said the state law calls for attendance in school of all children between the ages of seven and 16, unless they finish the eighth grade after they are 14 and before they are 16.

Released Under Bond

Red Cross Corner

From Mrs. Arthur M Hotfman, chairman of the Staff Aides, we learn that Mrs E B McNeill prepared and mailed 500 Red Cross News Sheets this week Always interesting, this current edition of one of the outstanding ARC publications is unusually interesting, and provocative. For example, here is one story: Bad Esslinger, Germany. Soldiers on foreign duty are notoriously poor correspondents Distance, work, and the attractions of strange sights all conspire to kep them from writing home as often as they should As a result, chaplains, Commanding officers, and Red Cross field directors receive many letters form worried parents asking them to look into sonny's neglect . . . . One such recent request took a Red Cross man to a small unit in northern Germany. When he arrived, he found the group's commanding officer giving his men a lecture on the importance of maintaining home ties . . . 'It takes only a few minutes to write a letter,' the CO was saying, 'and it keeps your folks from worrying You owe them that much, at least' Then he turned to the field director. 'I have a man here who seldom writes to his mother. She just contacted me to learn if he's in trouble—she's worried sick. So I've been sounding off on writing home.' . . . . The CO paused. 'Did you want to see me?' he asked . . . Yep,' said the Field Director. 'I have a letter here from our chapter in Phoenix.' 'That's my home town' said the CO . . . 'I know', replied the Red Cross man, 'It seems that your mother . . . '

Our campaign solicitors are continuing to bring thir reports into Headquarters office, 410 1/2 South Ohio. Territories are being reworked, and persons contacted who have been missed. Every effort is being made to get to every citizen of Sedalia and the county. As has been said before, many times in this column, Red Cross is like insurance. You contribute in your good times, and when the bad times come, the Red Cross gives it back to you, with compound interest. You give money When you need it, you get material help, consultation, ready solutions to your problems, in other words, "a way out". So, if you have not already made your contribution to the 1950 Red Cross campaign fund, we suggest that you do so now. You'll never regret it.

Miss Margaret Egan, Chairman of Junior Red Cross, announces that a shipment of 18 Junior Red Cross gift boxes was made this week. These boxes contain needed articles such as pencils, pads, soap, wash clothes, tooth brushes, together with a small toy or two. This is the second shipment of gift boxes, the previous one consisting of 109 boxes. From now on, our Chapter is going to put greater emphasis on JRC We have interesting plans in the making for our Juniors, and much thought is being given to the selection of 'natural leaders' in High School who will be capable of taking on a real responsibility in this most important youth work.

Interest in First Aid continues with new classes in the making, and plans for the Water Safety courses which will take shape when the swimming season begins Parents can send their children to the new swimming pools with the assurance that adequate protection will always be at hand.

A peaked leather-soled shoe called the Cracowe was considered the heighth of fashion during the Middle Ages. Its point was so long that a chain tied around the knee held up the toe.

Wins $$$ For Voice

Marthe Errolle (above), 31, opera, concert and night club singer, has won a suit in New York for $40,000 because she allegedly has been unable to sing since her husband's death in an automobile accident. She sued Joseph A. Kelly, 30, a chemical firm executive, for $150,000, but accepted the smaller settlement. Kelly was driving the car in which the singer's husband was riding. (AP Wirephoto)

Crossroads Comment

by G. H. S.

Is it too fantastic to suppose a nation-wide, well organized gambling and crime syndicate might control by narrow margin results of a national election—the same as units of the same syndicate pull strings in some state and city elections?

Current public anxiety over the domineering, devil-may-care attitude of organized criminals in Kansas City and other metropolitan areas, brings into focus a suspicion long held in minds of many that the success or failure of political parties in a national election might depend upon the nod of a crime czar.

Since the Binaggio-Gargotta slayings, public attention throughout the nation is being called to the powerful crime syndicate whose tentacles stretch into every state. At the top are not hoodlums but shrewd business men. To them crime is a billion dollar profession they direct. Underlings are the hatchet men.

What simple technique for such a syndicate with its far flung organization to promote propaganda for months in behalf of one party candidate to win by landslide proportions. Then, lop-sided betting odds thus established, direct and swing votes in strategic national areas, to upset the balance against the favorite, and collect millions of dollars from the losers. It has happened in horse-racing, dog-racing, yes even in big-time athletic events in the past. Why not in national, state and local elections?

Fantastic? From what the public has been reading lately—maybe not!

—O—

Suckers? The public, the taxpayers, suckers!

Why of course not. Americans are really charitable, full of the milk of human kindness, taking care of the world, the politicians, the racketeers, the gamblers, the needy.

What's wrong with two aged women on public relief back east becoming bored and taking off on a European vacation? They go broke and borrow $350 from the American embassy for passage back home. They again are broke on arrival in New York, so they go back on public relief—free eats, free housing, all that sort of thing.

And then this morning the Agriculture department adds butter and cheese surpluses to its domestic "giveaway" list. 15 million pounds of butter and 5 million pounds of cheese for relief and charity in the United States; along with potatoes, dried milk and powdered eggs. Thus the price support program continues to work.

Yes, indeed, the forgotten man is being taken care of as promised 18 years ago; although it appears in political circles today the forgotten men are the despised economic royalists—the American taxpayers.

Adequate public transportation service between Sedalia, Boonville and Columbia has been neglected for years.

Inconvenient transfer layovers at Marshall Junction has long been a discouraging factor to the traveling public.

The Fred Harvey Division of the Des Moines, Springfield and Southern Bus Lines will have a hearing before the Missouri Public Service Commission Monday, April 24 on a new route between Sedalia and Columbia. Application for the extension of the bus line from Marshall Junction over Highway 40 to Boonville and Columbia was made so direct service can be had between Sedalia and Columbia.

On the basis of the facts presently known, this is a forward step in transportation for the benefit of Sedalians, Pettis countians and people living south, east and west of Sedalia, the central take-off point.

Such direct service would be available for nearly 100 students and their parents from this area, not to mention transient and business patrons who travel between Sedalia and Columbia.

If the bus company's application is bolstered by public interest, action on it by the commission will be facilitated. For this purpose contact may be made with the agent at the Union Bus Depot in Sedalia.

The census bureau, desiring 100% count of Sedalians, missed a bet by not engaging Herb and Mary Studer, who appear to have rung more doorbells and met more householders preceding the mayoralty election than the census enumerators since that time.

—O—

One thing can be said of the enumerators; they have worked like beavers but have not been received with as much public enthusiasm as the Studers.

Principle of North Atlantic Defense Pact Not Clicking

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—With U.S.-U.S.S.R. relations getting no better as a result of the U.S.-plane-over-Latvia incident, it's important to take a look at the recent Hague conference and see how the North Atlantic Pact is working.

That pact was founded on the idea that the United States would furnish the arms, Europe the men—for the defense of Western Europe.

It wasn't given publicity at the recent Hague meeting, but that principle isn't really working. In brief, Western Europe is hanging back about supplying the men.

The French, usually considered the great reservoir of military man-power, told Hague conferees they had an army tied up in Indo-China, where Communist guerrillas are killing French officers at the rate of one-half a West Point graduating class per year. It would be political dynamite to increase the French army now, they said.

Other smaller countries also didn't want to overtax their military budgets, all of which paved the way for two important proposals:

1. Bringing Spain, together with Franco's 500,00-man army into the North Atlantic Pact.

2. Arming a West German army of 150,000 men.

Thumbs Down on Spain

Neither proposal got anywhere.

The Spanish proposal, long advocated by the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, was vigorously opposed by British Defense Minister Emmanuel Shinwell, who explained that the British Labor government had only a margin of six votes in the House of Commons, and that bringing Spain into the North Atlantic Pact would lose Premier Attlee abiut 40 votes. Political opinion in British Labor circles, he said, was adamant against Dictator Franco.

So the Spanish proposal was dropped.

NOTE—Secretary of Defense Johnson has told friends that the Truman administration is not anxious to resume full-scale relations with Franco until he gives Protestants the right of free worship. Spanish Protestants are now virtually second-class citizens, it being difficult for a Protestant to win promotion in the Spanish army or in other government posts.

No German Army

The plan for a 150,000-man German army was made by the British, who argued that such a force could not be a threat to France unless equipped with an air force. The British proposed giving the Germans land-army equipment instead.

But the French said no. A German army, they argued, would do a right-about-face, and go over to the enemy in case of Russian attack. So the idea of a German army was also dropped.

That left Western Europe still considerably shy of the armies considered necessary to hold back a Soviet attack, and with some private talk among European defense chiefs that the United States should keep an army permanently on the continent.

Pugnacious Senator

Washington's pugnacious GOP Sen. Harry Cain started to beat up a reporter half his size the other day, but changed his mind when the little fellow stood his ground.

The near-brawl was staged in Cain's office after a difference of opinion over whether the Senator was "expendable."

Time reporter Frank McNaughton had rated Cain among the eight most expendable Senators—an opinion with which most newsmen heartily agree Cain, however, did not agree, and angrily called McNaughton to his office.

"I had in mind to pull a trick on you that would just break your health," he stormed, his face livid with rage.

Lunging out of his swivel chair, the Senator started around the desk. McNaughton jumped up, prepared to defend himself.

"If you've got any tricks up your sleeve, you go ahead and pull them," challenged the mild-mannered little reporter.

But Cain changed his mind, ordered McNaughton out of his office instead, then proceeded to air his wounded vanity on the Senate floor, where he told amused colleagues it wasn't true that he was one of the Senate's most expendable members. The more he talked, however, the more the Washington Senator convinced his listeners the opposite.

Snarling defiance, Cain roared up at McNaughton in the press gallery, calling him "smug, arrogant, self-centered, vain and frustrated."

Exactly the reverse happens to be true. McNaughton is an able, modest, sincere newsman.

Then Cain sank to a new low in statesmanship. Lashing out from behind his congressional immunity, Cain called McNaughton a "4-F in war and a 4-F in peace."

"McNaughton has undoubtedly encouraged other men to die, but he has never stood on the sidelines and watched them die," harangued Cain.

"I lost even what had been my desire to laugh in the face of this pigmy," he sneered. "I did not even want to bat him around physically because that would have been like punching a bag of mush."

Merry-Go-Round

Perle Mesta, madame minister to Luxembourg, is back in town after only six months overseas—officially for consultation with Secretary Acheson. Real reason, however, is to see if she can talk President Truman out of an ambassadorship After all, Eugenie Anderson, of Red Wing, Minn., is ambassador to Denmark. . . . The joint chiefs of staff have sent Secretary Acheson a stiff memo asking that he stop the shipment of steel from Western Germany to Communist China. High Commissioner McCloy had given his O.K. to the shipment of 15,000 tons of steel rails to China from German factories, but U.S military men don't like it. Reminds them of the days when we sent oil and scrap iron to Japan. . . . The CIO is bringing 20 groups of unemployed from major U.S. cities to urge prompt government action to relieve growing unemployment. . . . The rift between southern farm and northern big-city Democrats in Congress is wider than ever since the Kerr natural gas bill was railroaded through Congress by a Republican-southern Democrat coalition.

The Strangle Hold

Music Modes

The new David O. Selznick-Alexander Korda presentation, "The Third Man," has created an unprecedented amount of excitement in music circles with its unorthodoxed musical scoring. The entire background music for the picture is built up by one lonely zither, played by the first man of the instrument, Anton Karas. The story behind all of this is very interesting and bears telling.

It all started when Carol Reed, an imaginative director with a flair for doing things in a different way, decided that his melodramatic story of post-war Vienna, "The Third Man," would be still more exciting if integrated throughout with special zither music.

To follow up this move, Reed then discovered Anton Karas, playing in a little known Austrian cafe. Karas composed and executed the special zither score for the flicker and by the time he reach London, where he was to work on the final scoring for the picture, his fame had preceded him. Karas was offered a job at the swank Express club, and Princess Margaret, hearing exciting tales about his accomplishments, couldn't wait for the official opening. She phoned to ask if she could bring a party over to the club at six o'clock instead of the regular nine-thirty premiere, and for an hour and a half she and her friends listened to repeated scores from the film.

Others Like "Zither"

Princess Margaret has been only one to have fallen under the entrancing qualities of the zither music. For example, more than 100,000 recordings of one of the zither "Third Man" numbers were sold in London within three weeks.

When the Selznick researchers began "cracking" dust covered reference books in the search for publicity material on the picture, lo and behold they find that Nero didn't play a fiddle while Rome burned . . . it was a precursor to the present zither.

The old phrase "Nero fiddled while Rome burned" will have to be changed to "Nero zithered while xxx." The instrument that Nero played was actually an early model of the zither, it was called a "cithara" The "cithara player," or to be correct, the "citharoedus" was distinguished from other Romans by a specially-designed toga Gold coins found in Roman ruins bear the likeness of Nero dressed as a "citharoedus." This evidence furthers the reports made by the picture's research men in that Nero had a "hankering" for twanging a zither.

Prototype of Modern Instruments

The zither is a prototype of all of our modern string instruments, including the guitar, violin, spinnet, clavichord and piano. The true birthplace of the zither is rather difficult to trace The Selznick zither experts report that "allusions to the a string instrument of the zither type have been found as far back as 1700 B. C." In ancient China, zithers were referred to erroneously as "lutes," and mention of them is made in an ode written about 1100 B. C. The She, or long zither, was one of the instruments played by the great Chinese poet and philosopher, Confuscious.

Confuscious didn't have anything on the famed Greek warrior, Achilles. He has often been alluded to as a singer and performer on the early zither. Since the artistic element was rather a common thing among the Greeks, it is probable that Plato and Aristotle, the great Greek teachers and philosophers, were also adept in zithering.

A Loved Instrument

In the intervening centuries that filled the gap between the pre B. C. era and about three decades past 1800, the zither became a much loved instrument in the Austrian highlands and the people of that area did much to improve on the ancient models The zither is a difficult instrument to play well because of its complicated chord formations, but the ability to play at par is a birth-gift to most of the Austrian highland peasants and defenitely satisfies their musical needs.

The present version was introduced into Great Britain about the middle of the 19th century. With the immigration into this country in the following years, zithers came along. The zithers became a rage in this country for some time, especially around the turn of the century. The vogue died out because the trouble of tuning the instrument is simply too much for an amateur.

The acceptance of this plectrum deal, which incidentally lies on a table or a stand, by the more progressive musicians is slightly of a different hue. The pop musicians trade journal, Metronome, often called the "Boppers Bible," has added a word to its record rating chart. For those not familiar with this publication we offer this explanation.

The magazine has a record review in its exterior. The chart reads A, artistically extraordinary, A- excellent, B+ very good and so forth. Near the bottom of the chart, it reads, D, terrible, and alas, Z, zither.

Good Actors

Oh yes, we almost forgot to mention, the picture has actors. Joseph Cotton, Valli, Orson Wells and Trevor Howard. There is a plot too and the entire spectacle can be witnessed and heard at the Fox Theater starting on April 23rd.

Joe Ruddick, Fox manager, has been running the background music of the picture, "The Third Man Theme" and "The Cafe Mozart Waltz" in the intermission periods.

"It's haunting," says Ruddick, speaking of the music; "and the people are simply going crazy about it."

BACK TO NORMAL WITH THE HELP OF GOD

You perhaps are tempted to look to your surroundings, or to others—to everything except to yourself and God—as the way out. Don't—there is no other way out. Listen to the doctor's story of this once-desperate soul. Mrs. ———, 25 years old, was suffering from arthritis. She had gone from place to place in the United States seeking health, and had no faith in doctors as she had consulted over 50. She was in a hopeless state of mind and was filled with fears: afraid of getting well; afraid of losing her home; afraid of losing her husband's love; afraid of never being able to walk again. She was convinced that life was a "total loss," and was filled with a definite sense of guilt. Many times nurses would come out of her room in tears because they could not do anything right—she was so hard to please.

Her first step toward God was to trust Him with some of her simple fears. She began to co-operate, so that nurses no longer dreaded taking care of her. Then she began to walk. Suddenly she developed all the symptoms of a gastric ulcer when a malicious friend wrote telling her that her husband was unfaithful. She surrendered this sorrow to God and the symptoms of the ulcer left. Then her husband came and the matter was straightened out. Twice she had a return of pain—once when she lost her temper with her father-in-law; but after she had straightened out the difficulty with him, her pain left.

The patient confesses that two years prior to the arthritis she had been running away from life because of an affectional conflict, and that during the two years when her husband was studying she had been living a double life, staying out late at night, drinking in order not to think, and smoking incessantly. She saw that her way of life was what had broken down her health and had given her arthritis—that the cause of her ill-health was not physical but spiritual. She concludes, "I'm back to normal with the help of God." Sin is the abnormal; it is a trying to live against life, and that cannot be done.

O my Father and my God, I face, as this woman did, the tangled strands of life—tangled by my own sins and follies. Here and now I promise Thee that no stone will be left unturned, no pledge unfulfilled until I am free in Thee. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Dropsy in the Inner Ear May Cause Slow Loss of Hearing

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service.

Ringing, buzzing, swishing, pounding, hissing or other kinds of noises in the ears cause an enormous amount of discomfort and anxiety. Most people say that they would be willing to do almost anything to get rid of these noises. They are often associated with spells of dizziness; sometimes people actually fall and injure themselves when attacked by such a dizzy spell.

The sounds complained of are not heard by other people and yet they are not imaginary. Most often they come from something deep in the ear or hearing mechanism itself. Several of these are grouped under the name Meniere's syndrome. This condition, in addition to causing the ear noises and causing attacks of dizziness, is usually accompanied by a slow but gradually worsening loss of hearing.

In one of the most important forms of this condition the cause is believed to be a dropsy in the deep portion of the ear called the inner ear, or labyrinth. This dropsical condition, accumulation of fluid—does not often develop in young people, but from the age of 45 on is increasingly common. Why it should come at all is not known.

One or both ears may be involved. The attacks of dizziness usually bother patients more than the ringing in the ears or loss of hearing. In many cases the attacks of dizziness becomes less and less frequent and severe after the first few years.

Some patients who drink a lot of fluids find that an attack comes on a few hours afterwards—probably because of the increased accumulation of fluid in the labyrinth. This has given a clue leading to the use of some forms of treatment aimed at cutting down the intake of fluids or removing excess fluids from the body.

Surgery Used

Several medical treatments have been tried. Surgery is also employed with success in some cases and not in others. Surgical treatment is liable to bring some but not complete relief.

Unless people fall as a result of dizziness and hurt themselves Meniere's syndrome is more annoying and uncomfortable than it is dangerous. This form of dizziness does not interfere with activities or bodily functions except those related to balance and hearing.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

• Q's and A's

Q—How did the expression "not dry behind the ears" originate?

A—The expression is said to have originated among the Dutch of early Pennsylvania. Noticing that animals just born are promptly licked dry everywhere but behind the ears, the Dutch coined the phrase to designate a mere youngster.

Q—Is immigration to Australia on the increase?

A—Australia reports receiving more immigrants in 1949 than Canada, South Africa and New Zealand together—76,000 having come in the first six months alone.

Q—Who was the oldest signer of the Declaration of Independence?

A—When the signatures were affixed Benjamin Franklin was the oldest signer; the next oldest was Stephen Hopkins.

Q—Is "burning off" injurious to the forest range?

A—In certain pine types of the southern coastal plains and in certain sagebrush areas in the west, prescribed burning may be helpful. Uncontrolled or promiscuous use of fire on the range results in great damage to both soil and forage.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

George C. Whitney, former young Sedalian, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Whitney, of South Vermont avenue, has been made soliciting freight agent for the Queen and Crescent line with headquarters at Dallas. He had been with the traffic claims department of the M. K. & T. railway.

The Central Missouri Fox and Wolf Hunters association held a meeting Saturday and decided to hold the annual hunt at Elk Lick, nineteen miles northeast of Sedalia, the same location as it was held in 1909. It will be the week starting Monday, May 23.

Next Wednesday evening the Rev. J. D. Prigmore is to be installed as pastor of the Central Presbyterian church. The Rev. D. M. Clagett, moderator of the presbytery, will be in charge.

Four Yanks in Mexico Try Hand at Bullfighting

MASTER OF THE BULL, shouted the crowd in Mexico City when Wally Minard finished his stint in the bull ring. But first came three weeks of practice like this, with only a set of horns and an eager helper.

MASTER OF THE MULETA, or small cape, is Lester Findlay as he follows through with a traditional pass in the best matador style. Findlay was thrown and mauled by the animal and announced afterwards, "I've retired."

By John Cobb, Jr.
NEA Special Correspondent

MEXICO CITY, Mexico —Four American college boys studying here traded their textbooks for the cape and sword of the bullfighter. When the bullfight was over, the inexperienced Americans were still alive, to the surprise of the crowd.

For three weeks before the bullfight the four Mexico City College students, all veterans of World War II, practiced the traditional passes and learned other tricks of the bullfighting trade from Joselito Gonzalez, a novillero or bullfighter who has not attained professional status.

All their practicing was done with only a set of horns, since arrangements to practice their passes with a genuine bull fell thru. The Americans therefore faced an untamed bull for the first time when they entered the bullring before 1000 somewhat cynical spectators. The only concession made to beginners was to round off about a half-inch of the sharp horns of the 550-pound bulls

John "Wally" Minard, a 26-year-old infantry veteran from Chicago had drawn the lot for the first bull. A kicking, snorting, jet black young bull came charging out of its dark cell into the light of the ring, tossing its head and looking for trouble.

The crowd gasped a little The Chicago veteran cooly made a few passes with his cape as the bull's horns whisked by. There were approving yells of "Ole!" from the grandstand.

During the first part of any bullfight, assistants always go in with capes to help wear the bull down before the kill. The bull knocked down one of Minard's Mexican assistants. When Minard tried to get the bull off, he was thrown to the ground and the bull began to maul him. It was probably only the blunted horns that saved him from serious injury.

The bull was drawn off and Minard got up with a little blood on his cheek and continued the traditional passes. Finally, he lunged and thrust the curved blade of the sword into the small area between the shoulder blades where it must go to enter the heart. In a moment the bull dropped dead—a perfect kill. The crowd began to cheer.

As Minard's bull dropped, the spectators began to wave their handkerchiefs and chant "torrero" — "master of the bull." They would not stop until the American boy was awarded two ears and a tail, the highest reward a matador can get.

Bob Blanchard, a 23-year-old Marine veteran from Cleveland, faced the second bull. Veteran bullfight fans agreed that Blanchard had the best form of the four He was the only one who was not thrown by his bull. The horns came close, but never touched him.

The third bull was for Lester Findlay, 34, of La Verne, Calif., He faced his bull smiling and made several traditional passes and many unorthodox passes which amused the crowd, but he was thrown and mauled before it was over. Asked about bullfighting afterward, he rubbed a hip and said, "I've retired."

Last in the ring was Wayne "Duffy" Rogers, Air Force veteran from Mundelein, Ill., near Chicago. The biggest of the four Mexico City college students got the smallest bull. He made some of the best muleta (small cape) passes of the afternoon. Once when the bull hit him instead of the cape, Rogers clamped his arm over the bull's head and kept from falling.

Each of the last two boys "cut an ear" as the Mexican sportswriters say of the awarding of one ear to the matador Blanchard cut two ears for his performance, despite the fact that his bull was not quite as spirited as the first one.

Minard didn't seem so excited about bullfighting afterward And wiping some blood off his cheek he mused, "I don't think there's much future in it"

One Man's International Family

Pictures and Text
By Fred ZAVATTERO
NEA Staff Correspondent

SEATTLE, Wash — (NEA) — A couple of years ago when Capt. Wilfred G. Logan was in the U.S. Army of Occupation in Korea, he heard a Korean schoolboy plead for a chance to study in the U.S. so he could return to Korea with American know-how.

Today that schoolboy, Sangho Back, is getting his chance as a partner in the Logan family's "backyard internationalism." He's a student in a Seattle high school under the sponsorship of ex-Capt. Logan, whose household includes two little Japanese girls in addition to his own two children.

After nine months in an American school, Sangho is an honor student and is helping pay for his room and board with money he earns after school. And as a junior member of the international Logans, he takes part in the family activities. All his problems—and there are many—are solved during joint conferences in the living room.

Gradually Sangho is being conditioned to a few basic American customs, such as the courtesy shown to women. In Korea, women are seldom permitted to speak unless spoken to, and not often then, Sangho is no longer demoralized when Mrs. Logan suggests that he try not to slam the door.

The Logans' experiment in international relations has required sacrifice and effort. Logan studies at the University of Washington under the G.I. bill of rights during the day, and works full time at nights to earn money to support his family. Sangho's contribution to the family budget scarcely covers his own expenses.

The Japanese girls, two-year-old Sally and six-year-old Judy, are the daughters of a railway employe whose wife is a patient in a tuberculosis sanitarium. Unable to care for his children while the mother receives treatment in a hospital, the father sought the aid of the county welfare department.

The Logans were given the Japanese children, on a foster-parent basis, after a careful investigation by the welfare department.

Almost the same age as the two Logan children, the little Japanese girls have been accepted as members of the family. Mrs. Logan is "mommy" to Sally and "Aunty Thelma" to the older girl.

At the end of their first year as backyard internationalists, the Logans consider themselves investors. They feel Sangho will return to his home in Korea with a sound working knowledge of democracy. "All he wanted was a chance," they explain, "and we could give him that."

As for the Japanese girls, "All they need is a chance, too. If we help them now, they can grow into useful members of society."

Lights Guide Fish to Safety

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Fish, like moths, are attracted by light. Taking advantage of this weakness, Henry R. Burkey has invented a lighting system to prevent newly hatched river fish from commiting suicide by entering irrigation ditches or power diversion channels. Every year millions of fish, particularly fingerling salmon, are lost this way. Burkey has developed a system of moving lights which fish follow.

"We were amazed," Burkey says, "to find how powerful a lure the lights created. Not a single fish appeared immune to the lure of the glow which piloted them safely past the danger area."

ROME — (AP) — The Italian government is paying more than 1,100,000 war pensions from the Second World War and new applications are still coming at a rate of ten thousand a month. The disability payments range from a minimum of $1 a month up to a maximum of $100.

Paliament is expected to take up consideration soon of a new proposal to raise the payments on the ground that they are no longer in keeping with Italian living costs. There still are 450,000 applicants for war disability payments whose cases have not yet been settled.

Pakistan Calls India "Bharat"

KARACHI, Pakistan—(AP)—Pakistan newspapers have announced that henceforth they will call India by its new name, "Bharat." The new Indian constitution adopted "Bharat" as an alternate name to India. But "India" continues to be used in English while Indian language newspapers and books use "Bharat" or "Hindustan."

Pakistan previously has objected to India's continued use of the old name after partition. M. A. Jinnah, founder of Pakistan, preferred always to say "Hindustan," even in English. Pakistan Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan recently has referred to India as "Bharat" in his public statements.

Perfect Forest Far in Future

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP)—California foresters have been working 50 years but are still babes in the woods, Says, Prof. F. S. Baker, dean of the School of Forestry at the University of California.

That's a very short time in the life of many trees, he says. And the ideal forest is a long way off, he asserts.

In his opinion it would be one that would furnish an even quota of wood every year—forever. That means it would have enough trees to utilize its growing capacity. Only the oldest would be cut, the age classes would be distributed properly and cut areas would be reseeded so that normal growth could continue, he says.

The Sunday afternoon "Columbia LP Record Parade" will move to a new time period this week on KMBC. Each Sunday in the future, this classical-popular program will be heard at 12:30 p.m.

Another new program makes its appearance on KMBC this Sunday. "Choraliers" conducted by Eugene Lowell returns to the air this week at 1 p.m. over KMBC. Baritone Hubart Hendrie is guest soloist, and the male chorus has several outstanding selections for this first program.

Rhymaline Review at 7 p.m., followed by Do You Know, got off to a good start last Monday evening on KMBC. The first quarter-hour program features all the stars of Rhymaline Time, KMBC's 7:30 a.m. weekday feature. The second quarter-hour will present some member of the KMBC family each Monday evening. This week's guests, to be interviewed by Jim Burke, are songstress Sunny Daye, and pianist-organist Harry Jenks. Hope you'll tune in and hear all about your favorite KMBC personalities.

A special documentary program will be heard at 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon on KMBC. The program, based on the Arnold Forster book is entitled "A Measure of Freedom," and the program is being presented in cooperation with the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. Three incidental episodes make up the half-hour show.

The KMBC-KFRM Team will present a special 45-minute broadcast of the 25th annual K.U. Relays on Saturday, April 22. Sam Molen, Sports Director of The Team, will be on hand at this big track and field meet to broadcast direct from Lawrence from 5:45 p.m. until 6 o'clock. In addition to Sam's live reports, he will present tape-recorded highlight events as they are run off throughout the afternoon. He'll climax his 45-minute special program with a complete resume and results of the entire running of the 25th annual K.U. Relays.

Comedian Jack Benny, feted as the outstanding personality of the last 25 years, will be heard twice over KMBC this Sunday. In addition to his own feature program at 6 p.m., Jack will drop in on Charlie McCarthy at 7 p.m. for a guest appearance. It's the first time in several years that those two have had an official meeting, and the unusual hilarious insults should be in order.

Ken Parsons, member of The KMBC-KFRM Farm Service staff, has two weekday morning programs of particular interest to those engaged in agriculture. Ken's a graduate agronomist, and a practical farmer, and his 6:20 a.m. "Your Farm and Ours" is a program geared to a discussion of various farm problems. Ken has another regular morning feature entitled "Better Farming." He discusses soils and crops, insecticides, herbicides, fertilizer, and other tips and suggestions that are particularly adaptable to this Heart of America region. Farmers and those interested in various phases of agriculture find these programs interesting and informative.

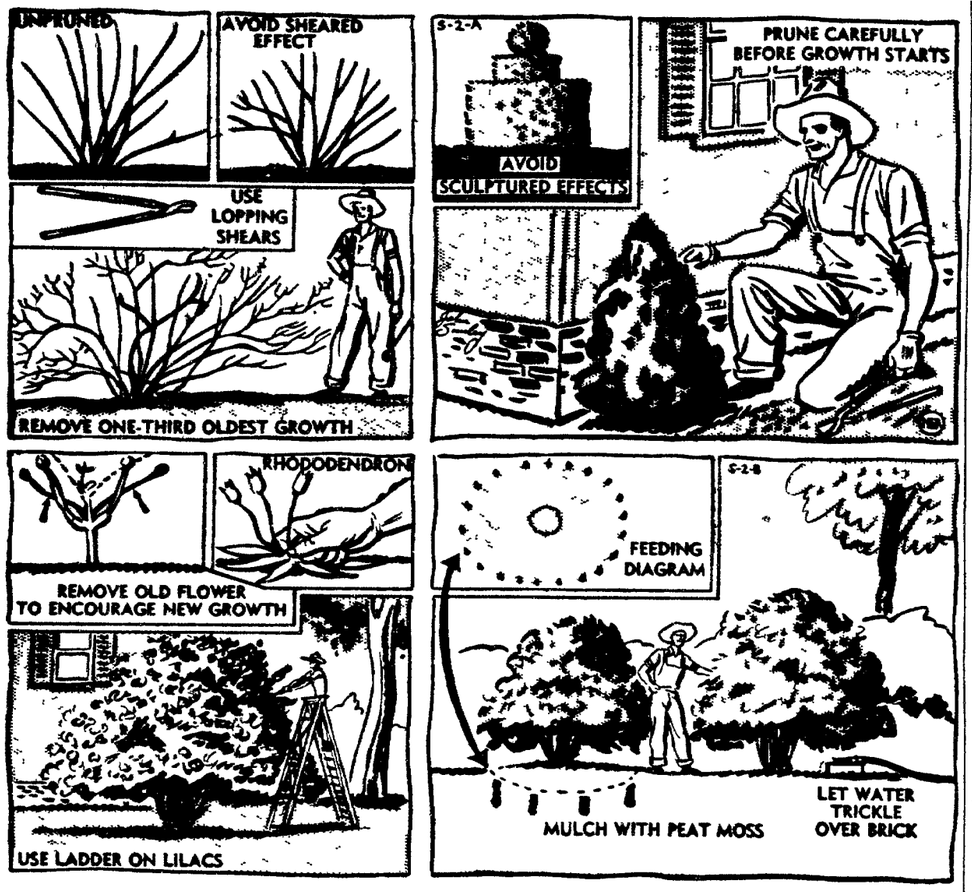
MOVIES ARE BETTER THAN EVER!

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®



Shrubbery planted about a well landscaped house and grounds usually represents quite an investment for the home-owner and like all important investments, it should be protected against damage or loss. All that adds up to giving your shrubbery proper care. Be sure to prune them properly and give them a regular diet of the correct plant food and fertilizer. Pruning is important, especially for deciduous shrubs—that is, the ones that discard flowers and leaves in the autumn These should be pruned after the flowers fade and fall In the case of such shrubs as forsythia, deutzia, spiraea, weigela and viburnum, remove about a third of the oldest growth, all dead wood and weak branches and generally shape the plant for future effect.

Evergreens probably are the most common and most popular foundation planting shrubs They give the house and grounds the decorative effect of green, growing foliage in winter, when the flower beds are brown and ugly They should be shaped up and cut back to be held in bounds. Cut the top back and shear irregularly to produce the desired shape Avoid a tortured "formal" effect by pruning before new growth starts And be sparing with the pruning shears Too-heavy a cutting may be fatal To insure a generous bloom the following year on such flowering shrubs as rhododendrons, azaleas and lilacs, remove the seed pods after the flowers fade Cut out the weak branches and dead growth If shaping is desired, prune off in generous branches while in full bloom and use these cuttings for indoor decoration Watering and feeding are important in the care of shrubs Provide a mulch of peat moss or compost over the roots to hold moisture Water while new growth is developing by slow soaking from a dripping hose Feed with a complete fertilizer as soon as flowers fade Do this by drilling a series of shallow holes, about a foot apart under the shrub, in a circle as large as that formed by the outermost branch tips Use a cup of the liquid fertilizer to each inch of trunk diameter

Heinkel Advises West

STUTTGART, Germany—(AP)—Ernst Heinkel, who built some of Nazi Germany's best war planes has this word of advice for the western powers in their aerial planning for European defense "They had better quit wasting their time and money in rival, uncoordinated experiments in military aircraft by individual countries They should centralize all their efforts under one control and develop mass production of one good model for each type of plane "Even if this plane is not quite as good as one which might be perfected by continued scattered experiments, the advantages would outweigh this disadvantage," Heinkel said. "All the Allied nations would be using the same type of plane They could shift planes where needed, use a central shockpile of spare parts And they could build a lot more planes a lot faster than with many varied models"

Tattooed Reds Captured

RANGOON—(AP)—Police in the rice-growing delta district of Myaungmya arrested four members of the Burma Communist party while they were being tattooed for "invulnerability" in anti-government battles.

The Burmese believe that the tattooing of certain parts of the body with the Burmese alphabet safeguards its yearers from injury. According to the design and color of ink used, protection is supposed to be given against wild animals and knife and bullet wounds. The custom is widely adopted by bandits.

The National Geographic Society says Americans use 125,000,000 wooden matches a day.

Loch Lomond To Have Park

LONDON—(AP) — The "bonnie bonnie banks of Loch Lomond" are to be a national park Britain's secretary of state for Scotland announced the government had bought a $12,370 acre estate which includes the mountain Ben Lomond and a 13-mile stretch of the banks of the storied lake.

In 350 B C, the famed Greek-physician Hippocrates, "Father of Medicine," used a leather-soled boot to treat club-foot.

NORTH AMERICAN GRAIN-O-VATOR

GRAIN-O-VATOR handles bulk feed at the rate of 50 bushels per minute. Fills feed bunkers and bins, grain bins and self feeders in an absolute minimum of time.

Reduces labor costs in preparing and handling feed—in many cases saves the need of a hired man.

Reduces loss of profits due to wasted feed. No spillage.

Gives better, more even gain on livestock by mixing feed thoroughly. Saves dollars on buying prepared or sacked feed.

Ask any user — some have said "saved me a hired man," "worth its cost as a feed mixer alone," "use it for something every day," "don't scoop a bit any more," "wouldn't sell it for twice what it cost."

Distant Star

BY HERMINA BLACK

Copyright 1950 by Hermina Black Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Clemency Norton is nursery governess to Baba, small daughter of Syrie and Jon Amberley, who live in the luxurious desert home of Jon's brother Piers in Algiers. Syrie shows jealousy when she sees Piers with Clemency and tells her to remain in her own part of the house. Later Clemency witnesses a quarrel between Syrie and Jon, during which it becomes obvious that Syrie despises her husband. After this irritating scene, Clemency goes for a walk and meets Piers. Her heart beats very fast indeed. After a short conversation she returns to her quarters.

XI

THOSE "attractive French officers" whom Syrie had mentioned to Clemency, had been away in the desert on maneuvers, hence the fact that very little entertaining had gone on at Red Aloes since Mrs. Jon Amberley's return. Justine explained that Madame always had a party on Thursday afternoon when her friends dropped in to tea, or something stronger. For half an hour of that time it was usual for Baba to be taken down, dressed in her prettiest clothes, and circulated among the guests.

"Now you are going to be a very good girl, darling," Clemency told her.

"I'm always a dood dirl," announced the cherub with complete conviction, "'cept when Daddy spoils me." Which adroitly shifted the burden of yesterday on to broader shoulders.

There were rather more than a dozen people in the room—half of whom were soldiers. All extremely personable—from the elderly, white - mustached senior officer, to the handsome, bronzed young captain, whose laughing dark eyes were bent very intently on his hostess as she stood in the midst of a little knot of people.

"Come along, Clemency." Baba pulled Clemency's hand, dancing forward, and at that moment Syrie turned her head.

"Hello, darling," she called. "Come along; Captain Levide has been waiting for you."

"Baba—my sweetheart! What a long time since I saw you. Come and see what Paul has brought you." The dark-eyed captain came striding forward, and, catching the child up, set her on his shoulder.

"Put her down for a minute, Paul," ordered Syrie. "Mrs. Sanderson wants to talk to her. This is my daughter, Mrs. Sanderson."

The elegant, gray-haired woman who was sitting near, bent forward, holding out her hand.

"Hello, Barbara. Come and talk to me. I knew your Daddy when he was a little boy. She's like you, Syrie—not like Jon."

"My Daddy spoils me," announced Baba, still clinging to her alibi.

"She's extraordinarily like you, Syrie," she said. "Don't you think so?" The smile she gave Clemency was unaffectedly friendly.

"Yes, I think she is—but she has her father's eyes," said Clemency.

"Join me," Mrs. Sanderson said to Clemency. "My daughter is somewhere outside—if she doesn't come in presently I will get you to go and find her." Syrie had made no attempt to introduce her, so Clemency at once repaired the casual omission. "Sit down and talk to me," Mrs. Sanderson said.

"I came back with Mrs. Amberley—Mrs. Jon, just over a fortnight ago," said Clemency, immediately liking this charming, natural, and well-bred woman.

SHE learned that Mrs. Sanderson and her son and daughter were spending the winter in North Africa.

"I have an affection for this part of the world," Blanche Sanderson said. "I haven't been here since the War—though my son, who came over with the Canadian Air Force and served in North Africa."

So she was Canadian—Clemency would not have thought it, though she did not like to make any comment.

"My husband was Canadian," Mrs. Sanderson explained. "My children are very proud of being Canadian born. I'm British—"

"Just nicely so, darling," said a girl's gay voice behind them.

"Ah, there you are, Janette. This is Miss Norton—my daughter—Lieutenant de Brion—Miss Norton."

"How do you do?" Clemency found herself shaking hands with a very pretty girl.

Almost immediately Syrie came over and joined the group.

PIERS was threading his way across the room, seeming somehow apart from this laughing, informal gathering. He paused on his way to exchange greetings with one or two of Syrie's guests; to shake hands with the white-mustached General, and kiss the hand of the General's wife.

Someone else had been instantly aware of his arrival, and had seen his glance resting long on Clemency.

Syrie said, without raising her voice: "Do you know Miss Norton, I think someone has had enough excitement."

Baba was behaving very well, but as the party was obviously over for her Clemency took the cue for exit.

"Come, sweetheart," she said. "Time to come upstairs—or we shan't be able to finish that story before bedtime."

"Run along, Barbey. You've been a good girl, and you shall come to my next party." Syrie kissed her offspring, briefly smiling into the admiring dark eyes of Paul Levide.

Baba certainly was an angel this afternoon. She said her "goodbys" very prettily. Piers had joined the group by now, and sat down beside Mrs. Sanderson, who greeted him with the affection of an old friend. She broke off in her conversation with him to kiss Baba goodby and to smile at Clemency, but Piers seemed to be equally unaware of his niece and her governess.

This was, of course, wrong. Not only had he seen her, but he was still seeing her, while he chatted and laughed with Blanche Sanderson and Janette.

A girl "like a fresh rose." . . .

Czechs Told To Like Germans

PRAGUE—(AP)—Since the establishment of the East German Republic, Communist leaders here have endeavored to soften this nation's traditional dislike of its German neighbor. The controlled press daily informs readers that "All Germans Are Not Alike."

It is a pretty tough job, however convincing a nation which for centuries been ruled first by the Austrians and then by the Germans under Hitler. But government leaders keep pegging away at the theme that life in the Russian-sponsored East German Republic is changing the character of the people living there and that the only persons Czechs must fear are the Germans living in the Western sectors.

Boost in Range, Speed and Power is Expected in the New Turboprop Engine

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Hottest item in U. S aviation today is the Navy's new turboprop, a very powerful, light, hybrid engine It uses jet 'thrust" to turn a propeller, with an extra 10 per cent power bonus from the thrust of exhaust gases

After many years of poo-poohing the idea, the Air Force is now making secret plans to install turboprops on its giant, controversial B-36 atom bomb taxi. Several experts predict that the Navy's engine may give the B-36 so much added speed that orders for the plane which is now slated to take the place of the B-36, the all-jet B-52, can be cancelled

The Navy is now putting the new engines on its huge flying boat, the XP5-Y and on a new fighter, the XA2-D Skyshark. In the civil aviation field, four of the biggest aircraft manufacturers, Boeing, Douglas, Convair and Martin, are planning to put turboprops on some models of their passenger planes

The announcement that the Navy's turboprop is sufficiently proven to be tried on commercial airlines is a great source of relief to many U S observers Up until recently, the British were believed to be way out in front in the use of turboprops on airliners But this announcement draws America very close to even. It is also claimed that the Navy engines are better than those of the British.

The Navy's 10-year battle to perfect the controversial engine now looks like it may pay off even better than its backers hoped At best, critics of the idea said, it would only be an interim development, until jets would completely out-date the propeller.

However, it is now being admitted that the turboprop might make both the piston type engine and the jet obsolete. Since the propeller uses the power of a jet engine more efficiently, the turbo prop gives the plane greater range, licking the biggest bug of pure jet planes. And it has much more power than any piston type engine ever developed

The turboprop gives a military plane more range through fuel economy, and can put a fighter, for instance, close to the 600-miles-per-hour speed of the pure jets. Its extreme light weight permits carrying more fuel

Allison Aircraft Engine Company has done most of the development work for the Navy and now has two turboprop engines—the T-38 and the more powerful T-40 which is rated at over 5000 horsepower Pratt & Whitney has developed an even heavier one than the T-40 It is this engine which will be put on the B-36

The Allison T-40, which will be used on the big Navy flying boat, has two unique features. One engine is actually composed of two separate jet turbines This permits turning off one turbine during cruising to save fuel Both are used during the take-off and when extra speed is needed

The other innovation is the use of two three-bladed, counter rotating props. The counter-rotation eliminates torque, the opposite twisting force created by a spinning propeller This is extremely important on the turboprop because of the supersonic speed at which the props whirl.

In discussing what the T-40 can do for the Boeing Stratocruiser Boeing's vice president, Frederick B. Collins, says, "The light weight of turboprops would permit the carrying of more than 1000 extra gallons of fuel Certain ranges would be increased 113 per cent It would take off in 67 per cent of the distance required by the conventional version."

Manchuria Undersells U. S. on Gasoline

HONG KONG — (AP) — Gasoline made in Manchuria is underselling the U. S —made product in Tientsin, recent arrivals from that north China city report

The gasoline, produced by the Fushun Mining administration sells for 30 per cent less than American gasoline A Communist press report from Tientsin says that the Manchurian gasoline is heavier and produces more smoke but otherwise at "compares favorably with imported gasoline."

Corundum, used for abrasives is found in Montana.

Fire Losses Reduced

NEW YORK—(AP)—Newspapers of the United States are given much of the credit for the decrease in fire losses in the past year. The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that 1949 fire losses were 6.1 per cent below the all-time high of $711,114,000 recorded in 1948.

Wendell Sether, public information director of the National Board, says "newspapers in all parts of the country helped save lives and property by educating the public to prevent fires, support modern fire departments and adopt better fire prevention laws"
